ALL THE SAME TO HIM.

Confederate Private Was No Longer Particular with Whom He Ate.

A crowd of old confederates were swapping war stories when one of them told the following to a Louisville Courier-Journal man:

"One of the most striking figures in the armies of the west was Gen. John Magruder, C. S. A. He was what might be called a 'Murat' of a man, for in the hardest times 'Prince John' could always show a natty uniform, and he always went into battle, the soldiers said, with enough fuss and feathers to have marched down a dozen men. It was evidently his determination to die not only with his boots on, but with all his good clothes as well. Added to his love of dress was a fondness for good eating that led him to every promising home near a camping ground.

"On one occasion, with his staff, he rode up to a handsome, old-fashioned home in Tennessee, and with his most courtly bow and gallant manner hinted that food would not be unacceptable to his famished soldiers. The lady of the mansion bade him enter and hastily sent servants running hither and thither to provide a meal for such handsome and gallant soldiers.

"About the time the dinner was weighing down the table and just before the officers had been invited to enter the dining-room, a poor private, who in peace would have been styled a gentleman, sneaked up to the back door and begged a bite to eat.

"The hospitable hostess, absolutely ignorant of military etiquette, told him to come in immediately, that dinner was just on the table.

"The officers, Gen. Magruder and the rest are just getting ready to eat," she said; "you are in nice time."

"Had he not been so hungry the private might have run on the spot. But hunger conquers all fears and he quickly followed his hostess to the dining-room, determined to snatch a few bites, and run before he could be sent to the guard house.

"The officers had not entered. The private slipped into a seat and began a savage attack on the food before him. Chicken, ham, and everything in sight and reach were seized by the soldier. When 'Prince John' and the staff came he expected nothing more than death. The door opened, and with the hostess on his arm Gen. Magruder entered the dining-room.

"In a moment the general saw the private.

"What are you doing here?" thundered the officer.

"The private sent half a corn-pone to the chicken he had just swallowed and reached for a piece of ham. He was too busy to talk.

"Gen. Magruder strode up in his splendid uniform, and touched the dirty-coated figure seated composedly at the table.

"Sirrah, do you know with whom you are to eat?"

"The soldier never looked up. He only grunted out between bites: 'Don't know—don't care—was a time when I was mighty particular. All that gone. Too hungry—willing to eat with anybody.'

"He was allowed to finish his meal."

A Destructive Charge. One of the most terrible conflicts of the civil war occurred near Centuria, Boone county, Mo., in the afternoon of Tuesday, September 27, 1864. Nearly 200 federal soldiers, commanded by Maj. A. V. E. Johnson, of the Thirty-ninth Missouri infantry, riding out after guerrillas, met there Capt. Bill Anderson and George Todd, with 225 men. Scarcely a dozen of the federal soldiers escaped with their lives, while of the guerrillas two only were killed and one mortally wounded. There is nowhere in the history of the world record of a charge more destructive than that made on the fair September afternoon. Every man in the federal line of battle perished, and only half a score of those left to hold the horses got away.—St. Louis Republic.

Economy. Economy no more means saving money than it means spending money. It means the administration of a house, the stewardship; spending or saving, that is, whether money or time, or anything else, to the best possible advantage.—Ruskia.

Sympathetic. "Henry" caught Mrs. Peck. "I wish you would go for the doctor, I can't hardly breathe."

"Don't try, my dear, if it hurts you," calmly replied Henry.—Chicago Evening News.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

Congress Awards a Medal for Gallantry Thirty-Five Years After the Act.

"This soldier, at the risk of his own life, saved the life of an officer who had been shot down and overpowered by superior numbers," are the words of the special act of congress passed in 1863, by which Assistant Secretary of War O. W. Melickjohn is authorized to send Daniel B. Moore, bailiff in the sheriff's office and attached to Judge Hall's court, the medal which he received from the war department a few days ago for conspicuous gallantry shown at Fort Blakely, Ala., April 9, 1865, says the Chicago Times-Ocean. Mr. Moore has never pressed his claims to be awarded the medal in all these years, but his friends have put the case before the war department on several occasions, and now, after 35 years, he is decorated by his country. And since his mother was a native of Illinois this state has a share in his gallant deed.

DANIEL B. MOORE.

Mr. Moore was born in Iowa county, Wisconsin, in 1838, his father being one of the first white settlers and a fighter in the Black Hawk war. His elder brother was the first white child born in Wisconsin. At the opening of the civil war Mr. Moore enlisted in the Eleventh Wisconsin, company E, and went first to Missouri, serving there with the thirty-third Illinois in a brigade under Col. Hovey, and later in the Thirtieth army corps under Gen. McClellan. He was through the fight at Vicksburg, and after enlisting in Texas went with the Seventeenth army corps to Mobile. Then, at the attack on Fort Blakely, to use his own words, the company in which he was a corporal received orders to charge the enemy's defenses, and nine of us got into one of the open spaces or roads between the works by which they brought up their pickets, and seven of the nine were shot down. Lieut. Angus McDonald, who was leading us, and I, however, jumped over into the fort, and then one of the enemy rushed up and wounded me in the thigh with his bayonet, and was about to thrust once again into the lieutenant's side when I shot him, and then fought with the butt of my gun over the body and kept them all off until the position was taken. I was wounded in the head with a bayonet, but escaped without injury of a lasting nature. For this I was made a brevet captain, and later was recommended for the medal. The lieutenant returned to Madison, Wis., and died there in 1894. While I am proud to be so decorated, I never would have pressed for it. The medal is of copper, hanging by a ribbon of the national colors from a bar and inscribed as follows:

"THE CONGRESS TO SERGT. DANIEL B. MOORE, COMPANY E, ELEVENTH WISCONSIN INFANTRY, FOR GALLANTRY AT FORT BLAKELY, ALABAMA, APRIL 9, 1865."

GRANT'S GENEROSITY. Shares His Personal Supply of Currencies with a Captured Confederate.

Representative Vespasian Warner spoke from personal acquaintance with his subject when he made one of the addresses accepting the Grant statue placed in the capitol recently. Warner carried a musket in the Twentieth Illinois at the time Grant was a captain, stationed at Springfield and engaged in mobilizing the Illinois volunteers. He was a boy of 19 at that time. Grant commanded the Twenty-first Illinois. He took a fancy to the boy subaltern and showed him many personal kindnesses. It was somewhat due to Grant's recognition of young Warner's capabilities that the private soldier obtained his first commission. The tribute which Mr. Warner made to the great commander's memory came straight from the heart. It contained this story illustrative of Grant's character: "He fought battles not for the purpose of killing men, but for the purpose of saving his country, and when a battle was over he wished to take his enemies to his heart and make them his and his country's friends. I do not believe he ever had an unkind feeling for any man, living or dead, whether he wore the blue or the gray, and I do believe his great heart went out to all. When Gen. Buckner, at Fort Donelson, asked that commissioners might be appointed to consider the question of capitulation, Gen. Grant answered that such commissioners were unnecessary, adding that he purposed to move immediately upon their works. That was Grant, the general. Gen. Buckner surrendered unconditionally, and that night, after 'taps,' Gen. Grant found and entered Gen. Buckner's tent, and taking out his pocketbook, said: 'Gen. Buckner, you are a prisoner and will be sent north. I presume you have no money that is current with us, and I wish to share mine with you.' That was Grant, the man."

ON AN LAST. "Have you ever loved before?" she asked, gazing at him tenderly. "O, yes," replied the roving young man. "I've had four fine starts. But this is a sure go now."—Philadelphia North American.

They were sitting on the sandy beach, and no word had been spoken by either for a full minute. "You doubt me?" he at length exclaimed. "Have I not told you over and over again that I love you, and you only and did I ever tell you an untruth, Katherine?"

"I would that I could have absolute faith in you," she replied, stifling a sob; "but I heard you tell uncle that you once caught a brook trout that weighed three pounds and six ounces." And the tears flowed down her fair young face, while he tapped the sand with his foot and solemnly gazed over the wide blue sea.—London Answers.

LABORING UNDER DIFFICULTIES. "Did you see the Chinese language is monosyllabic?" said Mr. Meekton. "Yes," answered the professor. "Well! Well! I must tell Henrietta about that. The idea of the empress dowager and the other ladies of the court being obliged to express their feelings one little syllable at a time!"—Washington Star.

STRANGE AFFAIR. "It is shameful the way Marmaduke McCorker has treated Miss Fiferkins." "What did he do?" "Oh, he stimulated her to improve her mind and then broke the engagement on the ground that he was afraid to marry a woman who knew so much."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE REASON. Briggs—Young Wilkinson seems low spirited. I wonder what's the matter with him? Sharpe—His uncle is dead. Briggs—But his uncle has been dead several days, and he seemed cheerful enough till to-day. Sharpe—Yes; but the will was read last night.—N. Y. World.

HOW THE FUSS STARTED. "That hand-me-down suit you're wearing," remarked Rivers, "reminds me of an unripe watermelon." "Why?" asked Brooks. "Because it's so different. One isn't cut to fit, and the other isn't fit to cut." It was then that Brooks plugged away at him.—Chicago Tribune.

AN UNPLEASANT DISCOVERY. Young Lady—Have you examined my piano? Tuner—Yes, madam. "What's the reason it won't make a sound?" "Some one has lowered the soft pedal and nailed it down."—N. Y. Weekly.

NO PLEASURE FOR HIM. Brown—He's going to Paris. Towne—Business and pleasure combined, I suppose? Brown—No; on business solely. He's taking his wife with him.—Philadelphia Press.

Good News for the Unemployed. I live right here in the north. I am in touch with those who need help, can find out who is unreasonable and unjust. I have a steady demand for good women as cooks, chambermaids and general servants, and often for good indoor and outdoor men servants. I pay your fare for expenses and a reasonable amount for extra services. I take no orders under any circumstances from disreputable houses and hells of that kind, and the best protection is afforded the respectable girl who respects herself.

MRS. MARTHA, one world renowned and highly celebrated business and test Medium reveals everything. No position. Can be consulted upon all affairs of life, business, love and marriage a specialty. Every story revealed, also of absent, deceased and living friends. Removes all troubles and estrangements, challenges any Medium who can exceed her in starting revelations of the past, present and future events of one's life. Remember she will not for any price flatter you; you may rest assured you will gain facts without nonsense. She can be consulted upon all affairs of Life, Love, Courtship, Marriage, Friends, etc. with description of future companions. She has a cure in describing missing friends, enemies, etc. Her advice upon sickness, change of business, law suits, divorces, contested wills, divorces and speculation is valuable and reliable. She reads your fortune—good or bad; she withholds nothing.

MRS. MARTHA tells your entire life past, present and future in a DEAD TRANCE, has the power of any two Mediums you ever met. In tests she tells your mother's full name before marriage, the names of all your family and friends and will have a description of your present husband and business of your present husband and the name of your next if you are to have one, the name of the young man who now calls on you, the name of your future husband, and the day, month and year of your marriage, how many children you will have and whether your present sweetheart will be true to you and if he will marry you; if you have no sweetheart he will tell you when you will have and his name, business and date of acquaintance. All your future will be told in an honest and plain manner and in a dead trance. Mothers should know the success of their husbands and children young ladies should know everything about the sweethearts or intended husbands. Do not keep company, marry or go into business until you know all do not let silly religious scruples prevent your consulting.

Madame is the only one in the world who can tell you the FULL NAME of your future husband, with age and date of marriage, and tells whether the one you love is true or false. There are some persons who believe that there is no truth to be gained from consulting a Medium, but such are in error. A person of an enquiring mind may ask the reason why it is simply these advisers do not take the trouble to study human nature. They do not spend their thoughts for a moment in acquiring the art of phrasing and kindred branches that will have a tendency to make the pathway to the road of the business clear and devoid of all obstacles.

It is an undeniable fact that persons will come for advice in full knowledge of what they want to know, and yet as soon as they confront a Medium they try their utmost endeavor to dissipate from their minds what they know so as to hear if it will be rehearsed by the Medium. To get the secret out of a person is the art used by many unprincipled mediums, but to take hold of the head and gain control of the mind thereby is a matter of impossibility to most of them. And yet this can be done and by consulting Mrs. Marth the seeming mystery becomes a realization.

This subject has received no little attention by eminent men and even college professors. So it proves conclusively that although there are infringers in our midst with oily tongues perhaps the gates of wisdom have not been closed to the entire profession. It takes a great deal of study to become an accomplished medium and by a continuous and untiring effort, the key to the well of apparently unshakable mysteries has been secured by MRS. MARTHA for the benefit of humanity.

FOUND AT LAST! The Magnetic Comb. POSITIVELY and permanently straightens Knotty, Nappy, Kinky Hair. Electricity is life. This Comb, in connection with ELECTRICAL HAIR RESTORATIVE, the great hair grower, causes the hair to grow long and straight. This great electrical invention, by its marvelous magnetic power, gives new life to the hair, causing the hair to grow long and straight. The effect is seen at once. The hair commences to grow straight as soon as the use of the Comb is resorted to. Look at the BUD. This is a hair germ parasite. They are invisible to the naked eye, but under the rays of a powerful microscope the above picture is what they look like. Hundreds and thousands of these germs burrow at the roots of the hair, destroying the life of the hair, and causing it to fall out; also cause hair to thin and short and harsh and brittle; bald or thin on the top or on the temples, or if your hair is falling out, it is caused by this germ. The MAGNETIC COMB, together with ELECTRICAL HAIR RESTORATIVE, destroys these, thus enabling the hair to grow long and straight, soft, silky, and beautiful. Two boxes each Comb. Price, $5.00 and mailed to any address, prepaid, on receipt of price. NOTICE.—To quickly introduce this great invention, we have decided to give every reader of this paper this opportunity. Cut out this advertisement and mail to us with ONE DOLLAR, and we will mail you at once, prepaid, THE MAGNETIC COMB and two boxes of ELECTRICAL HAIR RESTORATIVE.
