HOW ABOUT DUNNE?

Beef Trust Said to Have Dominated the Local Harrison Political Machine for Years.

Why the City Inspection of Diseased Beef, Dead Swine and Poultry Was Discontinued.

The Beef Trust is going to cut a big figure in local politics. Developments point to the fact that the Beef Trust manipulated some people connected with the Harrison administration to suit itself.

Everybody knows that the only protection vouchsafed the people is a rigid inspection of the beef, sheep and swine that are killed.

Everybody knows that the National and State inspection is farcical to such a degree as to be positively dangerous to the public health.

Everybody knows that under a number of city administrations the city maintained a force of inspectors and a competent bacteriologist on the ground, to condemn animals that were unfit for food.

Everybody knows what happened to Dr. Jacques, the city bacteriologist, who performed his duty faithfully and who offended the Beef Trust by defending the public.

Everybody knows that he was summarily dismissed under the Harrison administration and the city inspection of Beef Trust input and output was discontinued.

Why? Because, it has since developed, the Beef Trust owns, controls, regulates and shapes the destiny of the local Harrison machine, otherwise the regular Democratic organization.

The Beef Trust has had its men in control of the policy of the Harrison organization.

It must, therefore, have shaped the policy and controlled the acts of the Harrison administration.

That is why the wretched cattle known to the trade as "Canners,"

The putrid and unclean poultry left for years in cold storage with entrails undrawn,

The stunk calves,

The hogs which died in transit,

The lumpy jawed animals,

And the hog cholera sausages stuffed into diseased intestines,

Have been served up and sold for food without any let or hindrance from the city of Chicago.

Rotten politics has much to do with rotten food.

But the Beef Trust, which laughs at National Government inspection, simply guffaws at the very idea of city government inspection.

The Beef Trust inquiry must cease. To secure a more extended food inspection for Chicago, six of the prime movers of the Consumers' League called upon Commissioner of Health Whalen. They offered the services of a corps of skilled inspectors. Dr. Whalen agreed to co-operate with the league.

While they declare the work they do is efficient, the members of the league assert more men are needed.

The committee which called on Dr. Whalen was composed of the following: Miss Jane Adams, Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, Cornelia De Bey, Harriet Vanderveart, Anna Nicholes, and Paul Pierce.

"We have no complaint to make with the work of the Health Department," said Mrs. Lathrop, "but on account of the few men whom they can employ the inspection is not as far reaching as it should be."

The inspection proposed by the league will be entirely independent of state or city authorities. Within a few days a large corps of inspectors will be sent out.

What an awful fuss the daily newspapers make over the insurance scandals! And yet not one person in 1,000 is affected by them. Yet the daily newspapers have nothing to say against the Beef Trust, which robs every man, woman and child in the community every day.

The workman and every other man for that matter is entitled to pure food and pure medicine. A government that does not protect a man and his family in these particulars deserves to be overthrown. The Beef Trust must go.

The Beef Trust is going to control the grazing business as well as the rest of the cattle trade. It is acquiring title to millions of acres of land in Colorado for the purpose of raising cattle.

It is but fair to say that the result of such investigation was to prove that no claim made by the manufacturers regarding the high nutritive quality, or touching the beneficial constituents of this malt product have been in the slightest degree overdrawn. A second branch of our investigation involved careful questioning of the leaders of the medical staff and the securing of confidential and unprejudiced expressions of opinion concerning the worth of this preparation to nursing women, in marasmus, consumption, in nervous diseases, dyspepsia, and all complaints involving digestion and assimilation, or where nutrition was the desired end; and common justice impels us to say that the result of such investigation—the hearty and unanimous endorsement and approval bestowed upon Malt Sineu by those highest in their profession—was sufficient, alone, to stamp this remedy as being of highest value for all anemic and pulmonary diseases and cases of nervous debility, and especially valuable to nursing women.

It is for these reasons we single out Malt Sineu, and call the attention of the profession and the public to its rare and surpassing merits—merits not possessed by any other extract of malt tonic ever offered the practitioner—and would heartily advise the securing of the great benefits arising from the use of it.

It is the only remedy of the kind having the unqualified editorial endorsement of the Chicago Journal of Health. It is not only without an equal, but stands without a superior, beyond question or doubt the malt tonic par excellence. Its use will be found to justify the strongest endorsement that can be bestowed. Of no other similar preparation can we say the same.

Manufactured by Malt-Sineu Company, 327 North Hoyne avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Tel. Humboldt 150; Calumet 800.

From Chicago Journal of Health, the American authority on matters of Sanitation and Hygiene as to which is really "The Best," an editorial report for the benefit of our readers. By James S. Clark, M. D. (Copyright, 1904, by A. F. Leopold.)

It is unnecessary to say to the readers of the Chicago Journal of Health that no other consideration is taken into account save the interest of the public, and that in reviewing any preparation or tonic upon the market, the name of the manufacturer, or the claims made for such product by interested parties, have no weight whatever in shaping the opinions of the editorial department of this journal.

In following out these principles we have in the past felt called upon to freely criticize several of the liquid remedies and malt tonics extensively advertised in the daily newspapers and even magazines of high standing, the claims of which were found upon rigid examination, made by the chemical department of these reports, to be, in many cases, far overdrawn, and in several cases glaringly untrue. Some of these preparations have neither good or bad qualities, having no medicinal value whatever, and being incapable of doing any harm by their false claims, save in inducing those needing a mild stimulant to pay a high price for stuff possessing no more therapeutic value than colored water. That in one or two instances were found products to have value in special cases we freely admit, but none which came under the notice of the analytical corps and medical staff of these reports displayed essential elements indicating high curative qualities of sufficient value to deserve endorsement at our hands, hence
