To Mend an Ugly Tear.
Sometimes you are unfortunate enough to make an ugly tear in a handsome new gown. It may be mended very successfully, and if in an inconspicuous place it will not show at all. Lay the tear edge to edge, and baste across it, being careful that while the edges meet, they do not overlap. Cut a piece of rubber tissue, which may be obtained at any tailoring shop, to amply cover the tear. Lay the garment on the ironing board right side down, place the rubber over the rent, and over the rubber lay a piece of goods of the same material as that of the garment to be mended. Keep both rubber and goods perfectly smooth, and press out with a hot iron for several minutes. Now cut out the basting threads on the right side, and shave off any rough edges remaining. When there is no material of the dress on hand, a piece of lightweight woolen goods of the same color will answer. That the bottoms of men's trousers are held together in this way is a good sign that the method is practical and successful.

Use for Old Leather.
One should always save the tops of old shoes, or the gauntlets of heavy riding gloves or other pieces of leather. They are excellent as an interlining for iron holders.
Do not make the holder too large, as it is clumsy to handle. Those which are oval in shape are preferable. Cut the covering and the interlining the same size and shape, stitch all the thicknesses on the machine, close to the edge of the material, then bind with a tape or piece of seam binding.

Pongee Again.

As sure as the coming of summer pongee in some form appears. This year there are lovely pongee parasols. Some are mounted on brown frames and sticks, with no other trimming than brown cords on the handles and brown tassels on the ends. Another shows lovely blue butterflies embroidered all over the inside of the parasol, with blue cord and blue ends to the sticks.

A Footwear Fad.
The few who wish to follow fashion's whim in footwear can wear, this summer, white oxfords with black shoe laces and black stockings. This combination is sanctioned by New York's latest decree. Of course the generality of women will use the conservative all white.

A Dress Protector.
When the yoke of a nightdress becomes worn, cut off the nightdress skirt, take out the sleeves and sew it together across the top, leaving a small opening through which the hook of a suit hanger may be slipped, and

Unfolding of Summer and Sport Suits

No one is prepared for midsummer unless she has ready for warm weather a sport suit, or a sport coat that may be worn with skirts of the same character, supplemented by a sweater of sweater-coat. The sport suit has made a place for itself that nothing else can fill. It is not an extravagance even for the woman who believes in reducing her expenditure on clothes to necessities, for the sport suit replaces dressier and less generally wearable clothes. It is smart enough to take the place of afternoon frocks and it remains informal, whatever it is made of. "Suit" is a term that covers the combination of a sport skirt and a sport coat that do not match, as well as skirt and coat of the same material.
A handsome example of the first combination appears in the suit on the left of the two models shown in the picture. In this the skirt is of white satin and is made of one of those new weaves that appear to be better suited to sport skirts than to anything else. It is strong and brilliant. On the overlapped seam at the left side, five large, flat pearl buttons are set near the bottom. Nothing could be done more to emphasize the character of the skirt.
The coat is in the same class as the skirt, and is made of bright green silk tricolette, with sailor collar and band of self-colored embroidery about the bottom. A satin vest worn with it has small pearl buttons, set close together, down the front. Bright green tulle coats with machine stitching of white silk, and coats crocheted of the green silk in lace designs are noteworthy among the novelties to be worn with white satin or silk sport skirts. All the coats have belts or sashes.
The suit at the right is made of a heavy ribbed silk—skirt and coat of the same material. There are several patterns in these sport silks, some of them in two colors, others in figured designs of one color. Angora cloth is a favorite for embellishing them, placed in bands about the skirt and coat and as cuffs and collars. But many of these silks are untrimmed, as the fanciful fabric makes variety enough. Even in sport suits the vest has made a place for itself, and it appears in this model with cuff at the bottom having six little buttons set along the center. But there are many sport coats that ignore the vogue of vests.
