Rosa Ponsella Sings Beautiful Love Song

Rosa Ponsella, whose dramatic soprano has thrilled many New York Metropolitan opera house audiences, sings that simple love song "Values" for Columbia records this month. Her interpretation of this ballad is just as vivid as if she were singing some great soaring opera aria. Margaret Romaine, New York Metropolitan oper company star, has made Columbia records this month of two ardent messages of love. "Your Eyes Have Told Me So," and "Deep in My Heart" are worthy of her operatic soprano. The New York Metropolitan opera house orchestra under the direction of Giuseppe Bamboschek plays selections from "La Traviata" for Columbia records. There can be no better interpreters of these beautiful opera airs than these artists with their years of experience.

"Mary's Ankle" Screamingly Funny Comedy, Will Start Here Sunday

The Associated Players at the Palace theater will start their next week Sunday night with a production of that screamingly funny play entitled "Mary's Ankle."

When the play was first produced in New York in the season of 1918, Irene Fenick was the featured player and in it made one of the biggest successes of the season. Such a hit was that play that it has since been done in the films and also scored heavily as a picture. The story would be spoiled in the telling, but it is sufficient to say that gales of laughter will greet the play when this story is disclosed. The stock company has an excellent cast for it, Director Harry Leland states, and judging of the work of the players in comedy roles thus far, much can be expected. Special scenery has been provided for the play—every care being given to its staging by Director Leland himself. The second half of the week starting Thursday night a mystery drama "The Other Wife" will be offered. This is another big eastern success, so the week at the Palace promises much in the way of good entertainment.

Red Cross in Need of Clothing for Drouth Sufferers

There is an unusual need for old clothing by the home service of the Red Cross. Men's clothing is much in demand. There are many cases where the individual hardly has sufficient clothing to keep warm in the present weather, and because of last year's pinch and loss of crop and effort, the people are not able to buy clothing at the present prices, according to Mrs. Harriet Carrier, executive secretary of the local Red Cross.

Mrs. Carrier, accompanied by Miss Mary Hansen, went into the country Saturday to call upon persons whom the local chapter had been assisting and found clothing much needed. Mrs. Carrier asks any who may have old things which they have discarded but which might yet give some service to call home service, 9080, and some one will be sent to get the articles.
