The Copper Queen Store

The International-American will publish this department every Saturday. Its aim is to make the department of interest exclusively to women, and to this end the editor will appreciate any suggestion, comment or criticism sent to this office. Little stories touching the lives of women in the west will be particularly welcome and anything of general interest will be published, with or without the contributor's name, as desired. Local quips are especially desirable.

Any question addressed to the editor of this department will be gladly answered in the column and should any housewife want some particular cookin recipe which she cannot find at home it will be hers for the asking.

Questions concerning the care of the skin, hair or in any way relating to the toilet, will be answered to the best of the editor's ability, and recipes for skin foofs, cold creams, etc., will be furnished.

It should be understood that no question will be answered by mail, no business address furnished and no questions involving medical advice answered.

Peach Cobbler.

The peach cobbler, that delicious southern concoction, is a cross between a pudding and a pie. This, according to tradition, should be baked in an earthen pudding dish at least three and a half inches deep. There should be no bottom crust, but simply a fine rich crust at sides and top. The richest and ripest peaches obtainable are none too good for a cobbler. Butter the pudding dish and line the sides with puff paste. Peel enough ripe, luscious peaches to fill the dish, tearing them apart, but leaving the pits in to impart their distinctive almondlike flavor. Cover the dish with a layer of flaky paste, sealing carefully at the rim where it joins the sides, to prevent its boiling over. Bake about an hour in a steady oven, not too quick. If there is any danger of scorching, cover with paper. When nearly done, bring to the edge of oven, dust with powdered sugar and set back to glaze. Serve either hot or cold.

Ethel Barrymore's Briton.
Something of a mild sensation has been caused by the announcement of the engagement between Captain Henry Graham and Ethel Barrymore. Financially, the captain is not much of a catch, but he is a swell of the first order, is received at court, moves in the best circles and is a great ladies' man.

Miss Barrymore, with her beauty and her wit and the social prestige she enjoys through her intimacy with the Duchess of Sutherland, might have had the pick of a score of wealthy bachelors and thereafter would have been able to gratify the most luxurious tastes without any necessity of having recourse to the stage.

Even cynics, therefore, are forced to the conclusion that it is a love match on both sides.

But no date has yet been set for the wedding, and the old adage about the frequent slips that occur between the cup and the lip may be again verified.

Care of One's Clothes.
We all like good clothes and a feeling of being well dressed. It is not entirely a question of money; it is also a matter of detail and of giving a small portion of our time to keeping our belongings in order. No matter how expensive or well fitting one's dress is, the appearance is spoiled by a soiled stock or piece of lace or a crushed and frayed skirt.

Just stop and think what a saving of time and money the short skirt is to a woman, especially the busy woman. No skirt braids need renewal, no frayed edges to give her an untidy appearance.

Take a look at your everyday skirt and think what an improvement a good pressing would be to it. This can be done very easily at home, and should be done every week or two. Place your skirt on a covered ironing board and have handy two hot irons rather heavy in weight; now cover the portions to be pressed with a thoroughly wet piece of unbleached muslin folded double, and when pressing don't move the iron too quickly over it, but press until the material stops steaming, says Woman's Life.

Should there remain dull or glazed spots, sponge lightly and press again. This repressing, when damp, will form steam that will remove such spots.

CHAT OF THE BOUDOIR.

Care of the Skin.

When the skin of the body is not attending to its share of the work—and it cannot when its pores are clogged—the face has to double its duty in throwing off effete matter; therefore, when there is more than it can dispose of, facial blemishes result. Both sea salt and camphor, combined or separately, act as tonics for the skin, and should be used freely. The salt, to be bought at any drugist's, may either be thrown into the bath or rubbed dry on the body while the latter is still wet. In this case the body may be rinsed again if one dislikes the feeling of salt, though it is very beneficial.

Chiffon and Gauze.

Most people will be glad of the return into fashion of what are best described as voluminous swathings of chiffon and gauze, which came into fashion two years ago, and then died abruptly because they had been put to a wrong purpose by being worn in cities instead of in small towns and in the country.

In cities they were absurd and inappropriate; they caught on the doors of broughams and hansoms; they were impossible with neck ruffles; they disguised a woman far too completely to allow her to hold her own in a crowd. So they perished. But in the country and at the seaside they are altogether another thing, and absolutely fascinating when floating round a big, shady hat, or turned back over its brim and framing the face of the wearer in a transparent halo of shimmering gauze.

Care of the Clothes.

Many women, after securing good, desirable clothing, frequently look poorly dressed, simply because they do not understand the care that wearing apparel requires to keep it fresh in appearance. After each wearing a suit or gown requires some shaking and brushing. A skirt should always be pressed before being hung away. If dust and spots are allowed to remain in the cloth they not only stain but rot it. When not in use skirts and jackets should be suspended from hangers, as they then retain their original shape.

Eat Spinach for Beauty.

Eat plenty of spinach. It acts as a tonic and beautifier. Good soap, soft water, plenty of fruit, early hours and a daily walk in all weathers. Bathe the face every night with equal quantities of warm milk and water. It keeps the skin fair and smooth. When washing the hair it is necessary harmless shampoos should be chosen. The simplest, which can always be made, is to melt a cake of castile soap in a quart of boiling water. Put it into a wide-mouth jar and use about two tablespoonfuls at a time. Massage well into the scalp.

To Improve Cocoa's Flavor.

Beat the cocoa or chocolate with an egg beater and the flavor and general deliciousness of the beverage will be greatly increased. Let the cocoa boil thoroughly, for this is essential if the best results are to be obtained. Then add the milk and wait until the liquid again comes to a boil. When that moment arrives, produce the egg-beater and beat the beverage until it is covered with a heavy froth, then pour into dainty chocolate cups and serve. The family or invited guests may be expected to delight your heart by commenting very pleasantly upon the creamy texture of the cocoa and its unusually fine flavor.

ABSCESS.

ABSCESSSES, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctors told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I saw in Denver, Colo.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment: I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world. Sold by Rinehart's Pharmacy."

EFFINGER WITH MCKANE.

Martin L. Effinger, formerly of Calumet, who is a half owner and general manager of the Lookout property in Fish lake valley, near Tonopah, has now as a partner John McKane, Nevada representative of Charles M. Schwab. McKane and Dr. Edward Bowes recently purchased the half interest of George E. McClelland, Effinger's former associate. A 10-stamp mill is designed, to be in operation within 60 days. A new ore shoot was recently discovered at a depth of 200 feet with five feet of $60 ore and two feet of $225 ore.
