

MORAL SUASION TO BE USED IN JUAREZ WHILE METHODS OF BOER WAR ARE TRIED IN SOUTH

Mutinous Soldiers Cheer Message From Orozco That He Comes Unarmed

MADERO DECLARES FAITH IN OROZCO

Danger Is Considered to Lie in Other Quarters and Novel Campaign Is Planned

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3.—No steps will be taken for the immediate subsection of the mutinous rurales at Juarez. Gen. Pascual Orozco, accompanied by only a few staff officers, left Chihuahua for Juarez today to use moral force, but from no point have more troops been sent, and it is said the rurales who were en route from Chihuahua have turned back.

Five hundred rurales will be sent from Monterrey to Chihuahua, a small detachment of artillery from Laredo and a second from Mexico City being on their way there.

Adopt New Tactics In the campaign against the rebels in the south, new tactics will be employed, similar to those used by Kitchener in South Africa. Forces are to be divided into mobile columns of 100 men, and with these an attempt is to be made to sweep the rebel-infested regions. Government officials announced these plans today.

Madero does not consider the northern situation serious. "I have not the least doubt," he said, "that the Juarez uprising will be ended in a short time, and that the Chihuahua situation is already dominated by Orozco, and I have never doubted Orozco's loyalty, and never have considered dismissing him from the service." As to whether Vasquez Gomez is furnishing funds to promote a revolution in Mexico, Madero expressed his doubts. "In my opinion," he said, "Vasquez Gomez has no money to put into such an enterprise. Madero declared that Col. Estrada could be relied upon if the need for additional troops arises.

The announcement that Orozco is traveling unarmed was received with cheers by the troops in Juarez.

May Resume Races El Paso street car officials tonight announced that traffic between the cities will be resumed tomorrow.

POLITICS IS MAIN TROUBLE AND NOT THE LAW'S DELAY

Attempt to Use Campaign By Sugar Trust Is Example

WHY LIGHTER FINE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Politics, if it had had its usual way, unquestionably would have defeated the sugar fraud cases," declared Assistant Attorney General Winfred T. Denison in an address here tonight at the annual banquet of the Washington College of Law. Denison denounced the "political patronage system, and expressed his opinion that the chief cause of the "ineffectiveness of our criminal law" has not been in the law's delays, but in politics. The presidential campaign of 1908 was drawing to a close he said, when the government concluded an action should be brought against the sugar company by September 16, 1908, in order to make possible the trial before a change of administration. One of the company's counsel appeared before the government's representative, said Denison, and "after various efforts to show that the case was all a mistake, the attorney finally suggested that the political situation, owing to the pendency of a presidential campaign, was extremely delicate. That the institution at that time of a suit by the government would be considered as an effort by the administration to make political capital by attacking a great corporation, and, finally, that this delicacy of the political situation was especially evident in Wall Street, where the institution of such a suit might be misunderstood. Delay, therefore, at best until after election, was deemed proper. Of course, the government's claim was insisted upon, and finally the attorney withdrew, and actions were begun on the day stated, September 16."

Discussing the penalty levied on the sugar company Denison said had a maximum fine of $50,000,000 been levied against the sugar company, it "Practically would have wrecked the whole proposition, just as an attempt to extort $25,000,000 wrecked the rebate proposition of the Standard Oil company."

PREPARE FOR THEIR ARREST

Chicago Labor Leaders Arrange Bail Before Indictments Are Made

SECRECIES PRESERVED

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 3.—The plan of the government is to make known the number of indictments found by the grand jury investigating the dynamite conspiracy at once, but not to divulge the names of the men involved until they are arrested, in case the federal grand jury finds the bills Tuesday was announced in the district attorney's office today. Although this is the usual procedure in conspiracy cases, the testimony involved in the present investigation, he said, is so wide it will be necessary to fix a date for any arrests five days of a week ahead.

LEADERS MAKE PREPARATIONS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Chicago labor leaders have received from a source not disclosed information that any arrests made here as a result of indictments now supposed to be under consideration by the federal grand jury at Indianapolis will be made Wednesday next week. In consequence they have arranged with bondsmen to be ready on that day to present bail for their release. Scores of labor leaders here have been under surveillance for several days.

JURY DISAGREES IN BERT CONNERS TRIAL

Whether Prosecution Will Try Again Considered As Uncertain

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—The jury in the case of Bert H. Connors, alleged dynamite plotter, which went out at 9:50 Friday morning, was discharged at 4:50 this afternoon. It was unable to agree, and is said to have stood ten to two for acquittal. A new trial is problematical, and if one is not held, A. B. Maples and F. Ira Bender, indicted on the same charge, will probably never go to trial, but the cases against all three would be dismissed.

LORIMER HEARING IS STOPPED BY THE STENOGRAPHER'S ACT

Irate Official Is Held to Be in Contempt By Committee

MEMORIES ARE WEAK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Testimony assigned to corroborate the account of how Charles McGowan, a Lorimer witness, is alleged to have admitted in Toronto on January 6 that he was paid for testifying falsely before the committee, was presented to the senate investigating committee today. The committee held the session to conclude the taking of the testimony of H. E. Kerr, of Detroit, a "brass expert" and friend of Detective A. C. Bailey and J. E. Sheridan, the stenographer, who says he operated the stenographic apparatus in the Toronto conversation, tests after Bailey concluded his testimony.

Kerr detailed the Toronto conversation in almost the precise words used by Bailey. Whether the men were gathered in the room and had ordered one round or more beer perked Kerr.

"It looks as if you people and I have failed to remember several things that happened in the last fifteen days, while I remember things a month back," suggested Senator Fletcher. Bailey had said they had several rounds of beer.

Admits Omitting.

J. E. Sheridan, the stenographer, was questioned as to why he recorded only a part of the conversation. He denied that he was instructed to omit parts of the conversation, but did leave out sections, because he regarded them as immaterial. A session occurred during Sheridan's testimony when Milton Blumberg, official stenographer of the committee, appeared and interrupted the witness and denounced Sheridan's alleged stenographical report of McGowan's stenographic "admission" as false, and "manufactured." Blumberg was not under oath. Shortly afterwards, Blumberg became affronted by a message sent to him by Acting Chairman Jones and ordered his stenographer to walk out so the hearing was stopped. The committee then went into executive session and Blumberg was adjudged in contempt by the committee and placed in the hands of the sergeant at arms of the senate for production before the committee Monday, so which time it adjourned.

POWER OF SPEAKER IS RESTORED HIM, RULE IS AMENDED

House Finds "Discharge Day" Failure and Action Is Taken

REPUBLICANS LAUGH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Republican Leader Mann, in the house today, showed the democrats, as he often declared he would, that the new rule of creating a "discharge day" in the house, is not workable. After a lively fight for two hours the house adopted an amendment offered by Henry, chairman of the rules committee, which practically invests the speaker with most of his lost power and makes the discharge day rule invalid. Instead of operating to "kill" bills in committee, the rule forced all committees to report the bills, whether favorably or unfavorably, and the result was a calendar jammed to suffocation and the work of the house seriously retarded.

"Gentlemen of majority," said Dillard, republican member of the rules committee, "you are on the back track. Your reforms are all shams and frauds. You have taken the power from the speaker and placed it in the hands of the chairman of the ways and means committee. Instead of Cannonism, Crispism, and Reedism, you have Underwoodism, and the gentleman from Alabama wears the crown like one as to the manner born."

The vote taken showed that most democrats favored the amendment.

JOHNNY COULON STILL HOLDS CHAMPIONSHIP

Title Holder Wins After Twenty Rounds of Furious Work

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Johnny Coulon, of Chicago, successfully defended the title to the semi-weight championship by carrying the decision at the end of twenty rounds of fast and furious fighting with Frankie Conley, of Kenosha, Wis., at the Vernon arena today. Conley was a fearful sight at the close of the fight. Both his eyes were shot, and his face was cut in a dozen places. He continually kept groaning and forcing the fighting, and seemed to be the stronger of the two, but Coulon landed five blows to his one and never was in any danger of losing.

ALASKA IS SHUTTLECOCK TO BE BATTED AT WILL

(By Winfield Jones, Special Correspondent of the Review.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Every branch of the United States government that has been endowed with any sort of plenary powers by congress has, it seems, an inclination to use some of those powers in having a say in the governmental affairs of the "Grand Duchy" of Alaska, as that territory has been termed by Delegate Wickersham, of Alaska. At present, the secretary of the interior, the interstate commerce commission, and the courts are hopelessly tangled on the question and nobody seems to know what is going to happen. President Tatt, who was charged by Delegate Wickersham with a desire to be absolute master over the destinies of Alaska, and Governor Clark, of Alaska, who has been administering the affairs of the territory for the past two years, have been left out of the reckoning absolutely.

Game of Freeze Out.

On the other hand, neither the Interstate Commerce commission, the secretary of the interior, congress, President Tatt, Governor Clark, nor the courts are the real factors in the case. It is the Guggenheims. They are playing a "freeze out" game while the question of supervision or control is unsettled. The interstate commerce commission says it can't boss much in Alaska in the way of corporations because Alaska is not a territory. Congress has repeatedly indicated that it

PACKAGE SENT TO WOMAN IS FAIR BOMB

Mysterious Murder By the Use of Infernal Machine Is Puzzle

VICTIM IS TERRIBLY MANGLED AND CUT

Two Arrests Made Upon Technical Charges, One a Man and the Other Show Girl

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—A package received by Mrs. Grace Willis Walker, a widow known as Helen Taylor, in an uptown apartment house tonight, exploded and caused her death almost instantly. The mystery with which the affair is clouded has baffled the police. Mrs. Walker, who was thirty-two years old, was called to the vestibule of the apartment by a man who presented her with a good sized package and then hurried away. She carried the package to her apartment, and placed it on a table. It then exploded with a loud report. Dr. Charles E. Perkins, who was passing the house at the time, ran in to help Mrs. Walker, but she died in a few minutes. The physician said in his opinion the package was an infernal machine. It contained a number of dry cell batteries, one of which was driven into the woman's breast near the heart.

Two Arrests Are Made.

After several hours of secret investigation, the police arrested Chas. M. Dickinson, who sold her an employee of a motor company, and held him on a technical charge of homicide for examination.

Elena Lemarre, a show girl of 25, who lived in the house, but was out at the time the fatality occurred, is held as a material witness. Dickinson is said to have been in the room when the woman met her death. The police said Mrs. Walker lived in a six room apartment in the first floor of the house at 106 west Seventy-seventh street.

Coroner Feinberg, was summoned. He found the face terribly distorted with the left eye driven back into the head and a deep gash over the heart, besides numerous other cuts about the body. Coroner Feinberg's version of the explosion was that the woman was sitting in her parlor talking to Dickinson when the mysterious package arrived. It was about four and a half by ten inches and neatly wrapped in paper. It bore the typewritten address "Helen Walker."

To delve into the past of the dead woman was one of the first efforts of the police, but the neighbors seemed to know little of her history. She had rented the apartment only a few weeks ago, together with the Lemarre woman.
