He turned away just as Frances, tired of the waiting, re-entered the courtyard. "Ah, Frances, you are ready?" he asked. "Without replying the girl came straight to Sommers. "What are you going to do now?" she asked directly. "I have been ordered to report at Washington at once to face the court of inquiry," returned the officer. The girl smiled. There were both sadness and joy in it—sadness for his unfortunate situation, joy that they had a chance still to be together. "We are just starting," she suggested. "Come with us on the yacht." Sommers shook his head. "The girl stood looking at him, hurt and uncertain. She had not expected that rebuff. She could not understand it. Again Durant seized the situation. "Miss Durant, Mr. Sommers goes to Washington to endeavor to show why he should not be court martialled for neglect of duty the night his gun was forged. It's most important that he get there as soon as possible, and no ship sails from this port for a week." Pinckney stepped forward angrily. "Mr. Bradley, your explanation is most unbecoming," he exclaimed. Then Frances began to speak. Her head came up, and her eyes lighted. "On the contrary, Mr. Bradley, I'm very much obliged to you for your explanation," she declared haughtily. "Would it not be possible for you and Lieutenant Sommers to return with us?" "It would be the greatest favor, Miss Durant," he said earnestly. "I had already requested it, but Mr. Pinckney objects." "The girl turned on Pinckney haughtily. "When Mr. Pinckney realizes that the Irvessa is my father's yacht and that this gun was forged in my father's works and that it is my desire that it be returned to me," she said. "I am only too happy to have you come with us, of course," he said to Bradley. The secret service man bowed in turn. "Then we'll go, of course, with thanks," he said simply. "If you will excuse me I'll get ready. Lieutenant Sommers and I will be at the dock within an hour." When Bradley and Pinckney both had gone Frances came over to where her lover was standing. "That was wrong," she said, gently reproving. "You should have trusted me more. We must have no more misunderstandings! From now on what affects you affects me. You and I are one, but don't you see"—she paused a moment, looking up at him, her heart in her eyes—"but don't you see I love you?"

GAYNOR WINS IN NEW YORK

Tammany Elects Mayor by Plurality of 75,000.

FUSION WINS OTHER OFFICES

Billion Dollar Cash Taken From Tammany's Grip — Hearst Ran a Poor Third in Race For Mayor—Voting Was Watched Closely by Volunteers.

New York, Nov. 3.—William J. Gaynor has been elected mayor of New York by a plurality of 75,000. He is alone in his political glory in the board of estimate and apportionment, which spends the city's money.

In the next four years New York city will spend, approximately, a billion dollars. That money will be spent under the direction and by the votes of a board made up of a Tammany mayor, a Republican and Fusion president of the board of aldermen, a Republican and Fusion comptroller, a Republican and Fusion president of the borough of Manhattan, Republican and Fusion presidents of the boroughs of Brooklyn, the Bronx and Queens, a Republican and Fusion president of the borough of Richmond. It will be seen, therefore, that the vast sum of money to be spent by the city in the next four years will not by any means be under the control of Tammany Hall.

But there is more to follow. It were a bitter pill, unguiled, for Tammany to swallow—to lose the board of estimate and apportionment. But with that gone there were visions of the fees in the sheriff's office, had Christie Sullivan gotten votes enough. But Christie fell outside the breastworks, and another officer seems to have been denied the Tammany aggregation. Whitman, a good lawyer, a good citizen with a straight record, has beaten another good lawyer and good citizen, with a record equally as straight.

And then there is the sad story of James J. Hagan, a good and true Tammany man, running for county clerk, and once a very excellent warden of the Tombs. Nobody escaped from the Tombs while Hagan was warden that Hagan ever caught. Last Sunday night, at Big Tim Sullivan's meeting in Miner's Bowery theater, the Hon. James J. Hagan in an impassioned piece of oratory declared that all of the Tammany candidates were ordained of God. It appears that the Lord, as forgotten his own, for the returns indicate that the Irish Hagan has been beaten by the German Schneider.

Even the county register, of whom it has been said could appoint more clerks than the secretary of the United States treasury, appears to have been lost to Tammany.

And so it happened that Tammany Hall has a mayor which it does not like and who doesn't like it, and a board of estimate and apportionment which will spend the city's money without consulting the moguls of Fourteenth street.

Charles F. Murphy, in this election, has met his first even partial defeat since he slipped into the shoes of Richard Croker.

The board of aldermen apparently remains under the control of the Democrats.

The vote for mayor is: Gaynor, 241,171; Bannard, 171,363; Hearst, 144,680. For comptroller the vote is: Prendergast, Fusion, 240,657; Moore, Democrat, 192,425. Prendergast over Moore, 48,241.

Mitchell, Fusion, is elected president of the board of aldermen by over 40,000 plurality.

Tammany has elected twenty-four of the forty-one aldermen chosen in this county. Two years ago it elected thirty-two.

Tammany elected twenty-one of the thirty-five assemblymen for New York county. Last year it elected twenty-six.

Voting Watched Closely. If ever a New York election was well watched it was Tuesday's. Every polling place had its full quota of watchers, including nearly 2900 college students from Columbia, Yale, Princeton and other nearby institutions, who were distributed throughout the greater city. The entire police force of 10,000 men was on duty before daylight, the majority of them at the polling places, with squads of the "plain clothes" scouts and detectives ready for any emergency.

Robert A. Taft, the president's son, who was among the earliest college men to volunteer as a watcher, was stationed early in the day at a Third avenue polling place. His presence, however, proved such an attraction to the East Side crowd that the police were called upon to disperse the speculators, and young Taft was transferred to work as a Republican "scout."

For the remainder of the day he spent his time hurrying by automobile from voting place to voting place, witnessing reports of trouble and witnessing the playing of the political game in a hundred different corners of the greater city. Ellihu Root, Jr., also studied the election system of the city as a scout watcher.

Will Have Same Vote in Next Legislature as in Last. New York, Nov. 3.—Election for state senator were held in eight counties of New Jersey. The senators elected will vote in the election by the legislature of 1911 on a successor to John Kean in the United States senate. The Republicans will again control the legislature by about the same vote as last year. There will be forty-five Republicans and fifteen Democrats in the assembly and thirteen Republicans and eight Democrats in the senate.

The senators who were elected at Tuesday's election were as follows: Burlington—Griffith W. Lewis, R. Cape May—Robert E. Hand, R. Hunterdon—William G. Gebhardt, D. Middlesex—George S. Silzer, D. Morris—Edward K. Mills, R. Ocean—Thomas A. Mathis, R. Passaic—John D. Prince, R. Sussex—Jacob C. Price, D.

Democrats Carry Virginia. Entire State Ticket Elected by Majorities of 20,000. Richmond, Va., Nov. 3.—The Democratic state ticket was elected by an approximate majority of 20,000. The following is the ticket elected: For governor, William Hodges Mann, of Nowataway; for lieutenant governor, J. Taylor Ellison, of Richmond; for attorney general, Samuel W. Williams, of Wythe; for secretary of the commonwealth, Benjamin O. James, of Richmond; for state treasurer, A. W. Garman, Jr., of Rockbridge; for superintendent of public instruction, J. D. Eggleston, Jr., of Prince Edward; for commissioner of agriculture and immigration, George W. Kolner, of Atlanta.

Routed by Mosquitoes. When Hannibal's army descended from the Alps into the valley of Lombardy the whole force was well nigh routed by a plague of mosquitoes, which drove men and animals almost wild with pain.

The Mango Tree. Common and beautiful in the tropics is the mango tree. Of all fruits none is relished more by the natives. It is at the same time a magnificent shade tree.

Open Air Living. People of fresh air habits and discernment almost instantly and unconsciously are able to tell the presence of deleterious and injurious agents in the air, although these give no sign or warning to the senses. On this account an Indian has an unbearable sense of oppression in a closed room.

Soil Cultivation. Cultivation of the soil is not merely done to kill weeds, but it is a moisture conservator. It makes the soil more porous, so that the plant roots more easily penetrate in search of plant food.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 3.—By a majority of 2500 W. O. Head, Democrat, was elected mayor over James F. Grinstead, the Republican incumbent. With one or two exceptions the entire Democratic city and county ticket was also swept into office.

Troy Elects Republican Mayor. Troy, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Ellis F. Mann, Republican, was re-elected mayor of this city for a third time by a majority of about 1500. This is an increase of over 1400 above two years ago.

Jersey City Re-Elects Its Mayor. Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 3.—Mayor H. Otto Wittgen, Democrat, of Jersey City, was re-elected by an estimated majority of 7500 over ex-Mayor Mark M. Fagan, Republican.

Severe Blow to Tammany. Aside from taking care of the Sullivans, by electing Christie, Tammany hoped to annex the district attorney's office when it put up a high class man and an able lawyer, in George Gordon Battle, to run against former Judge Charles S. Whitman. But even the protection of the district attorney's office seems to have been denied the Tammany aggregation. Whitman, a good lawyer, a good citizen with a straight record, has beaten another good lawyer and good citizen, with a record equally as straight.

PLANKED BEEFSTEAK.

How to Prepare and Serve This Tasty and Appetizing Dish.

To plank a beefsteak the first important step is to select your plank. This should be of hard wood, well seasoned, preferably of live oak, hickory, cedar or cherry, and it can be made to order of a size to fit your oven, or you can buy a good one at the house furnishing stores costing from 50 cents up, according to size. One that is used for fish should not be used for meat, as the fish plank should not be washed, simply scraped each time after using, and its flavor will impregnate the meat. If you have a homemade plank you can use galvanized wire ticks to hold the steak in place, but the purchased ones have a wire attachment for this purpose, and some of them have also grooves to hold the juices of the article that is being cooked.

For planking a sirloin or porterhouse steak is usually selected. It should be cut thick and be of the best quality. If you desire your steak well done it must first be placed on a broiler and broiled both sides, one side being better done than the other. Then fasten the well cooked side to the plank, which should have been heated in the oven until sizzling hot. Finish the broiling under a gas flame or before a broiling fire of coals. For rare or medium done steak fasten raw on the hot plank—hot enough to char it at once.

When broiled to suit the taste sprinkle with salt, pepper and a little onion, and with bits of butter and set on the opened oven door while you trim with the various vegetables. These should be all ready so as to lose no time. There should be hot mashed creamy potatoes that can be piped around the edges of the plank, using a pastry tube, or the potato can be mounted into little rosettes at either end or equidistant. Between these arrange little mounds of tiny boiled and well seasoned onions, well seasoned peas, carrots or cauliflower. Fill in open spaces with bits of parsley or watercress or surround the potato with a wreath of the green. A lemon ka, dot with bits of butter and set on the opened oven door while you trim with the various vegetables. These should be all ready so as to lose no time. Fill in open spaces with bits of parsley or watercress or surround the potato with a wreath of the green. A lemon cup filled with melted d'hot butter can be placed at either end of the plank if desired. Mushrooms often appear as a part of the garnish, and from the meat juice caught in the broiler or from beef stock a well seasoned sauce may be made to be passed when serving the meat. Of course the steak is sent to the table on a tray, setting it on a large salver or platter.

A Concrete For a Hill Site.

Specimen of a Distinct Type of Architecture, Original in Design—Can Be Constructed For About $4,000.

Designed by P. T. MacLagan, Newark, N. J.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

Some people want their house to have a distinct style in architectural outline. The house shown in the above photograph belongs to this type. Note the low, slanting roof, with its plain straight lines relieved by the ornamental gable projecting over the entrance. The first story may be of cement blocks or frame covered with shingle. In either case the second story should be in shingle, the plan calling for rugged exterior. Size, 41 feet front by 25 feet deep. As a feature corresponding to the Dutch exterior the dining room has a large brick fireplace at the end of the house. This large room could be used as a living room and the parlor shown in the plan converted into a dining room. The central hall makes either arrangement suitable. The dining room, as shown, is trimmed in hard wood and the parlor white enameled finish. The cellar contains laundry, furnace or boiler room and space for storage. Height of cellar, 7 feet; first story ceiling, 9 feet 6 inches; second story, 9 feet. Built as described, this house need not cost much above $4,000.
