DETECTIVE AND PHYSICIAN GET PRISONER HERE

Maddox, Former Railway Conductor Charged With Crime, Pleaded Illness, Case Delayed at Tucson.

The departure of Clarence Maddox from this city for Tucson which occurred Tuesday, had delayed it a sharp clash between United States Attorney Alexander and Judge J. W. Lovell and Attorney Richey. Maddox, who was wanted in Tucson on a charge of rifling a box car belonging to the Southern Pacific railway.

Maddox has been in the city some time and has been under medical treatment. When his case came up at Tucson he was not present and his counsel presented to the court an affidavit from Dr. F. J. Hat of this city to the effect that he was not able to be removed.

United States Attorney Alexander seemed skeptical on the point and the following day a detective and a physician appeared in Bisbee and paid a visit in company with Dr. Hat to Maddox. He was found to be ill, as had been reported, and was pulse to be two degrees below normal. His physician stated that he had been suffering from this depression for some time, and that he grew faint whenever he arose.

After considerable consultation it was decided to attempt the trip, but not until Dr. Hart had secured Dr. E. S. Godfrey, of Lowell, to accompany Maddox to Tucson. This was done, and Dr. Godfrey returned last night reporting that the patient stood the trip fairly well considering his condition.

In his account of the case the Tucson Star mentions that a tremendous crowd, although the men were battling for a comparatively small stake. Only $1,375 in American money went to the boxes, but they are said to have posted a bet of $200 each. Roche was not a match for Squires at any stage.

It had first been planned to send the winner against Burke for a second time, but it is probably Burke will decline on the ground of the men not being strong enough attraction as drawing cards. Squires showed that he had picked up some points from the American game by displaying improved form over that displayed while training in Australia and America.

COPPER QUEEN TRIAL IS BEGUN AT TOMBSTONE

Territory Presented Much of Its Evidence Yesterday and Case Will Be Concluded Likely Today.

(Special to the Review.)
TOMBSTONE, May 6.—The attention of the district court was taken up during the entire day in the hearing of the case of the Territory vs. the Copper Queen company for back taxes alleged to be due. The first question taken up by Judge Nave was the plea in abatement that was presented by Messrs. Ellinwood and Herring, attorneys for the company, which went to the fact that there was nothing in the records of the board of supervisors' office to show that the board had ever ordered that the back tax case be brought against the Copper Queen company and that the minutes of the board of supervisors during the year 1904. The question was argued at some length by the attorneys on both sides. The defense introduced some testimony in support of their contentions while the territory introduced but the contract made between the board of supervisors of Cochise county and W. G. Gilmore on February of this year, showing that he was to begin suit for the collection of all back taxes. After hearing the argument the court denied the plea in abatement.

The motion of the attorneys of the company to strike from the complaint all of the assessment that went to the personal property listed was then taken up. The court ruled that all of the personal property with the exception of the "hoisting works, etc." listed at $44,541 and the smelting works listed at $112,451 and the cars and car track at $6,000, be stricken from the complaint. To this ruling the attorneys for the territory excepted while the company attorneys accepted to the ruling of the court in excepting the smelting and hoisting works from the ruling. The ruling of the court will remove from the complaint the entire assessment placed against the merchandise and other personal property listed, amounting in round figures to $110,970.

The next question taken up was the disposition of the demurrers to the complaint the first fifteen demurrers were overruled by the court to which ruling an exception was taken by the attorneys for the defendants. At this stage the court adjourned for noon recess.

This afternoon the other special demurrers were overruled and the trial of the case was taken up. The territory presented nearly all of its evidence. It is likely that the case will be concluded tomorrow. The evidence of the territory consisted chiefly in official records bearing on the case which were submitted.

A REVIVAL IN TEXAS STARTS RAILROAD TALK

(Special to the Review.)
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 6.—Revival from the financial depression which is taking place rapidly in south-west Texas owing to the bounteous crop prospects has brought life to the projected railroad lines. Mr. W. A. Squires, general manager of the Panhandle short lines announced that work has already begun on his road between Uvalde, west of this city on the Southern Pacific and Crystal city to the south.

Dr. G. F. Simmons is also ready to begin work on his short line of railroad to connect Atascosa and Live Oak counties with this city. This will open up a rich agricultural country.

A HORSE THIEF, GEORGE ARNETT, PAYS PENALTY

his hands, and he opened fire on them. The fire was rapid and at a distance of about twenty feet. It was very dark and Arnett was about fifty feet away when he fired his last shot, which there were two. Humm then picked up his rifle and fired once at Arnett as he was crossing the ridge at an angle. Both officers followed him some distance, but they were on foot and their attempts would be of no use, so they returned to Lovell and secured horses at a livery stable, going there by way of the telusson addition. When they returned they found one of the stolen horses and laid the other one. They tied their reins together and proceeded to look for the man, who they now suspected of being injured. At break of day the dead body was discovered. The coroner was then notified. On the way back the jurymen picked up the hat of the dead man and also his chains.

Captain Wheeler was the next witness. His testimony was in nearly every instance identical with that of Humm. The officers and the fugitive opened fire at about the same time, the latter shooting a second before the other. The man from Arnett's gun struck a bush between the officers. Captain Wheeler then noticed that the second horse which he thought was a pack horse, followed at a pretty good pace, and concluded that if he was able to get away in such good grace that he was uninjured. He tried to follow him, but saw that it was useless and too difficult to follow on foot. Then they came to Lowell and secured horses. Upon returning they found the horses and later, at daylight, found the body. When questioned by Assistant County Attorney Taylor, Captain Wheeler stated that he is positive that the first shot was fired by the fugitive. He stated: "I was pointing my gun at him and holding my light at arm's length to detract his aim, the light shining in his face, he fired a second before I pulled the trigger of my gun. Humm opened fire upon him at the same time did. I would like to state that we did all we could to arrest him, allowing him to approach within ten feet, in order to show him that he had no chance whatever for escape, but he seemed to think that he had. I have heard a relative state that Arnett had said that he would never submit to arrest."

James E. Brophy, proprietor of the livery stable from which the horses were stolen on the night of the 5th, stated that he had been notified by his help that two horses had been stolen from the stables, but that he was informed of the fact after the animals had been returned. One belonged to himself, a roan, branded "44," and the other the property of Ralph Caldwell, superintendent of the Warren electric line. The animal belonging to Caldwell was shot in two places, in both instances the bullets passing through the hind legs.

W. H. Goode, the next witness, identified one of the saddles, a bridle and a pair of chaps as being the property of Albert Christian, who lives with his wife in Bisbee. He stated that this property disappeared from his place on the night of April 23. This saddle was also identified by C. H. Dusold and J. F. Vaughan. The latter repaired it several months ago, and was familiar with the different parts.

John Gerdes, foreman at the Brophy stables, stated that he was notified of the horses being stolen when he arrived at the stables yesterday morning at 5:30 o'clock, by the night man, John Carlson. He went with the officers later in the day and secured the animals.

W. B. Maxwell identified the other

EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY

Australia Secured Easy Victory Last Week in Dublin.

DUBLIN, May 6.—Bill Squires of Australia knocked out Jim Roche, who claimed the championship of Ireland until Tommy Burns, the American, stole him away, in the fourth round of their bout last week. The result came after Squires had held a lead from the start, the blows which ended the affair being a left to the body and a right to the jaw.

The match attracted a tremendous crowd, although the men were battling for a comparatively small stake. Only $1,375 in American money went to the boxes, but they are said to have posted a bet of $200 each. Roche was not a match for Squires at any stage.

It had first been planned to send the winner against Burke for a second time, but it is probably Burke will decline on the ground of the men not being strong enough attraction as drawing cards. Squires showed that he had picked up some points from the American game by displaying improved form over that displayed while training in Australia and America.

saddle as being his property, and which was stolen from his barn on the night of April 21, another before that belonging to Mr. Christian was stolen. This saddle was identified also by Joseph Boyle, Wiley Fitzgerald and George Hunter.

Captain Wheeler was recalled and identified the saddles as being the same as those on the animals in the morning.

Edward Payne was the next witness. He stated that he had known Arnett for about four years. Saw him last about two months ago. Had a falling out with him regarding a family affair, and over which, Payne admitted, several shots had been fired. Had made a trip with Arnett into Sonora or a hunting and mining expedition, the only trip he ever made with the deceased. They crossed the line at Naco. The saddles were the property of Arnett, as was one horse, the other animal being borrowed from a friend of Arnett in Bisbee. He came back by rail, while Arnett returned by horseback. When he returned he had the same outfit he had when he went to Sonora. This trip was made five months ago. Arnett Taylor tried to lead Payne out on several important lines, but he failed to succeed in his wishes.

John Carlson, the man who was in charge of the Brophy stables at the time of the stealing, stated that he was at Warren late at night, and when he returned to the foreman he noticed that two of the horses had been stolen or had strayed from the stables, although their tie ropes were also missing. He reported the absence of the animals to the foreman in the morning. He did not rest out or loan the animals to anyone.

Frank Arnett, a brother of the deceased, stated on the stand that George Arnett was born in the United States and that his father was an American, while his mother was Spanish. He stated that deceased was about 38 years of age. He asked permission to ask questions, which was granted, and he desired to know the number of empty shells in the gun belonging to his brother. The answer was "two." He then thanked the officers for granting his request.

A witness who knew a great deal concerning the actions of Arnett was Mrs. Edward Payne, whose husband testified a short time before. She stated that he last time she saw him was about two or three months ago. She had been on friendly terms with him for some time, had visited his family and he had called at her home. He was inclined to be somewhat of a braggart and had told her of his holding up people and taking their money away from them. That in one instance he had held up a gambler at the ice plant in Lowell. He also bragged about his citizenship in keeping out of the clutches of the officers in running horses over the line into Mexico. This was some time ago, just before Christmas. At one time she had asked Deputy Sheriff Frank Bauer for protection, as she feared that Arnett would keep his word and kill her and her daughter, as he had threatened to do. She stated the reason for his making the threat is that she probably knew too much regarding his unlawful operations. On one occasion, as she was on her way to her home in Bakerville from Lowell, on a dark evening, at about 9:30 o'clock, someone had shot several times at her and she believed that Arnett had done the

THE VERDICT

The verdict of the jury was as follows: That the deceased, George O. Arnett, 37 years of age, a native of the United States, died near Lowell on May 6, 1908, from the result of a gunshot wound inflicted by George Humm and Captain Harry Wheeler, in the discharge of their duty, and we, the jury, exonerate said officers from all blame, as they were in the discharge of their duty at the time.

The jury was composed of Charles Monroe, Jesse T. Toland, Ed Ely, G. R. Cassey, John Collough and A. D. Tankley.

The verdict was in accord with the popular sentiment. The officers have been raised on every hand regarding the way they performed their duty, and their fairness in permitting the dead man to surrender without a struggle. Arnett is suspected of committing crime by the wholesale in the district, and is credited with holding up the Chinamen in Tombstone Canyon several months ago, and for which he was arrested, but which could not be proven against him. There are many thefts of horses and saddles laid at his door, and it is the general opinion of the public that a dangerous man has met his end.

George Arnett leaves two brothers and a wife and children, all residing in Lowell. No disposition has yet been made of the remains.
