

PROMOTER GAVE FIRST PAN AUTO BAD CHARACTER

Scoffed at Design, Comparing It to Product of Blacksmith.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Evidence tending to show that the methods employed in assembling the first Pan Motor cars were perfectly regular and are used by many reputable automobile companies, was submitted by Attorney Cummins, defending the 13 officials of the Pan company, on trial on charges of misusing the mails in promotion of the company.

Letters from Pandolfo to the firm, complaining of work they had done for him, created considerable amusement in the court room.

One epistle by Pandolfo, telling of the danger met with in difficulties overcome on a trip in this first model between Indianapolis and St. Cloud, Minn., was read by Benjamin Epstein, for the prosecution. He told first of the leaks in the engine, which kept the party in Indianapolis a day or two after the time they were scheduled to leave.

"All went well after this until we were about 25 miles out of Indianapolis, when the front axle broke. It is a good thing we were only going about 12 miles an hour and that the road was a smooth one, because if it had not been, I might not be able to dictate this letter to you," the letter says.

Like Blacksmith's Product.

After enumerating the other mishaps of the road, the writer says in closing: "Please re-design the steering gear so that you can steer the car with it. The way it is now, it takes a strong arm and back and a weak mind to turn the automobile on a 40-acre field with it."

In a later letter introduced as evidence, Pandolfo told the Indianapolis firm: "If I had known then, what I know now, I could have ordered a motor, a steering gear and some other stuff, and could have taken them to a country blacksmith to assemble for me. Then I would have had a car. I thought that you would at least put a carburetor into the machine that was a carburetor. I have given you about $50,000 worth of publicity as engineers and, as far as the public goes, it sticks. But you go ahead and make the rest of the cars contracted for as I want them made and I will get along all right."

NATURE'S MIRROR

When a woman is well and healthy—there's a sparkle in her eyes, a rose tint in her cheeks, and she has rich red blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in her step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health—but when she is pallid, dull eyed, languid, she has no magnetism nor does she appeal to any man.

Such a change in feelings and looks!

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

Any Corn Peels Off With "Gets-It." Right off just like a banana peel. You can try to dig or drag out your corns with a "bloody" razor, or use bandages and tape and wrap your toe into a package, but that's the "great-em-rough," painful, foolish way. It does not hurt the true flesh. Try it, trot and smile! It's a blessing; never fails. "Gets-It" is the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Girl Fascinated by Reincarnation Tries to End Life

Chicago Tribune Special Dispatch to Great Falls Daily Tribune.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Georgia Reider, thing she could find on the subject and of reincarnation. She read everything she could find on the subject and talked with every one who had ideas on the topic until it became an obsession with her. She firmly believed she had been here before, perhaps some lower plane and in some other form and she was just as positive in her faith that she would return after what we call death, in still higher form.

Finally her anxiety to start on the great adventure led her to take poison—swallowed the contents of a full bottle of poison tablets. Then she lay down to await the transformation. Death had no terrors for her, for, according to her belief, she had never really died and her spirit or soul, or "spark" never would die, but continue on and on, through the various stages.

However, the end came slowly and the poison began to grip her vitals terribly. Mrs. Pearl Martin, who resides in the flat above her, heard the girl moaning in distress. She speedily summoned assistance and the girl was removed to a hospital where two physicians labored in efforts to eliminate the poison. They consider her chances very slender.

Between her gasps the girl pleaded that she be permitted to die. "It will not be long until I will be back among you, happier and stronger than I now am. Please let me go."

OLD TIME CLASH ON LEADERSHIP ENLIVEN HOUSE

Republicans Use Probes for Party Advantage, Democrat Charges.

Washington, Nov. 3.—An attack on the republican leadership of the house was made today during debate by Representative J. C. McCreary, Democrat, Louisiana, and was followed by a two-hour partisan political fight, centering about a parliamentary effort to expunge the remarks.

After denying the statements of the democratic member Representative Mondell, Wyoming, republican floor leader, withdrew his motion to eliminate the objectionable remarks and the house adjourned until Wednesday.

Mr. Aswell declared that Mr. Mondell had refused to permit him to address the house because the republican leadership "wanted to reveal the rotten leadership of the republican party in this session."

Mr. Aswell also asserted that Mr. Mondell knew that he wished to "expunge the partisanship manifested" by the republican leadership in its inquiry into contracts for war supplies held by R. H. Long, a Massachusetts manufacturer and democratic candidate for governor in tomorrow's election.

In reply to Mr. Aswell, the republican leader denied that he even attempted to block free discussion of any subject.

MINERS' DEMANDS

mand is for six hours. Getting back to the $5 a day man. They now receive 62 1/2 cents an hour. But they want $8 for six hours' work, which means $1.32 1/3 cents an hour. Therefore the hourly wage increase would be 113 per cent over the present scale.

Just what the increase will be in the cost of getting coal to the surface is difficult for an outsider to reckon, but whatever it is the person who wants to keep warm will pay it regardless of the merits of the controversy between the operators and coal diggers.

Miners Plead.

Perhaps the operators would be willing to reduce the week from six to five days. At least some would because they have difficulty in getting all the railroad cars needed into which to load coal. But it now seems probable that the operators will consent to reducing the length of the working day.

The miners want the increase in wage because of the high cost of living. They assert that a compromise wage scale is not fair because it does not indicate the monthly or annual income of the workers but the purpose of this article is to give an impression to the coal consumer. He will be compelled to pay the increased cost of producing coal and is entitled to all the information available on how much that will be.

The weekly increase of the miners has not been as large as that of the steel workers. If the steel workers were entitled to their wages on the basis of the cost of living, the miners have a good claim to an advance—although nothing like 60 per cent over the present schedule.

SELLS $100,000 WORTH OF BOOZE BY $6000 BRIBES

Saloonkeeper Sold 7200 Quarts of Whisky Under Watchers' Noses.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—The sale of 7,200 quarts of bonded whisky for $100,000 and the payment of $6,000 in bribes to police, city officials and other persons, were the charges which caused the internal revenue department to start a sweeping investigation today.

The whisky, which was the property of Isadore Grubiner, a former saloonkeeper, was spirited from a warehouse under the nose of prohibition guardians, according to the charges. Grubiner told a reporter, tonight, that he disposed of the liquor in two days when he "learned that the prohibition enforcement law was about to go into effect and that the liquor was worth more than $50,000."

Warrants for the men implicated will be based on charges of violation of the war-time prohibition act and selling liquor without a wholesaler's or retailer's license.

MEN RETURN

Engineers had been in communication with Mr. Lewis for some time. Mr. Gompers' message was sent Friday after his interview with Mr. Palmer and it probably gave rise to reports Sunday that he had attempted to intervene personally in the strike.

Mr. Palmer said today that while it might become necessary to petition for more injunctions in the coal strike, the time has not yet come to do so.

He said that other injunctions, if obtained, probably would be directed against persons other than those mentioned in the restraining order at Indianapolis.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY ON LIQUOR IN OHIO ELECTION

Amendments to Be Voted on Propose Restoration of License System and 2.75 P. C. Beverages.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 3.—Spokesmen for both the wets and drys claim victory at tomorrow's election, at which Ohioans will vote upon repeal of state-wide prohibition and other prohibition measures by means of two proposed constitutional amendments and two referendums, all initiated by the wets.

The first amendment would repeal state-wide prohibition and re-establish the license system. The second would define intoxicating liquor as that containing 2.75 per cent alcohol (by weight).

The referendums are on the action of the Ohio legislature in ratifying the federal prohibition amendment, and on a state-wide prohibition enforcement bill passed by the last legislature.

SOLDIERS FROZE

For the same work and that he did not dare say anything about it, "because they weren't allowed to."

"You might as well have some of the extra time the other men are getting," the statement of Jess Brandon testified a foreman made to him. On the following pay day he said his pay envelope contained $13 extra. When he spoke of it to the paymaster, he declared, the latter told him he "didn't sound."

He said he was hired to "watch gravel wagons" and that, as a rule, not more than three wagons appeared where he was on a given day. For this, he said, he was paid $51.60 weekly.

When the men could not get anything else to do, they chiseled pieces out of the floor so that they would have to cut and fit new pieces. This was the assertion made by R. D. Ferguson, a carpenter.

Other witnesses related how men hired as carpenters were utilized to carry water.

When Poole testified that more men were "idle than were working," members of the committee asked him to be accounted for the employment of the men who were not performing actual labor.

"I have an idea that every one of those men meant to eat at Bentley's," was his reply. He insisted that agents and foremen of the Bentley company, did not know of idleness and similar conditions among the men.

Mid holes in the entombment were filled by dumping wagon loads of coal and truck loads of lumber in them, according to witness.

Bedroom Periscope of Ma-in-Law Gets Young Wife $10,000

Chicago Tribune Special Dispatch to Great Falls Daily Tribune.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Josephine A. Dyer, who sued her mother-in-law, Mrs. Lizzie Gross, for alienating the affections of Russell Dyer, her husband, was awarded a verdict of $10,000 by a jury in Judge McKinley's court.

Mid is the case where the mother-in-law was accused of maintaining a "bedroom periscope," whereby she could at all times watch the movements of the young couple. This charge was never permitted to close her bedroom door.

In addition, she testified that the elder woman nagged her continuously. She found fault with her cooking, with her housekeeping, with her dress and manner and made her disengage and put on scratchy garments.

The couple were married in July, 1913, and on May, 1914, her husband told her she would have to quit the house, giving no reason whatever. Prior to her departure, she was told that she was never permitted to close her bedroom door.

The statement also reports fierce fighting in the Finnish gulf region and a continued advance by the bolsheviks all along the line against the army of General Yudenitch. The occupation of many villages in the Luga-Gdof sector, east of Lake Peipus, is claimed.

In the campaign against the Poles, the bolsheviks assert their forces have forced crossing of the Berezina.

General Denikine's current communique, received by wireless, claims capture of Bobrov, southeast of Voronezh, toward the right flank of his line. He concedes abandonment of Kromy, in the Orel region.

Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota, a leader of the "mild reservationists," said he would like to see some arrangement such as Senator Hitchcock presented.

Modern Lingerie Is Displayed at Fashion Art Show

Chicago Tribune Special Dispatch to Great Falls Daily Tribune.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Queen Elizabeth of Shakespeare's England wore corsets made of steel plates with brass hinges.

And look at the corset now! See what's happened to it. The Fashion Art show, at the Blackstone Hotel is full of such cute little revelations. The show is designed primarily to show what a first class style center Chicago is. But the beguiling exhibits of lingerie, ancient and modern, the captivating hours, promening in satins and laces, negligees and nighties, fill the observer with philosophic notions.

The most significant part of the show is the history of dress interpreted by a number of movie actresses and capering beauties from the legitimate stage. This exhibition reveals the gradual elimination of prudish modesty from the feminine psyche, the origin of innumerable stylish items. For instance, the Empress Josephine had had teeth. To conceal the fact she had a dainty embroidered little handkerchief made. The handkerchief was useless as a "handy" but the empress always tumbled around her mouth with it as she talked. She set the style for dainty little "kerchiefs. Of the millions of women who use them as face-comitants to sex, few if any realize today that the lace nose dolly was ordinarily designed to hide bad teeth.

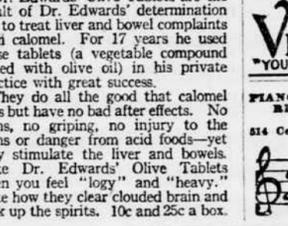

Chicago jargon, spoken by the Indian tribes of the Pacific northwest, is a strange medley of pigeon English and the languages of several of the Indian tribes.

"They do all the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. No pains, no griping, no injury to the gums or danger from acid foods—they stimulate the liver and bowels. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they clear clouded brain and perk up the spirits. 10c and 25c a box.
