POPE TAKES UP PLUCKY FIGHT

Princess Rospigliosi's Case, by Intervention of Pontiff, to Be Reheard

SEEKS ANNULMENT OF HER FIRST MARRIAGE

ROME, July 24.—The long and plucky fight of an American woman to secure a recognition by the Catholic church of her marriage with the scion of one of the oldest houses in Italy has won the chivalric heart of the Pope, and the Rospigliosi case is to be reopened. Through the direct intervention of Pope Pius, the Rota Tribunal will resume a consideration of the petition of the Princess and Princess Rospigliosi to have annulled the first marriage of his wife, who was Miss Mary Jennings Reid, of Washington, with Colonel F. H. Parkhurst, of Bangor, Maine.

The Congregation of the Propaganda decided adversely in the Princeps in 1908, but it is believed that the Pope leans now to the opinion that justice may have been done. The Princess, and it is quite within the possibilities that she may win the fight that she has waged unceasingly for eight years. The effort of the Prince and Princess to have their civil marriage, which was celebrated in Italy on August 27, 1901, sanctioned by the Roman Church through an annulment of the Princess's first marriage, has become a cause celebre in Rome. The Princess is the daughter of the late S. C. Reid and was born in New Orleans, though most of her early life was passed in Washington. She is the granddaughter of Samuel Chester Reid, who commanded the American privateer General Armstrong in the famous engagement with a British vessel at Fayal in the war of 1812.

This same Captain Reid designed the present American flag, and Princess Rospigliosi's grandmother made the first flag from this design. Further back the Princess traces her ancestry to Lord Reid, of Glasgow, and on her mother's side she is descended from the old Roman family of Kenrick.

Descendant of the Pope. The family of which her husband, Prince Rospigliosi, is the head has furnished a successor to the throne of St. Peter in Pope Clement IX, and all the male members are hereditary princes of the Holy Roman Empire. It is the high standing of the Princess's family, his close association with the Church, and the standing of the Princess herself, together with her beauty and charm, that have attracted so much attention to the case. At the height of her career as a beauty and wit in Washington Miss Reid met and married Frederick H. Parkhurst, of Bangor, who later became a senator.

DOMESTIC TRADE IS THEME OF ADDRESS

Secretary of Commerce and Labor Says U. S. Must Enter Foreign Field

CHICAGO, July 24.—Secretary of Commerce and Labor Charles Nagel addressed the National Travelers' association convention here tonight. Nagel said in part: "It goes without saying that the tremendous undeveloped resources of this country have up to this time been almost entirely unexplored. We are bound to look to and depend upon our domestic trade."

"It is equally clear that we are rapidly moving beyond the initial stage of development and that we are forced to look to our resources in foreign markets. The demand for a downward revision of the tariff is based primarily upon the recognition that our infant industries have reached the stage of maturity. We need to have protection at these junctures, which can be had only under consistent and uniform legislation."

CHIEF OF POLICE IS IMPLICATED IN PLOT TO ASSASSINATE CZAR

After Recognition Startles Russian Public By Full Confession

IS NOW RETIRED FROM DUTY ON GOOD PENSION

ST. PETERSBURG, July 24.—General Harting, former chief of the Russian police, who recently was denounced by M. Bourzoff as being implicated in a plot to assassinate Emperor Alexander III, has been in St. Petersburg for the last two weeks arranging his affairs. He has been retired from the police service at his own request on an annual pension of $2,500.

In an interview today, which was secured with much difficulty, General Harting, known also as Michael Landeman, made the important announcement that Axel, a leader of the fighting revolutionists, and a noted police spy whom the Russian police profess to be seeking throughout the world, is now in Russia occupying an important post in the so-called third section, or political police. General Harting is residing in one of the apartments maintained by the police where they can meet the revolutionary agents, and he consented to talk. When convinced that he was recognized he readily admitted his identity with the terrorist Landeman, and in his early youth he sincerely believed in the principles of terrorism and participated under the name of Landeman in planning with others the assassination of Alexander III in 1880. He denied, however, that he had betrayed his comrades to the French police, as A. Bourzoff has charged.

DEGRADATION IS SANCTIONED

King Alfonso Himself Said to Have Advised Marriage of Bourbon Prince

CONDEMNATION THEN FOLLOWS QUICKLY

PARIS, July 24.—Details surrounding the romantic marriage of Prince Alfonso of Bourbon-Orleans to Princess Beatrice of Sax-Coburg, which cost him his position as prince of the royal house of Spain and his career in the Spanish army, today came into the possession of the Associated Press.

They revealed the fact that King Alfonso, instead of refusing his consent to the marriage, as was reported by Madrid dispatches, actually advised the prince to marry her secretly and personally intervened by telegraph with the Emperor, and the marriage took place to procure a dispensation for it.

The story was obtained from the prince's own lips by friends a few days ago in Munich, where the couple are spending their honeymoon, and when it became known in Europe it is likely to create a greater sensation than did the wedding and the prince's disgrace.

In Love at 20 Prince Alfonso and Princess Beatrice first met in 1906 on the occasion of King Alfonso's marriage. The prince then was only 20 year old, and fell desperately in love with the princess and proposed marriage; but Beatrice refused him at first.

Later at La Granja King Alfonso formally asked the hand of Princess Beatrice for his own, and when Beatrice raised the question of religion the king said: "I give you my word of honor there will not be the slightest difficulty."

The prince then proposed again, and was accepted. When he returned to Madrid, King Alfonso asked Premier Maura what he thought of the marriage, and the premier replied that the marriage of an infant of Spain to a Protestant could not take place on account of governmental difficulties. King Alfonso was absolutely furious. Princess Beatrice, because of her friendship for Queen Victoria, said she would give up the prince, and King Alfonso summoned the prince to Madrid and asked him what he intended to do. The prince replied that he had given his word and that he intended to marry the princess regardless of consequences.

King Sanctioned Marriage. King Alfonso warmly congratulated the prince, saying that his reply was just what he had expected, and even if the constitution prevented him from giving official consent without the approval of his minister, he, as Alfonso of Bourbon, would do everything in his power for the couple.

Princess Beatrice then left Madrid, and Prince Alfonso, on the advice of the king, went to see Pope Pius and asked for a dispensation for a mixed marriage. The Spanish government

NINETY BANDS AND THOUSAND BANNERS IN LONDON PARADE

Famous Hyde Park Holds Monster Demonstration in Support of Budget

500,000 PERSONS HEAR SPEECHES BY NOTED MEN

LONDON, July 24.—At the Hyde Park demonstrations which have been in the course of preparation for several weeks, prior to the speeches part of the great procession, estimated at 20,000 persons, marched through the principal thoroughfares of the city to the park. Ninety bands and thousands of banners endorsed the march. "The earth is the Lord's," "lands for the landless," "abolish poverty," "the commons must rule," and "tax the land and not food," were typical mottoes inscribed on the banners.

No Hyde Park demonstrations of recent years has been able to boast of such an array of members of parliament as spoke this afternoon from platforms erected in London's great open-air meeting place in support of the chancellor of the exchequer, Lloyd-George's budget. The crowd in the park was approximated at 500,000 people.

FATAL WRECK LEADS TO HORRIBLE RESULT

Many Passengers Caught Like Rats in a Trap When Train Jumps Track

KANSAS CITY, July 24.—At least two persons are known to be dead, fifteen are missing and between twenty-five and thirty are injured as the result of a wreck of the Wabash passenger train No. 4, thirty miles east of here tonight. The train fell into the Missouri river where the track had been weakened by a landslide.

The dead are engineer Philip Flowers and fireman D. Bond. The engine, baggage car, mail car, smoker and a dead-end sleeper plunged into the water and were completely submerged.

Many of the injured passengers are seriously hurt. In the darkness and confusion attending the wreck, it is not known whether or not the fifteen missing passengers are in the submerged coaches or whether they escaped. As many of the passengers were riding in the smoker, which is under water, it is feared some of the missing persons are dead.

The woman's husband's aim was poor and the bullet meant for Thompson's heart shattered his right hand.

DEATH STRUGGLE IS WATCHED

Fifty Millions of Austrians Show Anxiety Over Acute Internal Differences

BREACH GROWS BETWEEN HUNGARY AND CROWN

VIENNA, July 24.—Fifty millions of Austrians, composed of nine distinct races and according to the political text books, twenty-seven distinct political parties, are watching with intense anxiety, the death struggle between the Hungarian independence party and the Austrian crown. The expression "Austrian Crown" no longer implies the conservative, placable and complaisant Kaiser, Franz Josef, who has sat for sixty weary years on the dual throne of the Hapsburgs. Austrian affairs today are in less yielding hands.

For two years past the real ruler of the dual monarchy has been the old monarch's nephew and heir, Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria-Este, who only a few years ago known as an insignificant and consumptive recluse, has suddenly risen—just as Cecil Rhodes did from a similar state of health to be regarded with almost superstitious dread for his course resolution and astute policy. Austrians today are quoting Napoleon's dictum: "Europe can stand only one great ruler," and asking now that the German Kaiser has practically abdicated from that role, whether the heir to the Hapsburg throne is to prove that one great ruler.

Austria Arming to Teeth. The personality and aims of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand are the subject of embittered dispute between his clerical allies and his liberal foes. But on one point all are agreed. Since he seized the reins of state, Austria-Hungary has thrown overboard the self-effacing meekness which she has shown since the days of Francis I in 1806. However mistaken the plans he is supposed to harbor, they are at least not the aims and plans of a weakling and they are being carried out with skill. The annexation of Bosnia-Herzegovina, executed in the teeth of opposition from England, France and Russia, is sufficient proof of that.

Today Archduke Franz Ferdinand is taking in hand a much greater problem, the problem of arming Austria-Hungary to the teeth, the problem of restoring the centrifugal tendencies of her turbulent races; finally the problem of carrying out an active, resolute foreign policy which may bring her back to the proud position claimed by the Hapsburg Kaiser Frederick III, who first adopted the famous motto: "I will not be deceived."

WRIGHT MAKES FAST AEROPLANE FLIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Orville Wright remained aloft in his aeroplane for twenty minutes and thirty seconds in a trial at Fort Meyer late today. He made a successful landing.

Orville Wright in his flight at Fort Meyer this evening, surpassed all previous performances of the Wright aeroplane in the matter of speed and in sharpness of his turns.

Wright, who closely watched his brother's flight during every inch of progress, calculated that his average speed with and against the wind was forty-seven miles an hour. In one of his circles at full speed, it was estimated to have been within a radius of fifteen feet. An automobile could hardly do better than that at the high rate of speed.

PREDICTION IS HIDES WILL BE ON FREE LIST

Tariff On Six Important Articles to Be Decided Upon in Sunday Session

FIGURES FAVORED BY SENATE ARE FORETOLD

Western Congressmen Dislike Plan of Lowering Duty on Lead

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The hide question was settled and unsettled today, and while there seems little doubt that eventually hides will be placed on the free list, the contest over the status can not be regarded as closed. None of the questions made prominent throughout the country through President Taft's interest in them was settled today.

Although the conference committee was in executive session all day, the conferees expect to spend a large part of Sunday wrestling with these problems. The indications tonight are that rates upon the important questions still in dispute will be as follows:

Two Articles Free. Hides, free; cotton, free; lumber, rough, $1.25 per 1000 feet, with proportionate differentials; coal, forty-five cents a ton, without the house reciprocal clause; iron ore, fifteen cents a ton; print paper, $3.50 a ton. Practically one full week has been occupied by the conferees in an effort to settle these questions, but most of the time has been devoted to hides. This subject was complicated by reason of statements coming from boot and shoe interests that they were ready to agree to a substantial reduction in leather goods below the senate rates if hides were put on the free list.

President Will Insist. These interests apparently felt sure that there could be no reductions on boots and shoes below fifteen per cent ad valorem, the house rate. The president has stated to number of his callers that he would insist upon a reduction to at least ten per cent ad valorem, with proportionate decreases on the rates of other leather goods.

Reports reached the conference room late today that Speaker Cannon and Parliamentarian Hinds had decided that it would be impossible for the conferees to adopt a rate on boots and shoes lower than the rate adopted by either branch of congress. The advocates protested and declared there must be a proportionate reduction in leather to offset the abolition duty on hides if their votes were to be counted on to pass the conference bill.

Consentation Arises. As a result of this declaration men interested in protected hides and some of those who are looking for an early adjustment of tariff differences, were filled with consternation. Some of the western senators already are said to be greatly dissatisfied with the action taken by the conferees in increasing the rates on lead and its products. It was said it would take very little to induce them to vote against the conference report.

Admiral was of the opinion that the conferees could reduce the rates below those fixed by either house without the adoption of a concurrent resolution. However, a canvass will be made to see that whether such a concurrent resolution can be adopted.

FINE BRONZE BUST WILL BE UNVEILED

Glowing Tribute to James J. Hill Will Be Paid At Seattle Fair

SEATTLE, Wash., July 24.—The colossal bronze bust of James J. Hill, railroad builder, on the Yukon-Alaska-Pacific exposition grounds which are part of the campus of the University of Washington, will arrive from New York next Monday and will be unveiled by Governor John A. Johnson, of Minnesota, on the afternoon of August 2. President Hill expects to be present.

The bust, which is an excellent likeness, was paid for by public subscription as "an appreciation of Hill's inestimable services to the Northwest." The pedestal of the bust is of Washington granite, except three blocks from Yakobson, Japan, Fox Island, B. C. and St. Cloud, Minn.

At the unveiling ceremonies the work Mr. Hill did in binding together great nations together by ties of peace and commerce will be brought out. The bust will be covered by three large silk flags, of Japan, Great Britain and the United States. Judge Thomas Burk of this city, will preside at the exercises and introduce Governor Johnson.
