MICHIGAN TAX CROOKS

More Suits Filed in Van Buren County, Michigan, to Remove Clouds on Titles Than in Any Other County in the United States.

Land Sharks and Others So Bold in Their Juggling of Books and Descriptions That Uncle Sam May Get Them.

There are more suits filed in the courts of Van Buren County, Michigan, to remove clouds from land titles than there are filed for that purpose in any other county in the United States, including those containing the largest cities in the country.

There have been more professional land thieves at work in Van Buren County than in any other county in the United States, and they are still at work.

Men connected with certain lines of business and using officials elected in some townships as their tools are engaged all of the time in clouding the titles of honest and bona fide land owners.

This fact has done more to keep the county back than any other thing.

The bad name given to this part of the State of Michigan by the land crooks is becoming a by-word throughout the nation.

Many of these crooks claim land on the strength of tax titles—obtained after the rightful owners had paid the taxes—through juggling of descriptions and tax books.

Efforts are to be made to reach some of them through Federal action, as the peculiar hold they have on local authorities precludes hope of reform in that direction.

Victims of these bands of crooks are advised that if they live outside of Michigan they can bring suit against officials, backers, brokers or others who damage them or their interests in the U. S. courts.

The citizens of Van Buren County should wake up to the situation and retire these grafters to the penitentiary or to some other place where their public records cannot injure the community.

Van Buren County is naturally rich in soil, delightful in climate and geographically ideal for success in every line.

Its prospects have been blighted. The testimony of all outside people who have invested there is that they have been skinned and bothered by the land shark syndicate.
