"The probable foundation for the report is that I am making some memoranda for my own private use that will make clear certain affairs of state that have arisen during the four years I was President, and that might not be readily understood otherwise. I don't expect to publish these memoranda during my lifetime. There were numerous complicated situations that posterity will wish to understand, and that I desire to make plain."

No Opposition to Cleveland's Cabinet Appointments.

There was quite a crowd at the Capitol to see the Senate in extra session. Every seat was filled. Mr. Stevenson and friends occupying prominent places to see the new Vice President preside. He did so with perfect self-possession. The Chaplain had hardly finished his prayer when at 11:50 Major Pruden, the President's executive clerk, appeared upon the floor of the Senate bearing the nominations of the officers of President Cleveland's Cabinet. After the Journal of Saturday's session was read Mr. Pruden presented his message and on motion of Senator Harris the Senate went into executive session. The executive session lasted less than half an hour. There was a scurry among the newspaper men to learn what had been done and it was quietly announced that all of the nominations had been confirmed. There was no opposition, so far as could be learned, all the Senators voting aye. Neither Senator Hill nor Senator Murphy, of New York, had anything to say in favor of or against the nominations and voted promptly to confirm them. As soon as the doors were opened the Senate adjourned till Thursday noon.

IN UNUSUAL DEMAND.

Money in Large Sums Is Drawn West from New York.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The great feature for the last fortnight has been the unusual demand for money from the West and South, which has drawn large sums from New York. Telegraphed reports show that while money is tight at only one or two small points, there is a strong demand at Boston and Detroit, at Chicago, where the drain from the West is heavy, and at Milwaukee. There is a fair demand at St. Joseph. Money is fairly easy at Cleveland, in light demand at Philadelphia and Kansas City, and also easy with light demand at Mobile and New Orleans. The large withdrawals from New York City under these circumstances are by many attributed to the distrust of speculative operations. The situation is to a large extent waiting on the action of the new administration, but it is evident that a better feeling has prevailed during the last few days, and rates in New York, after rising from 3 to 6, have fallen to 5 per cent. General trade is brisk.

Declines a Proffered Loan.

In the Senate Mr. Teller, Republican, Colorado, in order to prove the ability and desire of the West to help the Government, read a dispatch which he had received from the Clearing House Association of Denver, offering to exchange $1,000,000 in gold coin for $1,000,000 in legal tender notes. He said that he had communicated this dispatch to the Secretary of the Treasury and had received this answer: "Will receive gold in Denver. Amount of express charges on currency will be $150, which Denver parties will have to pay. The gold will be sent through the postoffice at no cost to the Government. If I should pay express charges it will be equivalent to paying premiums on gold—a thing I do not like to do." Mr. Teller's reply to this, entirely upon his own responsibility, was: "I do not think the Denver banks will pay the expense you mention. I can see no reason why they should." In view of that correspondence Mr. Teller thought that the reported strait of the Treasury Department was entirely unfounded. He was authoritatively informed that several millions of gold could be had in the same way from the extreme West if the Treasury Department desired it. If the West did not get all it wanted in appropriation bills it contributed more to the growth of the country than any other section.
