FINE ROAD IS BEING BUILT BY RANCHERS

Residents of Animas Valley Constructing Pike in Order To Reach Bisbee And Douglas Markets

It is but a matter of a short time before Bisbee and Douglas will be connected with one of the most productive valleys of New Mexico, the Los Animas or Grant county. The link between the two large Cochise county cities and this rich valley will be a well built wagon road which will enter Arizona about ten miles north of the Mexican line.

County Road Superintendent Sam Elder was in Bisbee yesterday from Douglas on his way over the main roads of the county on a trip of inspection to see what damage the heavy rains have done.

He stated that the ranchers in the Animas valley are building the road to the Arizona line at practically their own expense, so that this county, Cochise county will make a connection with the Animas valley road through the Sulphur Springs valley. A new road has been built for this purpose and is within three or four miles of the line between the two territories.

Superintendent Elder stated that just as soon as the Animas Valley road reaches the line between the two territories the road on this side of the line will be completed to make the connection. The road being built by the New Mexico farmers is expensive, as there were miles of construction through rough country where the way had to be blasted out of solid rock. The county has done little for these farmers, they having either given their time or their money to get this road through without outside help.

SMELTER EMPLOYEES AFTER CANDIDATES

WOULD BE OFFICE HOLDERS DUE FOR QUIZZING FROM WORKMEN

The smelter employes of Douglas, probably assisted by other working men of Douglas and of the county, are taking a particular interest in the coming constitutional election and are going to put all the candidates who are to run for delegates to the constitutional convention on record as to their views on the important questions.

A Douglas attorney who was in Bisbee yesterday stated that a committee will be appointed by the smelter men and that all the candidates who are running will be personally visited and requested to declare their stand on the measures favored by the men. The candidates of all parties having tickets in the field will be subjected to the questioning by the committee. It is understood that the interviews with the candidates will be published before election.

COLONEL NOW STARTED OVER WIDE CIRCLE

Roosevelt Begins His Speech Making Tour Over Country That Will End September 16 at Pittsburg

P. 2 CATCH COLONEL. Roosevelt's Dates. Aug. 27.—Cheyenne, Wyo. Aug. 29.—Denver, Colo. Aug. 31.—Osawatimie, Kas. Sept. 2.—Omaha, Neb. Sept. 3.—Sioux Falls, S. D. Sept. 5.—Fargo, N. D. Sept. 6.—Milwaukee, Wis. Sept. 8.—Piquette and Chicago. Sept. 10.—Pittsburg, Pa.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—In a car specially chartered for the purpose Col. Theodore Roosevelt left home today to begin a tour of the West that promises to attract as much if not more public attention than any trip he made while he was President. The trip will extend over a period of eighteen days and will carry the former president as far west as Cheyenne, Wyo.

The rumors that Colonel Roosevelt is not in thorough sympathy with the Taft administration and the fact that his speeches are to be delivered for the most part in insurgent territory have caused the politicians of all parties and all shades to look forward to the ex-President's swing around the circle with a feeling of keen interest not unmixed with anxiety in some quarters.

As a matter of fact, however, those who stand closest to Col. Roosevelt are of the opinion that he will steer clear of Republican factional differences in the States where he is to speak. They predict that he will discuss issues irrespective of party platform or factional policies, and that he is likely to step on the toes of some insurgents as well as upon those of the regulars. It is believed, moreover, that the present trip will dispose once for all of the assertion of some insurgents that Col. Roosevelt is out of sympathy with President Taft and the majority of his party.

Col. Roosevelt will stop off today in Utica to make a speech to the farmers of Oneida and Herkimer counties. While in Utica he will be the guest of his brother-in-law Douglas Robinson. From Utica he will go direct to Cheyenne, using the New York Central Railroad to Buffalo, the Lake Shore to Chicago, the Northern Pacific to Cheyenne. He will arrive at Cheyenne Saturday, and remain there until the following Monday. The Frontier Day celebration will be in progress in the Wyoming capital, and Col. Roosevelt expects to meet all his old comrades of the plains there.

Leaving Cheyenne Col. Roosevelt will go direct to Denver and will spend the afternoon and evening of Monday, August 29, there. The purpose of his visit to Denver will be to speak at the opening of the national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans. From Denver he will go to Osawatimie Kan., for the dedication of a State park on the old Osawatimie battlefield. This event is scheduled for Wednesday August 31.

The following day the ex-President will visit Kansas City and it is said he will probably deliver an important political speech there. From Kansas City he will proceed to Omaha, arriving there Friday, September 2, and remaining until the following day. Sunday will be spent in Sioux Falls and the next day he will deliver a Labor day address in Fargo. Tuesday, the day following, one of his most important speeches will be delivered in St. Paul before the Conservation Congress. Gifford Pinchot will be on the platform with him.

On Wednesday, September 7, Col. Roosevelt will be the guest of the Press Club at Milwaukee. The next jump will be to Freeport, Ill., and then to Chicago, where he will speak under the auspicious of the Hamilton Club. The same night he will move on to Cincinnati, and spend Friday, Sept. 9, there as the guest of the Ohio Valley Exposition.

Saturday, September 10, he will return direct to New York, making no more speeches for the rest of the trip, and will reach Oyster Bay on Sunday, September 11.

The foregoing traveling card shows the set speeches that the ex-President is scheduled to make, but the demand to hear him is so great over all the territory which he will cover that it is probable he will deliver many extemporary talks from the rear end of his private car.

LOVE SCENE IN ROMANCE WON FATHER

Parent Consents to Wedding After Finding Daughter in Lover's Arms—Removed Here to Thwart Cupid

It is very probable that before the end of this week there will be a wedding in which Antonio Verdena will be the bridegroom and Margarita Polito the bride.

This marriage will culminate a romance that began in the orange groves of Hermosillo, Sonora. Antonio loved Margarita with all the devotion of his being and Margarita returned his love. The young people wanted to marry, but the father of the girl was bitterly opposed to the match.

To get the girl away from the sight of her lover Polito moved from his native land into the United States and took up his residence on Chihuahua Hill in this city. He believed that he had outwitted Cupid and that the boy and girl had been successfully separated and would soon forget one another.

The plan of the girl's father might have been a good one but it did not work. Antonio learned of the whereabouts of his sweetheart and followed her to Bisbee where he soon found her residence on Chihuahua Hill.

A few nights ago the father of the girl was awakened by a murmur of voices. On going into the next room he found his daughter and the lover whom he thought far away in the capital city of Sonora, doing the Romeo and Juliet act in the light of the pale moon. The girl was leaning out of the window and the lover was perched on a post which he had leaned against the side of the house. The lovers were embracing when the old man appeared on the scene.

Such devotion was too much for the old man and after a short argument he consented to the marriage of Antonio and Margarita. This wedding will soon take place, and should result, according to all good love stories, in bringing much happiness to the bride and groom.

200 RANGERS SAID TO HAVE DIED IN FIRE

In a curious way, a large tract of valuable standing timber.

Four fires have broken out along the Salmon river banks another coming down the Horse Creek tributary toward Klamath river.

All fires in the Shasta mountain forest are practically under control.

ORGON LOSS $7,000,000

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 23.—It is estimated that the forest fires this season have caused a loss of over $7,000,000 in Oregon. District Forester Chapman returned to Portland today and considers the conditions favorable in southern Oregon, but that there is a lull in the storm. Only a general and heavy rain can stop the progress of destruction.

SHOWERS VISIT FIRE ZONE HOPE IS RENEWED

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 23.—Light rain began falling this afternoon at Wallace and other mining towns that have been scorched or threatened by fires. The weary fire fighters have taken on new hope. Nothing but a long heavy downpour can quench the flames that are eating up the big trees in Northern Idaho, Northwestern Montana and Northwestern Washington.

The Idaho militia and U. S. troops are on their way to battle with the red invader, but so far have accomplished little more than the protection of towns.

Forest supervisors of Idaho and Montana are unable to get into communication with 900 of their rangers. Most sensational rumors of loss of life continue to be circulated, but it is impossible to verify them. It seems likely that aside from the losses among the national rangers the number of dead in the three states will not exceed 100. The afternoon list of known dead is compiled at Spokane contained only 39 names.

The Idaho militia is on its way from encampment at American lake, Washington, near Tacoma to Coeur d'Alene.

The people of the United States, as owners of the national forests are the principal losers. It will require decades to restore the devastated forests.

Big corporations notably the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound Railroad and Coeur d'Alene lead, silver mines, which use much timber in working, also suffered great losses.

The timber losses may reach ten million dollars.

It is estimated that more than 1500 settlers in Montana, Idaho and Washington have lost their homes.

EXPECT SNOW AT BUTTE

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 23.—A heavy rain which will be snow by morning, began falling in Lincoln county, on the Blackfoot, late this afternoon.

However, the two bad fires in that district were both under control. It is cold enough for snow in Helena tonight.

WILL USE TALK OF DOLLIVER IN CAMPAIGN

Democrats Have Decided to Print Insurgent Speeches in the Text Book of Party This Fall

WASHINGTON Aug. 23.—The managers of the democratic campaign for the capture of the next congress are going to use "insurgent" republican speeches with which to indict the republican party. This became definitely known when the congressional committee today made public the democratic campaign book for 1910.

While it is true that there are extracts from democratic speeches culled from the Congressional Record, the most striking feature of the new book is the section devoted to utterances of insurgent leaders. Their sentiments against the tariff, the railroad bill and the extravagance in governmental expenditures are more emphatic than those of democrats themselves.

The famous insurgent defense made by Senator Dolliver of Iowa in the senate is given the leading place in the campaign book. This is looked upon by the democratic leaders as being excellent democratic doctrine and they say that they themselves could not have expressed their disapproval of republican administration in more appropriate terms.

Senator Cummins, also of Iowa, is the next insurgent to be honored with a place in the campaign book. Many sections of his speech on the railroad bill are quoted to show the eager voter that the republican party is trying to make ineffective the Sherman anti-trust law, and further, that the democrats are not the only people who think so.

La Follette Follows Cummins. After Senator Cummins, Senator La Follette is complimented. His court of commerce speech was found by the democrats to contain valuable campaign material, and several thousand words of this have been given a place in the book just issued. Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, one of the most militant of insurgents, is next in order and Representative Haugen of Iowa is likewise given space.

Representative Eugene N. Pons of Massachusetts, the reformed republican, who was elected to congress as a democrat in a republican district, is given special consideration by campaign book compilers. His famous tariff speech is quoted in full. Minority Leader Champ Clark is favored with two speeches in the book. James S. Hays, too, who made a spectacular entry into the house from a republican district, is properly taken care of.

Seven issues are met by the democrats in their campaign publication. They lead off with the tariff and the high cost of living. Then come republican extravagance, Cannon and Cannonism, President Taft and his administration, publicity of campaign funds, merchant marine, corporation and labor legislation and a few miscellaneous subjects.

Republican insurgents and democrats alike are quoted as authorities on all these questions. Cannon and Cannonism is not regarded as a dead issue by the democrats in view of the veteran speaker's expulsion from the committee on rules. His announced candidacy for re-election to the speakership is taken as a reason for keeping the issue alive.

Equality of Rights. In summing up the democratic doctrine of government the publishers of the book say:

"The democratic party stands for equality of rights, and insists that the government shall be administered for the whole people and not for the benefit of special interests. If entrusted with power, it will make a record that will mean much for the prosperity of the masses and in continuation of principles of free government.

"For the first sixty years of last century it was responsible for the affairs of government, and for the last fifty years the republican party has generally been in control. Any careful student of history can point with pride to the wonderful progress of this republic during that period of democratic supremacy, and if entrusted with the reins of government again so as to fully restore its principles, there can be no question but that the interests of the whole people will be much better served than during republican rule."

The campaign work is entirely a compilation of matter which has appeared in the Record and can therefore be sent through the mail free.

William T. Rigby, James G. Everett and Lewis Guion comprising the Vicksburg National Military Park commission, have submitted an estimate of $125,000 for the construction of a memorial in that park to commemorate the services of the Confederate navy on the Mississippi river and its tributaries during the Civil war. Congress already has made provision for a Union naval memorial in the park and contracts
