THE EAGLE'S TALONS

Firmly Fixed in the Wool of a So-called Detective, It Relieves Him of a Job.

The Work of Promoting the Deputies and Their Sympathizers Progressing on the Police Force.

Two Hundred and Eighty-five U. O. D.'s Still in Uniform, While Good Democrats Are Overlooked.

The pressure was too much, and Old-Man-Not-Afraid-Of-His-Whiskers has made a change in his detective force.

He has relieved the ex-city official whose accounts were in very bad order of his star.

This shows that Old-Man-Not-Afraid-Of-His-Whiskers is still in the city.

The appointment of this man to the Chicago Detective Department was in thorough keeping with the policy of the administration regarding the police force.

The man's only qualification for the place was the fact that he knew one street-car line from another.

Even this knowledge was far in advance of what some of the other fly-cops knew.

But his past record downed him, and he is out.

There are several society items in connection with the police force to chronicle.

For instance, Mr. Wally Day, who was never objectionable to the American League, has been transferred to Cottage Grove Avenue from Harrison Street, and Mr. Cluett, who has a large number of friends among the Leaguers, was transferred from Cottage Grove to Warren Avenue, to take the place of Station-keeper Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy, being an Irishman, was bounced.

But, turning from society events, which is the stronghold of the present police administration, let us confront some solemn facts.

The Chicago police force, as at present organized, has failed to work up more great crimes and to apprehend more great criminals than any other in the annals of the city.

The Snell case is an example of this kind.

So is the Eya Mitchell murder. So is the butchery of Mr. Schenemann.

Likewise the murder of Amelia Olsen.

And divers others too numerous to mention.

The diabolical attempt to blow up the Shufeldt distillery with dynamite and the attempted killing thereby of many human beings, as well as great damage to property interests, was never properly worked up. In fact, it was not attended to at all.

This is shameful.

And yet, while citizens have been butchered and property threatened, the police force has been filled up with members of the Order of Deputies and persons with corns on their fingers from playing seven-up.

George W. Hubbard, you must go!

Of all the sovereigns of Europe the Czar of Russia is the least pleased with his work. This is not owing to the fact that the Czar has nihilism to fight, but because he is constitutionally opposed to the cares of state. He likes to hunt and fish, and is very fond of his family. He is sociable by nature and enjoys sitting at a table drinking wine and talking to good friends. It is seldom, however, that he can indulge his tastes in any of these directions. He is obliged to give a great deal of time to the affairs of his vast empire, and he often wishes that he had been born in a humble station.

EAGLETS.

JAY GOULD has an orchid in his conservatory at Irvington that is valued at $5,000.

ROBERT LINCOLN has never been known to refer to any event in his father's career.

TRAVELERS report that more English is spoken on the European continent this year than ever before.

A HUGE rattlesnake crawling along the sidewalk was one of the sights at Athens, Ga., the other day.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES recently remarked that death bears as pleasing a face to an old man as sleep to one who is tired.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN, if elected to Congress, will find out that he is not the only member of that body who can figure in a ring.

An old prospector recently died at Idaho Springs, Colo., who at one time was making $4,000 per week, yet he had to be buried by charity.

A NOTABLE feature of the beginning of the school term in New York was the general display of the United States flag at the school houses.

THIRTY THOUSAND out of the forty thousand people in Jerusalem are Hebrews, and the Israelites bid fair to again become the predominant people in Palestine.

THERE is a pond in New Jersey where the sacred lotus of the East has become established and proved itself hardy, although in the winter the surface of the water is frozen over.

THE wedding trousseau of the Empress of China filled 690 boxes, each of which took two men to carry. The Emperor's two other wives were able to pack their apparel into 200 boxes.

"NO MAN," said Prince Krapotkin the other day, in a lecture, "can hardly be happy who lives without an object, or whose object is some worn-out relic from a former age, which can never be revived."

Horse boats are becoming so common in England that there is talk about taxing them. There are nearly twelve thousand pleasure boats, including house boats, used on the upper reaches of the Thames.

THE Czar has a new train of cars to travel in. The cars are connected with each other by vestibules, so that he can pass from one to another without being seen from the outside, and they are covered with iron and cork.

It has been estimated by men of science who have investigated the subject that the rock of Niagara is being worn away by the waters at such a rate that in a few thousand years the cataract will work up to Lake Erie.

F. L. PARKER, of Ann Arbor, wishes to graciously bid that old sidewalk up himself. The man to whom he let the job of building him a new sidewalk found a $20 gold piece and some silver money under the old walk.

During the fierce forest fires in Oregon the school-house at Matolius was surrounded by flames for two weeks. The people put up a tent in a safe spot, and the children were sent to school as if nothing was out of place.

NATHANIEL E. HOWARD, a retired capitalist of San Francisco, was an original "Forty-niner." He says: "I was in 'Frisco when there were 15,000 men and not a single family. Judge Terry, who was shot down while attacking Justice Field, made a lot of trouble in those days, and I was a member of the vigilance committee that kept him seven weeks in its rooms while awaiting the result of the shot-wounds Terry gave Hopkins. Had Hopkins died—and he was mighty close to death—Terry would have been lynched. He richly deserved it."

IRA TRIPP, the millionaire of Scranton, Pa., has a peculiar habit. For many years he smoked cigars until his physician told him that he must stop smoking or die. Thereupon Tripp hired a negro to smoke all day near him and blow the smoke into his face. The negro did this for years until he died, and his place was taken by a white man. Mr. Tripp is in perfect health. His smoker uses about twelve fine cigars a day. Tripp seems to derive great enjoyment from this second-hand method of indulging in tobacco.

The present Archbishop of York has the following story told of him: He took a few days' vacation in a little Yorkshire village where there were a good trout stream and a nice little hotel. His grace informed the landlord on his arrival who he was, and on leaving wrote a check for his bill. The landlord, scanning the signature closely, asked: "What name is this?" "W. Ebor," answered his grace. "Ah," said the landlord as he pocketed the check "I thought you were telling me a lie when you said that you were the Archbishop of York."

EX-GOVERNOR HOWARD of Rhode Island believes that the abolition of capital punishment has been proved desirable by the experience of his State. Convicted murderers are imprisoned for life and released, even after many years' confinement, have been very rare. The ex-Governor contends that crimes of violence are less frequent in Rhode Island than in some other States, even in proportion to population. The characteristics of Rhode Island as a little State of comparatively small communities may be taken as telling against the force of the ex-Governor's idea.

AN exchange says: Victoria, C. Woodhull (assuming citizenship in this country) announcing herself as a candidate for President of the United States in 1892. Mrs. Woodhull is married to a rich English gentleman named John Biddulph Martin. She ought to be satisfied to have a nice home, and she certainly ought to keep out of politics. As a citizen of England she has no right to be elected President of the United States. As a matter of fact her sex also deprives her of this luxury. Furthermore, Belva A. Lockwood has a lien on the Presidency, and as soon as the Constitution is changed to admit of her taking the chair she will be unanimously elected.

A FIRM of enterprising bootmakers have hit on a novelty in the advertising line which must possess irresistible attraction for every genuine snob. They announce "best boots and shoes at ready-money prices, made on selected lasts of the following gentlemen, perfect feet only having been chosen for stock models." This follows a list of the names of these perfect feet: assorted sizes, including a distinguished collection of ex-sport names. This arrangement has the double advantage that any one going to this establishment must have a chance of being chosen as a stock model and having his name mentioned in this roll of fame as owner of a perfect pair of feet.
