ARE REVISING QUEENSBURY RULES TO FIT MODERN BATTLES IN RING

New York, Dec. 6.—Leading representatives of American and European boxing bodies met in London Wednesday night to consider a new set of ring regulations to supersede the Marquis of Queensbury rules, which for decades have governed in all parts of the world. The meeting was attended by Paul Rousseau, president of the French federation of boxing; A. F. Hutchinson, of the national sporting club; Eugene Corri, famous referee; James Breyer, French promoter; and other prominent boxing authorities. At the meeting, a representative of the army, navy, and civilian board of boxing control of America and the International Sporting club of New York, submitted the draft of the new code to be known as the international boxing rules. Private advices indicate that the new regulations found favor and probably will be adopted, with some minor changes, as the rules of the International Boxing Federation for the control of the ring contests throughout the world.

The referee shall also count out a boxer who drops to the floor without being hit and, in case such boxer goes down under such conditions, after rising from a legitimate knockdown, the count shall begin from the point where he arose from such legitimate knockdown.

When A Boxer's Down.
A boxer shall be considered "down" when any part of his body other than his feet is on the floor, or when hanging helplessly on the ropes, but the referee shall be the judge of such a condition.

Among the fouls covered in the new rules is one that a boxer arising from the floor, following a knockdown, is fouled if struck before he is in defensive position.

Must Defend Title.
Among a long series of recommendations suggested for the combined co-operation of the boxing organizations of the world is one providing that the winner of an international championship must defend his title within one year after winning it, and every six months thereafter, he must accept a challenger, opponent, or forfeit all right to such championship.

Harvard Wants Game With Illinois, Asks Western Team to East

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 6.—The athletic committee of the University of Illinois had before it today a request from Harvard for a place on its football schedule next fall. The question of accepting Harvard's invitation, it was said, depended somewhat on the Illinois schedule with western conference teams, which is expected to be drawn up at a meeting in Chicago today.

GAMBLING RAID, EIGHT ARRESTED

Seven Said to Have Admitted That Larson Was Proprietor of Game.

Alben Larson, alleged to have been proprietor of a poker game at the Club pool hall Saturday night, and George Burnett, arrested with Larson and other men, were held at the county jail at midnight on charges of gambling. Deputy Sheriff E. J. Tait raided the club alone at 10, finding eight men, he says, around a card table. Six packs of cards and a large number of chips were confiscated as evidence.

All eight of the men were taken to the county jail in the police patrol, and were examined by Deputy County Attorney F. A. Ewald. Seven of them, it was declared, admitted that a game of draw poker was in progress when Tait entered the pool hall. Chips were selling at 10 cents, 50 cents and $5, according to the statements made to Deputy Ewald.

Six of the men were released after they had told their stories, but will be available as witnesses in case they are needed. Larson and Burnett will be held until they furnished bail. Deputy Ewald said.

ROBBERY REPORTED AT LOCAL POOLHALL

Sam Dick Alleges That His Money Was Appropriated When He Set Into Game.

Tony Caroulous, connected with a Greek pool hall at 118 Third street south, was arrested at midnight by Sheriff J. P. Burns and Deputy E. J. Tait on complaint of Sam Dick, who said that Caroulous had robbed him and another man of $15.

Dick declared that when he and his friend went into the place they were invited to sit in a game of cards, but that when he changed a $20 bill $15 was appropriated by Caroulous and another man. The second suspect left the pool hall when the officers arrived.

Sam Dick is a brother of Roupan Dick, well known on the south side. Sam told Sheriff Burns that his brother knew the circumstances of the alleged robbery, but Roupan asserted that he had nothing to say. Caroulous was taken to the county jail.

He Seeks to Recover Oil Company Stocks Pledged in a Deal

Special to The Daily Tribune.

Sennet to make a financial deal in the interests of the company and that actual ownership was not intended to be transferred, Gordon Campbell, discoverer of the Devils basin oil field has filed suit against Sennet to recover the value of the shares, which is approximately $125,000. Sennet failed to secure the finances which he was to get and then, it is alleged, refused to turn the stock back to Campbell. The transfer is alleged to have occurred in December, 1917. Now that the stock is valuable, recourse is had to the courts to reimburse Campbell.

BASEBALL SUFFERS AS MAGNATES FUSS; GAME NEEDS THEM

Suggested and Necessary Reforms Held Back by Dissension Among Owners.

By J. E. SANBORN.
Chicago Tribune Special Dispatch to Great Falls Daily Tribune.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—How much legislation for the improvement of baseball will be possible during the coming winter depends largely on how much the American league will be able to function for the benefit of the sport with its ranks torn by dissension.

The National league stands ready to consider and legislate in favor of several suggested reforms in the game, the most important of which are the elimination of freak pitching, the abolition of the out on a foul fly and the compulsory camouflaging of the international base on balls to heavy batsmen in the pinches.

All these have been advocated by fans, writers and by some of the club owners for a number of years. But for quite a spell the majors have been too busy engaged in mending their own fences to take much thought of little things, like improvements in the sport, which has still absolutely no national league.

New Comes Civil War.
Just as the pastime is getting back on its feet the American league has a "civil war" of its own to tangle up the works. Least the public fail to grasp the significance of it, we will explain that all rule changes must be made with the sanction of the National and American league, according to the national agreement, which has been in force since 1903.

Consequently, since the National league cannot agree on the choice of a trio of its members to act with a like committee from the National league on suggested changes in the rules of the game, there is no action this year. Suppose five American league club owners respond to President Johnson's call for the annual meeting of the organization to be held in Chicago Wednesday and three directors meet in New York in response to their own call for the annual meeting to be held there. Each faction may appoint a rules committee to meet with the National league and thereby reduce to a minimum all chance of improvement in the game before another year.

It seems to be the policy of the National league to insist on the National league's internal row and if it were put up to the officials of the veteran organization to recognize either a rules committee appointed by Ban Johnson or one selected by the Comiskey trio, it probably would sidestep the issue.

That is an unfortunate situation because the major leagues now practically legislate, so far as playing rules are concerned, for the entire world of baseball, amateur, semi-pro and professional. Since the breach between the majors and minors, one or two of the latter have done some things independently, for instance the abolition of the spit ball in the American association. But in general the rule code sanctioned by the two major leagues govern all baseball games.

May Have Outside Body.
If, because of the American league tangle, the majors continue to disregard proposed improvements there will be a strong demand before another year to separate the rule-making power from the purely commercial precincts of the major leagues and substitute a body capable of looking beyond self-interest and politics in the interests of what Judge Landis characterized as a "national institution."

Merely as a suggestion, a body composed of umpires and baseball writers of experience could be entrusted with rule legislation. The former would supply the practical ideas, while the latter would furnish the theories and the wishes of the fans, with whom the scribes are in closer contact than the club owners or umpires can be.

EFFORT TO HALT MEET CALLED BY JOHNSON PROVES A FLIWER

Application for Restraining Order Against American League Head Is Withdrawn.

New York, Dec. 6.—The New York American league club today withdrew its application for a temporary injunction restraining Ban Johnson, president of the American league, from holding the annual meeting of the league in Chicago next Wednesday. The hearing was held before Justice Samuel Greenbaum of the supreme court here last Thursday and a decision was expected today.

According to the New York club, legal points came up which made it advisable to withdraw the injunction.

"The board of directors, however, take the stand that the meeting called for New York next Wednesday is the only legal meeting, and that if five other clubs meet in Chicago at Johnson's call, their meeting is illegal," said Colonel Huston, half owner of the local club, today.

According to the new York club, legal points came up which made it advisable to withdraw the injunction.

"If any illegal meeting is held in Chicago and attempts made to elect a new board of directors, it will mean that the board is illegally elected and that the present board of directors will look over. Any action which might be attempted by an illegal board of directors will be fought by every legal means within our power."

Basket Shooters Have Turned Out in Strong Style

Although 163 candidates for basketball have turned out at the high school, Coach M. L. Crouch is pessimistic about the prospects for a basketball team this year. Out of this number only two old men are back, Hoffman and Heath, who played guard positions last season.

Coach Crouch is now working on this wealth of material with the hopes of developing a quintet which will make a showing after the Christmas holidays. The class of 1920 will be played next year. The schedule has not yet been completed, but one game with Haver, Jan. 16, has been arranged definitely.

The class of candidates is so large that before the class tournament can be held each class will be divided into three teams, according to weight. These inter-class contests will not be played until after the Christmas holidays. Coach Crouch hopes to be able to select some promising material from this series of games, but at present he can make no prophesy.
