

Roosevelt, Rough Riding Revolter

THEODOR ROOSEVELT.

Has done what the whole world knew he would do if defeated at Chicago—bolt the Republican nominee. He has always been a bulldozer and a bolter, if by so doing it would give Roosevelt office and political power. He pretended to be a Republican because that party was in power and it was easier for him to get the office he wanted from it than from the Democratic party. He would have accepted the nomination for president from the Democratic party at Baltimore as willingly as he will from the Roosevelt party. He is simply for any old party that looks like it can land him in the White House.