

JOSEPH R. DUNLOP, Veteran Journalist and Newspaper Man.

Joseph R. Dunlop has been a striking figure in the newspaper world of Chicago for over forty years. His career has been an eventful one. Coming to this city in 1854 as a boy he obtained employment in Knight & Leonard's job printing establishment, where he learned the printing trade. Charles E. Leonard, of the firm of Knight & Leonard, became a great friend to young Dunlop and secured him the position of foreman for the J. M. W. Jones printing house, at that time the largest job house in Chicago. Dunlop was at that time barely 21 years of age. Mr. Leonard, his patron, came to Chicago from Detroit, with Wilbur F. Storey, the great editor and publisher of the famous Chicago Times. In Detroit Leonard had run the Detroit Free Press job printing establishment when Mr. Storey was the owner of that paper and plant. As young Dunlop had manifested a desire to enter the daily newspaper field, Mr. Leonard talked with Mr. Storey about getting him a place on the Times. In 1871 Dunlop was given a position as proofreader and then as a reporter on Mr. Storey's paper. Every oldtime Chicago newspaper man knows how he distinguished himself. His great work in exposing the frauds practiced on the national government in the building of the Custom House and on the local governments in the construction of the new city hall and county buildings in the '70's are matters of history. Mr. Storey then sent Mr. Dunlop to New Mexico to expose some frauds on the government land office. Accomplishing that work, he also wrote an account of the finishing of the Southern Pacific railway system and the driving of the silver spike in connection therewith. On his return to Chicago he was appointed city editor of the Times by Mr. Storey and was afterwards advanced to the position of managing editor and then to the position of chief editor of the paper. Mr. Dunlop was holding the position of chief editor of the Times and was in absolute control of it, when Carter H. Harrison bought a controlling interest in the paper, and took the helm himself. Dunlop then bought the Mail, the evening edition of the Times, and after selling it to the Weigley-Hatton syndicate, established the Chicago Dispatch. Mr. Dunlop was one of the organizers and a charter member of the Press Club of Chicago in 1880. He was one of its charter members; served on its first board of directors and was twice elected president of the club, serving each time with distinction.

PUBLIC SERVICE BUNK

The Tooth Extracting and Smoke Consuming Department in the City Hall Makes People Laugh.

Why doesn't the alleged city department of Public Service get after the fraudulent weighing machines, with which the city is infested?

Can you guess why it doesn't? There are 102,641 of these machines scattered all over the city on city sidewalks.

It is safe to say that 100,000 of them are out of order most of the time.

They yield an immense revenue, as each patron is obliged to give up one cent for the privilege of finding out how much he does not weigh.

Another fraud on the public is the counterfeit gum vending cent-in-the-slot machine, which in the majority of cases, takes the cent but yields no gum.

Why is it that the City Department of Public Service permits these frauds to exist?

William White of 2644 Pine Grove avenue may be the next state senator from the 21st district. He is very popular, Chicago-born like his father and mother, has plenty of money and stands high with all of his fellow Republicans. The young men of the district are for him if he will consent to make the race.

H. H. Merrick is one of the leaders in the civic life of Chicago. As president of the Association of Commerce he has done great work for the city, its present and future. Mr. Merrick is president of the Great Lakes Trust Company, Chicago's new big bank, which started in with a capital of $3,000,000, and a surplus of $600,000. All of the stock was oversubscribed for.

C. A. Bickett, the well known and highly respected president of the Bickett Coal and Coke Company, although still a young man, has led a very active life and has been a potent figure in the business world for many years. Whether as president of the Chicago Bearing Metal Company, the Bickett Coal and Coke Company, or as a director of the Fort Dearborn National Bank, he has won the high regard of the business public.
