GELMARS ARRIVES IN BISBEE; DOUGLAS MAN WILL REFEREE

Two events of interest to the fistful fans of Cochise county happened yesterday when Johnnie Celmars, who meets Russell Chambers of Douglas in the main event, arrived in Bisbee to complete his training for Friday night's bout, and when O. S. French, manager of the Bisbee Athletic club, announced that Al Williams, who has been third man in the ring at Douglas for several months, would referee the fights here.

Celmars is in the pink of condition, and is clocking forward to his match with Chambers with apparently all the composure in the world. He has been in training since leaving here, after his fight with Frank Loughery, and needs only a few days to accustom himself to the climate. He expressed himself last evening as being confident that he will master the Smelter City pride on Friday evening. His manager, Bob Sweeney, will be here Thursday.

Williams, who will referee all the bouts here on Friday night, has won the confidence of the Douglas fans by his fair-mindedness and wealth of experience. He acted as referee in some of the most important army bouts staged during the war, and has a reputation for allowing men to fight when they want to mix things. His work in the Smelter City has been of such a caliber that it is probable that Warren district fans will see him often as referee for Manager French, as it is believed that the latter's choice as third man could not have been better. The decision, as in the last fight, will be made by two judges, and the referee will have nothing to do with the award, excepting in case of a disagreement among the latter, when he will make the decision. In this fight, Celmars will choose one judge and Chambers the other, this plan having been made a part of the articles which the men signed. The names of the judges will be announced at the ringside, as neither fighter has yet made known his choice.

Kid eGorge, the 160-pound fighter, who is now making his home in Bisbee, and who has gone to Douglas to supervise the training of Chambers for the fight, has sent several letters to friends in Bisbee, among them Manager French, from which the following extracts are taken:

"Chambers was waiting for me today. We went five hard rounds, and besides, he was on the bag for three rounds, jumped rope and finished with the pulleys. He will have no trouble with the weight at 145 pounds. He is a better boy than I thought he was. There will no doubt be a large bunch from Douglas in Bisbee on November 7.

"Russell is in nice shape right now, and his go with Celmars is going to be some battle. The fans here are all taking much interest in the go, and you may expect a large delegation. I think that Celmars is going to find that he will have to step to keep up with Chambers when the going gets good."

The advance sale of tickets was begun yesterday, and from every stand where the tickets were placed, reports came in to Manager French that they were going better than for any other fight staged here in recent months. At the same time, betting has been brisk, with plenty of Chambers money in sight, as well as cash belonging to friends of Celmars. In fact, Celmars money was going begging yesterday, many fans giving him the preference because of his experience and courage, to which they added the staying powers that distinguished him in his fight with Loughery.

HARD MAN TO STOP

One of the hardest men to tackle in the western conference this year is Williams, husky star of the Indiana University team. Williams is fast and particularly good in the open field. But even when they catch him he seems to be immune to the upsetting plunges and catches by the tackler. Time and again he has shaken off a "sure" tackle in the open field. The picture shows him shaking off a Minnesota tackler.

Two Major League Managers Content With 1920 Players

BY FRED TURBYVILLE.
N. E. A. Sports Writer.

Pat Mora and Tris Speaker can go ahead and enjoy the winter league season without worrying about the future. Both managers will likely stand pat on their 1919 lineups for the 1920 races. And a lot of fans and other baseball men are expecting the Reds and the Indians to fight it out in the big series next fall.

All the way through Moran's team looks good. It is a winning combination that showed lots of fight and teamwork for the 1919 season and why should Moran experiment with changes for 1920? None of his men is so old that a crack in the team is feared.

At Cleveland Tris Speaker has a corking good catching staff, a fast and steady infield and an outfield that ranks well with any other in the game. There is only one department that may see a change—the pitching staff. There are too many on the staff now and some may be dropped. Speaker also may procure a good left-hander before the start of the 1920 grind.

SPEAKER HASN'T SIGNED PAPER

This Speaker hasn't signed a 1920 contract to manage the Indians but that isn't causing any worry in Cleveland or with Jim Dunn, the owner. Dunn and Speaker are such good friends that Tris' word is good enough for Jim. And there is an understanding between the two.

The signing of a contract by Speaker is a mere formality necessary because of the rules of the game, said Dunn. "I must have one to send in to the league. Otherwise I wouldn't ask Tris to sign a paper for his word is good enough for me."

TO FREE ROOMS OF UNPLEASANT ODORS.

Sick-rooms or other rooms of the house are sometimes filled with unpleasant odors and not very freshened. To remove such odors try putting a small lump of ammonia in the bottom of a pint jar. Add a few drops of any good perfume, and let ammonia absorb the perfume. Then pour in 1/2 teacupful of boiling water and the steaming fragrance will sweeten the air.

Al Swindle, Boxing Promoter, Lives Up To Name Is Charge

Swindle a swindler? Goshamighty, no!

But it is claimed that it is even so, says the Verde Copper News of Jerome. At any rate a charge of swindling has been placed against Al Swindle, the Kingman boxer promoter, who recently brought Newton Goodwin here for the trimming Goodwin received at the hands of Tony Yescas.

The proprietor of the Bee hotel, at Kingman, is the complainant. He alleges that Swindle paid his hotel bill with a check that was not backed up by funds in bank.

Swindle was sarrested at Humboldt, where he was arranging a boxing card for November 5. After a day or two in the county jail at Prescott, he was taken back to Kingman by a Mohave officer.

Interest Is Great In Rivers-Delmont State Fair Match

PHOENIX, Nov. 3.—Gene Delmont has arrived to start training for his coming battle with Joe Rivers, which is scheduled to take place at Alhambra Arena, November 6, on American Legion day of the Arizona state fair. Delmont is one of the few boxers who enlisted when the big fight was on and saw actual service at the front for over a year.

Will cover there, Delmont was entered in the A. E. F. tournament and came through with flying colors he defeating all contenders and finally won the lightweight A. E. F. title, which he now proudly possesses.

When Delmont meets Rivers here on November 6 he will be put to the test.

Rivers' past fights are still in the memory of the boxing fans. He has fought them all, and he just recently completed a tour of the northwest and has defeated three men in as many weeks.
