

AMUSEMENTS

Walter Sanford's excellent company of actors will present "East Lynne" at the Third Avenue Theater all next week, where it will open with the performance next Sunday night. "East Lynne" has been seen at the Third Avenue Theater many times before, but it has never been presented by a company to equal the Sanford organization. Miss Laura Wall, the beautiful young juvenile leading woman, will play the part of Lady Isabelle and all the other members of the company will be found in every respect equal to the characters they will impersonate. The play has a splendid vein of comedy running through it, which serves to relieve the intense strain of the pathetic scenes. No one can sit through a performance without shedding tears, nor can they witness the scenes enacted by Miss Corney without boisterous laughter. And by the way, a great favorite with Third Avenue Theater audiences will be seen in this humorous part. Mrs. R. E. French has just returned from the East and she has been especially engaged to enact the part of Corney and she is sure to receive a splendid reception from her numerous friends.

N. C. GOODWIN.

It is rather difficult to recall any actor on the stage with whom it is possible to compare Mr. N. C. Goodwin, the well-known comedian, who will appear at the Grand Thursday and Friday nights, in his new and delightful comedy, "The Altar of Friendship." And it must be confessed that players who are fitted by nature for their ability to enact breezy, easy-going characters, with a degree of naturalness, are not to be found plentifully. Therefore, when artists of the caliber of Mr. Goodwin, come to this city, their coming should be the signal for an out-pouring of all lovers of the true and genuine in dramatic art, and when this player gives to us a play that is full of human nature that portrays the lives of every-day people in an every-day manner, and has in its cast actors of ability to adequately portray the other roles, then that event should be doubly interesting and cause the theater to be crowded to its utmost capacity. If, in addition to the above facts, it becomes known that this truly artistic Thespian may not be seen in modern comedy for some years after this, then additional charm must be added to this engagement. Mr. Goodwin, in leaving the field of modern comedy, again takes up the interpretation of Shakespearean roles, presenting an elaborate production next year of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and later on some other of the great bard's master comedies. "The Altar of Friendship" contains much of the happenings of every-day life, in which the love interest predominates, and it is known that in scenes where the heart is touched, either by sentiment or pathos, Mr. Goodwin is always found at his best. This charming comedy and this delightful player hold forth but a short time with us, and it ought to be considered worth while to visit the theater and feel the touch of that bond of sympathy that always exists between him and his audiences. His support this year is said to be better than any of those whom he has had in his company in former engagements. Of the male members, the names of Neil O'Brien, Fred Tyler, J. R. Crauford, L. E. Woodthorpe, Roy Clements, J. C. Yates, Fred Tiden and Frank Bailey are recognized. The feminine contingent is headed by Zeffie Tilbury, Julia Dean, Alice Ingram, May Martin, and Suzanna Perry. The staging will be of a most exquisite nature, the settings and magnificent furnishings that were used at the Knickerbocker Theater in New York and Powers' Theater in Chicago, will be brought along.

E. H. SOTHERN IN "IF I WERE KING."

E. H. Sothern's engagement at the Grand June 30, July 1, 2, will call forth all Seattle theatre-goers to see him in his magnificent creation of Francois Villon, the hero of "If I Were King." We have had to wait quite a time to see Mr. Sothern in this play, and his appearance has been eagerly anticipated. Mr. Sothern's portrayal of Francois Villon, whom he depicts through the various stages of the man's career as rising from the gutter to greatness, is said to be one of the most absorbing examples of dramatic expression seen upon the stage. The stirring action, brilliant and picturesque scenes, and grouping and movements of the crowds of people in which Mr. Sothern's great stagecraft is seen, make the play one of absorbing interest.

Mr. Sothern's company is the entire original organization that created the play two years ago. Miss Cecilia Loftus, so well known here, although never seen here before, and late leading woman for Sir Henry Irving in London, plays the heroine, Katherine de Vaucelles, George W. Wilson, will be seen in his famous role of King Louis XI, Rowland Buckstone as Guy Taberle, Margaret Illington as Huguette, the Abbess, Henry J. Carvill, William Harris, Fannie L. Burt, Stephen Wright and many others. There are thirty-two speaking parts in the play, and in the gorgeous military spectacle in the last act 120 people take part.

ROSLYN RELICS.

Mrs. Mamie Roberts, formerly of this place, came from Seattle last Saturday, but returned Tuesday.

Rev. Tolver, pastor of the A. M. E. church, after an eight months' stormy administration, finally gave up the ghost and left for greener fields.

Children's day exercises were held at the Second Baptist church last Sunday evening. Quite a few visitors were present, but not a tenth as many as should have been.

Stephen Sheets, who has been a resident of Roslyn for the past fourteen years, will soon give up his old haunts and move to Tacoma.

Rev. J. P. Brown is making preparations to go to the association in Seattle the latter part of July, and is hopeful that enough tickets can be sold that reduced rates can be had. If fifty tickets are sold a fare and a fifth rate can be had.

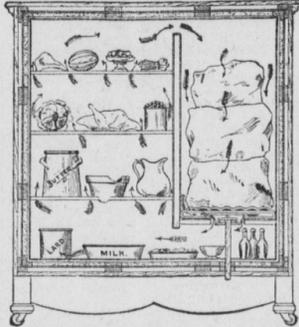

The mines here never had a more congenial and popular superintendent than the present one, Mr. H. J. Horn. He makes no effort at impressing the miners that he is superhuman, but wants you to feel in his presence that he is only a plain American citizen. He does not try to array one-class of miners against another as did a former superintendent at this place. Last Monday the miners took a holiday owing to the fact that Norris & Rowe's show was in town.

Mr. Carter Nicklas, the well known engineer, who was so seriously burned a few days ago, is getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances. During his illness J. H. Spindle will handle his wheel.
