THE GOVERNOR AND THE PRESIDENT.

Considerable bitterness has been injected by outside parties into the discussion between the President of the United States and the Governor of Illinois, relative to complications arising out of the ordering out of Federal troops in Chicago last week by the National Government.

THE COUNCIL WAS WISE.

The City Council is to be commended for refusing to entertain the mischievous and demagogic demands for the removal of the federal troops last Monday evening.

PULLMAN IS RESPONSIBLE.

No matter what the outcome of the Pullman strike may be, the people of Chicago will always hold George M. Pullman directly responsible for the losses it entails.

THE INDUSTRIAL UPHEAVAL.

During the past week the citizens of Chicago have been compelled by untoward and unusual events to experience a very trying ordeal.

have been sacrificed. Where it will all end no man at this time can foretell. The original features of the discussion have been almost lost sight of, and that which began as a mere dispute between a private corporation and its employees has to-day developed into a struggle of national proportions between capital and labor, and one that threatens to paralyze, for the time being at least, every industry in the country.

It is well for the people of Chicago that at such a peculiarly trying and even dangerous crisis they have at the head of her municipal government a man worthy of the occasion, and fitted both by nature and by training to cope with the tremendous difficulties that to-day confront them.

Mayor Hopkins has thus far succeeded in wisely, prudently, and unselfishly guiding the affairs of the city and of the public in these times of trouble and of peril. Enormous responsibilities have been thrust upon his shoulders. While the city of Chicago has been virtually placed under martial law, the reliability, cool judgment and natural sagacity of Chicago's Mayor has been recognized, both by the Federal and State governments, the troops of both having been virtually placed at the command and disposal of Mayor Hopkins by the President and the Governor.

PULLMAN VS. MILITIA.

It is to be deplored that the pending labor troubles in this city should have occasioned the heavy loss of human life which has thus far marked its progress, but we cannot at the same time refrain from expressing our admiration of the restraint and coolness that has characterized the conduct of the regular soldiers and police throughout the whole unhappy business.

TRACK ELEVATION.

With the passage of the track elevation ordinances for the Rock Island and Lake Shore Roads, the elevation of railroad tracks and the abolition of the fatal grade crossings, which have for so many years disgraced Chicago and shocked humanity, have become accomplished facts.

and his employees. A committee of investigation, independent and reliable, could be appointed, and it could report the facts to a special meeting of the City Council, if the emergency demanded one. The City Council could take such action as the report might warrant, and it is possible that this action might take the shape of a representation to the State and national government; that the Pullman Company is no longer deserving of military or police protection, and the situation one which would warrant, in the interest of the community, special legislation.

THE FALL CAMPAIGN

The turmoil and confusion incident to the great strike and boycott have for the time being put politics and the approaching fall campaign in the background. There will, however, be a revival of interest in matters political week after next, with the holding of the Republican State convention, which meets at Springfield July 25.

The convention promises to be a very tame affair indeed. The party has committed itself to an unalterable opposition to the nomination in convention of a candidate for the United States Senate, and the only pronounced aspirants for that office on the Republican side—Shelby M. Cullom and William E. Mascoe—are both anxious that a nomination be made.

CONGRESSIONAL NOMINATIONS.

Four Democratic Congressional conventions were held last week and resulted in the nomination of good candidates, men, in fact, who will add strength to both the State and county tickets.

In the Third District it was a foregone conclusion that Lawrence E. McGann would receive the nomination. This is a deserved tribute to the sterling worth and integrity of Mr. McGann. He has proven himself a trustworthy, loyal and capable representative of his constituents and a very useful member of Congress.

In the Fourth District Timothy Flyn was nominated, and doubtless will be elected, though Frank Lawler threatens to run independent. It is not likely, however, that Mr. Lawler will carry out his threat.

In the Sixth District it was by no means safely Democratic; indeed, the Republicans have strong hopes of carrying it with either George E. Adams or Mr. Plotke, both of whom are mentioned as candidates.

The most notable incident in connection with the Congressional conventions was the victory of Edward T. Noonan over Congressman Durbin in the Fifth District. The latter gentleman and his friends were in high hopes of winning out up to the last moment.

Mr. Noonan will undoubtedly be elected, and will make an excellent Representative.

PULLMAN'S MULLISHNESS.

It is a pity that the efforts of the special committee on arbitration came to naught last week. Though the committee failed in its final effort Monday to accomplish the desired result, its members are none the less deserving of the thanks of the public.

The committee was appointed on motion of Ald. McGillen, in the hope that something might be done to adjust the difficulties and disputes between the Pullman Company and its employees, and thus save the city and the country at large from the trials and inconveniences of a general industrial tie-up.

The committee, which consisted of Ald. McGillen, Powers, Marrenner, and Muelhoefer, performed its duty faithfully and intelligently. It made an earnest effort—one that showed how deeply its members were impressed with the gravity of the situation—to adjust matters and ward off the dangers and tribulations that confront us.

Ald. McGillen, as chairman, made a most able presentation of the case to both sides, and suggested a plan that promised fair for an honorable compromise.

Through the obduracy of the representatives of the Pullman Company the efforts of the committee proved futile. The public, however, will not fail to appreciate the labors of Ald. McGillen and his committee. These gentlemen have proven themselves worthy, useful and capable citizens.

OBITUARY.

James Sullivan was buried in Calvary Cemetery. At 10 o'clock the casket was taken from the house on Grand boulevard to Holy Angels' Church.

At the church the cortege was met by a delegation from the Newspaper and Press clubs. To the solemn music of Schubert's requiem on the organ the casket was borne up the center aisle of the church by the six brothers of the deceased—Jerry B. Patrick, John B. Timothy, Michael E., and William B. Sullivan.

The remains were met at the altar by Father Edward Kelly, who celebrated the mass for the dead, assisted by Father Gilmarin as deacon and Father Walsh as subdeacon.

Within the sanctuary sat Father Tighe, priest of the parish; Rev. Dr. Butler, Father Callaghan, and Father Hodnett. The music of the mass was given by the church quartet. Miss Katharine Becker, soprano; Miss L. Graham, contralto; Mr. Coxson, tenor, and Mr. Wirtshereck, basso.

A. Schneiderworth was organist. During the services Miss Maggie Duggan sang "Vital Spark," and Professor Charles Moore Handel's "Angels Ever public sentiment. Millions of dollars' worth of property has been destroyed in Chicago within the last few days, hundreds of thousands have been expended for transportation and maintenance of troops and militia, great suffering and deprivation has been caused, business has been paralyzed, and the monetary loss in wages and trade can hardly be estimated.

And this condition of affairs continues. George M. Pullman could end it by raising a finger. He holds the key to the situation. He may believe he is right, but public sentiment holds that he is wrong, and he should respect the popular verdict. He may believe he is making a fight for principle, but the entire community is equally positive that he has mistaken obstinacy for firmness.

Mr. Pullman has it in his power to stop this needless and criminal waste. In refusing to do so he is morally just as responsible as he would be if he personally caused the waste. There is no humiliation in doing right. By persevering in his present course George M. Pullman will not only deserve the resentment of his old employees but he will deserve and receive that popular condemnation which blasts and withers all it touches.

Mr. Pullman's present attitude makes him to-day the greatest enemy Chicago has ever had. No man can afford to stand in such a position. He should yield at once.

ling to the final and perfect accomplishment of one of the greatest reforms ever initiated on a practical basis within the limits of the city of Chicago.

JAMES SULLIVAN.

All that was mortal of our dear lost friend James Sullivan was interred at Calvary cemetery last Saturday.

His hosts of friends did not fail to pay their last mournful tribute to his memory. Beautiful flowers covered his bier, and through the long summer days and autumn evenings will fragrantly fade upon his silent grave, mournful reminders of the fate of all things human.

Long lines of carriages followed his remains to their last resting place, and an eloquent and reverend friend paid a beautiful and touching tribute to the virtues of the departed in a splendid panegyric. When the winter's frosts and snows shall come, the blossoms on the grave will fade and wither, but to those who knew him in life and had the privilege of his acquaintance and his friendship, the memory of Jim Sullivan will be green and fadeless as the shamrock of his native land.

EXPRESSION OF BYPATHY CONVEYED.

Mrs. James Sullivan received the following telegram, which indicates the esteem in which her late husband was held by the Irish party:

LONDON, July 3, 1901.

Mrs. James Sullivan, 424 Grand boulevard: On behalf of the Irish party we wish to convey our deepest sympathy with your terrible sorrow and our profound sense of the loss sustained by the Irish cause by the death of Mr. Sullivan.

J. ESTIN MCCARTNEY, Chairman.

- REXTON, BLAKE, O'BRIEN, T. P. O'CONNOR, T. D. SULLIVAN, HEALY, DILLON, DAVITY.

At a meeting of the Columbus Club the following resolutions upon the death of Mr. Sullivan were adopted:

The members of the Columbus Club, having learned of the death of their fellow member, James Sullivan, desire to express their deep sorrow at his untimely demise; to record their appreciation of his many good qualities, and to convey to his widow and family their sincere sympathy in their great bereavement.

Resolved, That this memorandum be spread upon the permanent records of the club; that an engraved copy be sent to the widow of the deceased and that the President appoint a committee from the membership of the club to attend the funeral.

Bright and Fair." The sermon was preached by Rev. Father Hodnett. He said Mr. Sullivan was a strong, vigorous thinker, and expressed himself in the purest and simplest Anglo-Saxon. He endeared himself to all who knew him in his profession; he was helpful to the younger men; he preferred to keep himself in the background. He never abused his power in the press; he was ever ready to criticize, challenge and attack those who were counter to his paper's policy, and when personally attacked he maintained a dignified silence.

He was charitable and delighted in good works. In his family he was the model husband, the loving father. His will be a void difficult to fill. The services were attended by numbers of men prominent in city and State politics. Honorary pallbearers were: Mayor Hopkins, Sheriff Gilbert, Postmaster Heing, Thomas Brennan, Ald. Madden, J. R. B. Van Cleave, Arthur Dixon, Judge Goggin, Thomas Gahan, Thomas Byrnes, William Dillon, W. A. S. Graham, William E. Lewis, of the Times; Edward Lahiff, of the Herald; Leigh Riley, of the Mail; F. P. Dunne, of the Post; Montgomery F. Gibbs and F. A. Vanderlip, of the Press Club; R. W. Patterson, W. Van Benthuyzen, Elias Colbert, E. J. McPhelim, John A. Corwin, and J. M. Glenn, of the Tribune. Floral tributes were sent by the family, the Sheridan Club, Judge Goggin, Mrs. Peter White, the Newspaper Club, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Trude, Mayor Hopkins, Sheriff Gilbert, J. J. McCracken, Ald. Madden, Ald. Powers, Thomas Gahan, the Press Club, P. J. O'Keefe, and the Tribune.

DOINGS AT CHICAGO HEIGHTS.

The Chicago Heights Land Association has closed a contract with Wood, Smith & Co., manufacturers of carriage and wagon springs and axles, for sixty-eight years located at Fort Plain, N. Y., for a location of five acres in block 107, directly north of the Inland Steel Company and the works of the Washburn & Swenson company.
