

HE LIES FOR HOURS UNDER HORSES' FEET IN ISOLATED FIELD

Held Down by Disc's Sharp Knives Silver Bow Farmer Long Faces Awful Death.

Special to The Daily Tribune. Harlem, Aug. 19.—Pinned to the ground with a sharp cutter of a disc resting upon one leg, out of sight from anyone who might render assistance, the boiling sun beating down upon him and the injured leg swelling painfully as the hours sped by and added to this the fact that a team of horses were attached to the disc which might move at any time and pull the knives over his body, was the experience Tuesday of J. C. McGuire, of Silver Bow. It was due only to the fact that he had a gentle and obedient team of horses that he escaped with his life. McGuire was alone in the field and when the seat of the disc broke and he fell forward under the heels of the horses. He called to them to stop but before the disc stopped it had rolled up on one of his legs holding him pinned to the ground. Threatened by the disc behind and the hoofs of the horses ahead McGuire lay in deadly peril for four hours until discovered by his grandson who summoned help. Although an aged man Mr. McGuire expects soon to be able to lie up again.

ROBT. L. CLINTON Republican Candidate Says: Believing that these are days of reconstruction after the war, in which many radical changes must be made in our political forms of government, in order to perfect these reforms the candidate, if elected, must be entirely free to act upon his best judgment. In the first place, it is probably agreed by all candidates that the expense of conducting the state of Montana has greatly exceeded all calculations. It has grown from something like $600,000 per year to something like $10,000,000 per year. We believe that this is the result of one party too long in power, not so much an individual criticism as the usual abuse of a power long held. We have gotten away from the saloon and the political convention and the organization of politics along these lines; it means something new; it means a change from the old political government to a new business government, or confiscation of property through taxation, and nothing short of radical improvement will satisfy the public mind. If nominated and elected to this office, we will be able, in so far as the law gives us power, to proceed to make the new order of things. We also believe that if the primary law has any merit, it is to develop the personality of men; it is to permit men to come forward with the public approval, which the primary law gives, and if nominated and elected, that they can serve the public interests and listen to the public demand. The state is normally republican and always has been, but for twenty-seven years we have been able to elect almost everybody but the governor. We think the folks should carefully investigate, because the folks have the votes and can name whoever they may will, and it is up to the folks, rather than to small groups of men, whether non-partisan or otherwise, to name the candidate of this great state for governor. (Approved and Published by R. L. Clinton Club for Governor.)
