The America's Cup defense yachts Resolute and Vanities have been retired for another year after a season of trial racing which has left the question of relative merits about where it was at the close of 1914. Between July 3 and July 27 these two yachts met in a series of ten special races with the result that the Resolute won nine and the Vanitie one. Six of the contests were sailed on Long Island Sound and four over ocean courses.

Close followers of yachting express the opinion that of the two single stickers, the Vanitie showed the greater improvement and that further overhauling this winter will improve her chances when the yachts are put seaward next year. Although forced to give the Resolute a time allowance in almost all the 1915 races the Cochran sloop showed faster sailing qualities than during the preceding season and may yet prove her right to defend the cup. The challenger, Shamrock IV, is still boxed in a Brooklyn shipyard and there appears to be little prospect of the international regatta being held during the coming year.

TOKIO, Sept. 25.—Special advices from Petrograd give importance to the announcement that the Russian Trade and Navigation Company of Odessa has decided to give Japanese shipbuilding yards its first big order for the construction of several large passenger steamers. The Russian ministry of trade and industry thoroughly approves the decision of the company as the beginning of an economic rapprochement between Russia and Japan, which promises to have a great future.

At the outset there will be ordered eight first class ships for the Crimean-Caucasian line, after which the company has in view an order for a second group of steamers for its foreign service on lines which before the war were in the hands of the Germans. Heretofore there have been no steamers of Japanese construction among the vessels of the Russian merchant marine.

At the present time several representatives of Japanese yards are in Odessa, where, together with Russian engineers they are drafting plans for the vessels and conditions to be observed in construction. Several captains of the Russian company have also been ordered to visit Japan.

Long, loose panel stains are very much in vogue this winter.

A stunning, great, big, black hat, of wonderful "antique cloth" peaked in a smart effect just over the right eye, with an impudent turn in back—the little Puritan model, the Miles Standish hat, high crown and small trim, smartly trimmed, a love of a blue sailor hand embroidered with dots, and the prettiest hats for the evening wear trimmed with ostrich tips and high treatments that are so pretty—is a description of some of the hats that I noticed in the Bisbee shops.

Phalanx, a new satin faced taffeta, is one of the latest materials and is in about 150 shades.

Artificial flowers of gold and silver lace with long ribbons, and some with Or petals, just the thing for the evenings of your evening frocks can be had at the Fair and for a very fair price.

One of the newest things of the season is being displayed at the Phelps Dodge. It is a tailored suit of black velvet trimmed with real beaver fur, the coat has a box back, military front, and jet buttons. The collar, cuffs and coat are edged with the beaver fur. The skirt is made with the new panel sides. A jaunty hat of black velvet with a feather fancy, which should be tipped over the right eye. Boots, the lace at the sides with pearl kid tops, a smart hand bag of real pin seal, lined with pearl brocaded satin and equipped with a silk change purse, mirror and powder puff, and to complete the costume, pearl gloves with smoked pearl clasps. This is a most charming costume and the accoutrements are up to the minute in fashion.

THE SPOILS PRACTICE.

PEKING, Sept. 25.—President Yuan Shikai is attempting to abolish the practice of discharging an entire staff of officials and clerks whenever a new minister comes into office. Every high official has his followers, but not only is a change made when a new administration comes into power, but, whenever a new minister takes office, most if not all of the staff of his department is changed. In a public proclamation Yuan Shikai says: "We have now given orders to the Bureau concerned to revive various laws in connection with the examination and appointment of civil officials. The Bureau should draw up regulations relating to the period for promotion and transfer, so that officials may remain long in their offices and respect their responsibility. Thus intrigues will be done away with. The method seems to be slow but it is steady and will in course of time bring about great results. We have the earnest wish that every man should make full use of his talent and perfect the method of administration by long service."

Brocaded metallic silver cloth will make a very handsome evening wrap.

For the ladies that bridge, a charming gown of delft blue crepe meteor, black face sleeves very wide grille, and lace collar, one of the very smartest hats, the Miles Standish model, which is a copy of the French Varron, made by the Gans Bros., of hatters plush and trimmed with delft blue ostrich tips and a buckle, white slippers, white hose, embroidered with black beads, and a dainty gold hand bag set with turquoise and white gloves, complete this fascinating costume. These costumes will be displayed in the windows of the Phelps Dodge store on Monday.

Such wonderful great, big evening coats of velvet and fur are to be seen at the various shops. Silver, gold and tinsel, and all sorts of metallic ornaments are used in great profusion.

Gold and silver tassels and cords are being used on many of the new winter blouses.

Hosiery embroidered in beads and all sorts of silks are very fashionable this fall.

The Fair has some of the prettiest new materials for coats. Velvet Corduroys to all shades.

What next? The latest materials are the shades of wine, Burgundy, Bordeaux, and rich red and plum.

Purple velvet is again popular in evening gowns.

The Fair will display next Monday afternoon, upstairs in the Ladies' Ready-to-Wear department, a wonderful suit of African Brown, in broad cloth, embroidered in gold. The collar is of velvet, embroidered in gold, the sleeves are bell shaped, with hanging ball buttons, and the shape and smartness of this coat depend on the corded pin necks that start at the bust and end at the hips, and there are embroidered straps that cross over the pleats in the side of the coat. The skirt has a yoke and pleats at the sides and is also trimmed with the corded straps. A beautiful hat made by the foremost hat makers of the world, Moorhead and Jardine, that has a velvet facing in African brown, a taffeta top with a pleated edge of the same shade, and on the extreme edge of the brim is an owl's head and wings shaded from gold to African brown. The boots that match this costume are quite charming, as the blouse and purse that completes this costume.

Another suit is one of blue velvet, military effect, trimmed with fur and velvet buttons. The skirt has the new belt and a flare from the hips. A charming little hat of blue velvet, trimmed with variegated beads and fur that matches the suit. Nobby boots, a hand bag, and pretty gloves make this a most beautiful combination for the winter.

Don't forget that the evening gowns will be displayed at the leading stores next week and they will be described in this column.

Any questions will be gladly answered if addressed to The SHOPPER.

COULD NOT STAND ON FEET

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich.—"I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong."—Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
