A casual observer makes an observation that prospecting must be increasing, judging from the number of shots being fired every day. Some would be working men hereabouts are ever ready to jeer at the samples that the tired and weary prospector brings in after an industrious day's toil. More frequently these samples are worthless, but who are the best men of the country, the honest toiler or the theoretical and worthless loafer?

STEWART AT MEMPHIS.

At 10:15 last Thursday Rev. Dr. Brooks, of Memphis, opened the second day's session of the great silver convention with prayer, after which the arrival of delegates from Arizona and Arkansas was announced. Chairman Turpie then announced the committee on resolutions was not ready to report, and introduced Senator Stewart of Nevada, who addressed the convention.

"The object lesson of the past three years show that the American people are face to face with concentrated capital, the enemy which destroyed all previous civilizations. A shrinking volume of money, as compared with population and business, produces falling prices, paralyzes industry and compels the producers of wealth to pawn their property to continue the struggle against impending fate.

"The modern colossus, the Rothschilds combination, is the greatest brokerage establishment the world has ever seen. It deals with corporations and nations, which force from the people their earnings, either by monopolizing the necessities of life or by the overpowering power of taxation. It furnishes money for its customers by selling their bonds to the public for vastly more than the cost to the combination. The vast bonded debts of the United States and Europe have passed through their hands for a century, and the increment retained by the Rothschilds alone, independent of their numerous associates, is estimated at two thousand millions. This combination robbed the United States of gold to convert the silver debt of Austria into gold obligations, and made four hundred millions in the transaction.

"In 1893 the vaults of the United States treasury were opened and more than one hundred millions of gold was shipped to Austria with the aid of the administration, which refused to exercise the option provided by congress to pay in either gold or silver. By this means the great combination wrecked the finances of this country and created the panic of 1893. Gladstone and Cleveland were willing agents of the gold trust. They suspended coinage in India and repealed the purchasing clause of the Sherman act to make it easier for the combination to control the standard money of the western world. France and Germany made no objection to the wicked work of the syndicate while its raid was sweeping away the fortunes of the American people, but they protected themselves by refusing to furnish gold for the Austrian speculation. Each, when gold was demanded for export, paid its obligations in silver, as the congress of the United States authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to do. The success of the gold combination in repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, and thereby ratifying and confirming the infamous act of 1873, demonetizing silver, placed the fortunes of seventy millions of people at the mercy of the gold kings. The temporary lull in the financial storm, which the country now enjoys was bought. President Cleveland contracted with the Rothschilds combination to cease their raids on the United States for eight months. The price he paid for peace and protection shows the prostrate condition of the people of this country before the power of the gold monopoly. He gave them $12,000,000 in the difference between the market price and what he received for $62,000,000 of United States bonds, and further agreed in consideration of such protection to allow the combination to purchase whatever bonds might be issued before the meeting of another congress. What further proof is required than this contract to demonstrate that the gold of the world is cornered? A banking corporation contracts to charge the currents of international commerce and agrees that no gold shall be shipped from the United States for a period of eight months. How could the Rothschilds combination perform such a contract and stop the shipment of gold from America to Europe unless they had control of the gold? The goldites proclaim that the people of this country are entitled to the best money with the greatest purchasing power of any money in the world. What right have the people to the gold which the combination owns and controls? The British now know where the gold is which they are told is the only money they can have.

"As long as the standard money of the western world is in the hands of this colossal pool, just so long will the purchasing power of gold increase and the price of property decline. Great as are the American people, when limited as are the natural resources of this country, prosperity cannot come without a larger circulating medium than gold alone. The basis of the circulating medium cannot be increased by gold. Both metals would not be too much, and besides the output of gold is substantially consumed in the arts. The increase of population and business is constantly drawing the cords of contraction tighter and tighter around the limbs of enterprise.

"Four-fifths of the American people, yea, nine-tenths, have been at heart in favor of restoring silver ever since the crime of 1873 was discovered, but the gold combination has seized every avenue of communication. The press and the telegraph belong to it. Four thousand national banks are its agents, 5,000 other banks and trust companies do its bidding. Merchants and boards of trade are dependent upon the banks for accommodation and are clamorous in their praise of gold monopoly. Politicians and people high and low are in the money power, with the press and the millions of banks for political purposes. The President of the United States places 300,000 offices at the service of the money power for political or other favor he receives. Before such a force any other people would be powerless, but the American people for more than a hundred years have met and conquered every foe. They have always been equal to the emergency.

"Silver was demonetized by the republican party and the leaders of that party have labored in season and out of season to keep it demonetized. The great mass of the democratic party previous to the advent of President Cleveland was in favor of the famous act of 1873 demonetizing silver, as is shown by their uniform votes in both houses of congress. But when the money powers discovered Cleveland they found an instrument to thwart the will of the democratic masses, and they gained a valuable ally for Sherman and Harrison and other executive agents of the gold standard. The alarm and distress caused by the raid of the gold combination on the treasury in 1893 created a furor which amounted to a political cyclone, which was directed by the firm hand of the executive against the two houses of congress. Many democrats fell before the blast, but the republicans sailed with the wind and the democrats, who were stranded by the violence of the storm, were swept back into the arms of the republicans of the two houses. Together they made a majority to do the bidding of the money powers and to wipe from the statute book every law which recognized silver as a money metal.

"The people have at last taken this matter into their own hands. They now know that those who say they are friendly to silver, but want it restored without doing it themselves, are enemies and cannot be trusted. No man is a bimetalist who does not advocate bimetalism as it existed for thousands of years before Sherman visited England in 1867, and before he carried out the purpose of an English syndicate to strike down silver in 1873.

"Conventions and the party lash have thwarted the will of the people for twenty years. Public plunder, a venal press and ten thousand banks have dominated the conventions of all parties since the man from Buffalo took charge of the Democratic party. A majority to do the will of the gold monopolists has easily been secured in the convention of both the old parties and a multiplicity of issues bars the success of the Populists. What are parties name without party principles? What is the Democratic party when it repudiates Jefferson and Jackson and follows John Sherman? The Democratic masses are in favor of restoring the money of the Constitution. They are speaking out in every State and their voice is heard with dread by the enemies of the republic. A very large percentage of the Republican masses are equally true to the principles of free government with the Democratic masses, but the Republican leaders who worship at the shrine of gold monopoly are more numerous and powerful than the Democratic leaders who work with them to maintain the gold standard. There are more Harrisons than Clevelands and more Shermans than Charlises.

"The Democracy of Illinois has broken the ice. The rank and file of the Republican party South and West are shrunken, but the manipulators are still in control. The Republican convention of Kentucky renewed the allegiance of the party of the State to the alien gold syndicate, but the ties of party are not strong enough to hold the Republicans in the great Northwest in line. The South and West and the producing classes of all section have a common interest in restoring the money of the Constitution and gaining control of the government of the United States, but an alien gold trust is entrenched in the sanctums of the press, the council chamber of the banks, in the two houses of Congress and in the executive mansion. The people are uniting in every section of the country to strike for liberty and recover their lost government.

"The American people have been betrayed with a kiss for the last time. They now know every man who qualified his determination to fight for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States alone is a friend of the cause. All we demand is the 16 to 1 statute of 1834 and 1837. There were no "ifs" and "ands" about those statutes. There are none in the creed of a true bimetalist. The advocates of free coinage at 16 to 1 by the United States alone comprise three-fourths of the voters of the United states. The only hope for the gold monopoly is to divide and conquer. They have played that game for the last time. The hearts of the people are in a common cause, produced by a common calamity. Whatever politicians and time-servers may do, the South and West and all lovers of free institutions everywhere will come together and rescue the government from the rule of kings.

"The policy of the enemy to impoverish the masses is now well understood. It is well known that opportunities create independence; that want of opportunities create poverty and cowards. One more gold president may do the work and destroy the foundation of republican institutions, which is independence and prosperity of the people.

"Thanks to Mr. Cleveland the purpose of the enemy are disclosed. If the people submit to financial bondage and lose their liberty, they will have been warned in time. The gold standard, falling prices and hard times are as much the policy of Sherman, Harrison and the great mass of the leading republicans as it is of Cleveland himself. The only difference is that Cleveland proclaims openly what the hypocrits do secretly."
