Joe Kelso came up from the Gold Cross mines, near Cedar, yesterday and will remain in Kingman until after the second payment is made on the property, which is expected today.

Tom E. McClelland, attorney at law, returned a few days ago from a visit to Catalina Islands, where he is reported to have caught some of the big fish that abound in those waters.

William Smith came in from Music Mountain this week with a large number of skins, on which he obtained bounty to the amount of 50$. Among the skins was one of the largest mountain lions ever brought to Kingman.

Walter Harrison had the toes of his left foot crushed by the fall of a hook on an 800 pound block, while working below town yesterday. He was brought to town and the injury reduced.

Mrs. Ida Crozier was called to Albuquerque last week by the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. R. W. Hunt. Later reports from Albuquerque are that the sick lady is fast recovering her health.

The board of supervisors have been in session the past two days as a board of equalization, an adjournment being had last night until the second Monday of this month. The board of supervisors will meet Monday next to allow the usual quarterly budget of bills.

Stages now run every day in the week to Goldroad and Tom Reed. Heretofore no stage left Kingman on Sunday. It is probable that the present line of stages will be replaced with a line of automobiles and the time between Kingman and the big gold camp cut down to two hours or less.

Mrs. J. N. Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. A. F. Harris and family, Mrs. Bert Fouche, Mrs. M. Force and Mrs. Grace Fox, departed to Los Angeles Thursday evening. Mrs. Wilson will be placed in a hospital for treatment for rheumatism and nervous troubles, with which she has been afflicted the past several years.

A number of the cattlemen of this county held a meeting at the courthouse yesterday for the purpose of getting together on a plan to wipe out the wild animal pests that have been doing much damage on the ranges among young stock. It is possible that a county wide association will be formed for protective purposes within the next few months.

Ed. E. Bush and wife, of Fresno, returned last Wednesday from a trip to the Grand Canyon, and remained over in Kingman a few days. Mr. Bush likes the appearance of Kingman and may take up a residence here.

F. C. Shaw, who has been manager of the Harvey House at this place the past year, will depart tomorrow for a vacation, which will take in Kansas City and many eastern points. During his stay in Kingman Mr. Shaw has made many friends and built up the business of his company many fold.

John Wheatly, of Searchlight, known to many people of Mohave county, died at his home in that place last Wednesday, after a lingering illness. Mr. Wheatly was one of the old timers in Pioche and other Nevada camps and was generally known as one of the big hearted pioneers of the Sage Brush state.

John Penberthy, better known as "Monte," returned Wednesday last from the Burro mines, where he was looking after work on his property. He reports having passed through one of the severest torrential rains he ever encountered while going up Burro creek and only by the greatest effort was the party able to save the horse and wagon they were driving from going down in the flood. Before the rain came Burro creek was almost dry, there being only a few water holes along its course.

A Japanese cook at the residence of John F. Withers fell from the tower of the windmill early this morning and received injuries that may result in his death. He apparently struck on his head, as there are a number of deep gashes in the scalp and possibly a fracture of the skull. The right arm is broken above the elbow and a gash extends along his backbone. The poor fellow lay unconscious under the mill until several hours afterward, a Wallapai squaw passing that place noticing him lying there covered with blood. Drs. Cowie and Whiteside were called and the injured man taken to the county poor farm, where his injuries were attended to.

Owing to many people preparing for the celebration of the Fourth of July and other imperative business, no meeting of the committee on permanent organization of the Mohave County Commercial Club was held last evening, as intended. The preliminary meeting Monday evening last brought together a large number of business men and citizens of Kingman, which resulted in the appointment of a committee to prepare and formulate by laws and other matters for the government and support of the Club and to ascertain how many of the people of the county will support such an institution. The committee will be called together some time next week, and thereafter a permanent organization will be formed with a large number of Mohave county business men, mine owners, operators and property owners, and all those interested in the material welfare and prosperity of the county on the lists. This movement is worthy of the support of all our people and we hope that each and every one will display enthusiastic interest in the movement.

Underground River.

That Kingman has a large body of water beneath it has always been known to the people, but that there is actually a running stream there will be a surprise to all. In drilling a well for Byron Fancher this week J. N. Cohenour, at the depth of 180 feet, encountered a seam in the volcanic rocks through which a stream of water was running with such force that it cleaned out the drill hole, carrying away the spalls from the drill and leaving the water that was brought up by the sand pump clear and sparkling. The well was sunk a few feet below the seam, but the flow continued to carry away the drillings. The water stands at a depth of about 80 feet in the well.

Many people who have looked into the subject of artesian water believe that should the volcanic filling in this basin be sunk through a flowing well will certainly be obtained. In all the wells so far sunk in the town water was struck at practically the same level, indicating that the pressure came from below. Three hundred feet undoubtedly would bring the drill into the older formation. The striking of an artesian flow in Kingman would make the town one of the most prosperous on the line of the Santa Fe railroad. There are now more than seventy windmills and pumping plants in commission in the town, besides two supply lines from springs outside of the town limits. All these plants have a combined value in excess of 100,000$. With artesian wells flowing in many parts of the town the people would be enabled to beautify their places, line the streets with trees and make of the town the home for every prosperous mine owner and cattleman in the county.

The Colorado river, during the flood stage of last week, was higher than ever before known. At Topock the water raised far up on the abutments of the bridge and threatened to put the railroad pumping plant out of business. A report was brought in from the neighborhood of Eldorado Canyon that the river Wednesday night showed another rise of about a foot with a show of a continuation of rising conditions. Should the remaining snows in the high mountains of the Colorado watershed go off with rains there would be an unprecedented raise in the river within the next two weeks, and possible damage to the government works on the lower reaches of the river.

Probate Judge L. M. Teale departed to Los Angeles yesterday evening, where he will remain until after the meeting of the Elks grand lodge. Several other Kingman Elks will take in the big carnival during Elks' week. The report is current in Kingman that Mrs. Teale will accompany the Judge on his return to Kingman.

Bowel Complaint in Children.

When six months old the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, a well known merchant of Agnewville, Va., had an attack of cholera infantum. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was given and effected a complete cure. This remedy has proven very successful in cases of bowel complaint in children and when given according to the plan printed directions can be relied upon with perfect confidence. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by H. H. Watkins.
