We are of the opinion that these Democrats are "riding for a fall" not only on the part of themselves, but for the Negro-haters of the United States as well.

For our part, we see a bright outlook for the colored people of this country. They should save their money and buy real estate.

ALLDS BRANDED AS BRIBE TAKER

New York Senate Voted 40 to 9 Against Him.

CONGER NEXT ON GRILL

Allds Resigned Before Vote Was Taken to Prevent Action, But Motion Sustaining Charges Is Passed.

Albany, N. Y., March 30.—Just as the New York senate was about to vote on the question whether John P. Allds was guilty of accepting a $1000 bribe as charged by Senator Benn Conger, Allds resigned from the senate.

Thrown into confusion by this sudden and unexpected move on the part of the accused man, the senate took a recess for an hour to determine whether any further action could be taken.

Reassembling, the senate voted by 40 yeas to 9 noes that the charges against Allds had been sustained. This vote was taken on a resolution offered by Senator Cobb, declaring that Conger's charges had been proved.

The report of the committee on the whole to the senate proper was adopted by 33 yeas to 8 noes.

A statement given out by Allds' counsel declared that Allds resigned on the advice of his attorneys, because the latter were satisfied that his case was not to be decided on the evidence, but by political expediency and influence brought to bear from Washington and elsewhere.

Accuser "Stands Pat."

Before Allds resigned he went to the financial clerk of the senate and signed for his salary to date. About the same time Senator Benn Conger, his accuser, also signed for his money.

This led to a report that Conger too, would resign. But Conger "stood pat" and gave no indication of what he would do. He sat throughout the session with his wife at his side.

Senator Cobb, the majority leader, introduced a resolution providing for the formal presentation of charges against Conger, based on the evidence brought out by the investigation that he gave a bribe to influence legislation. The senate postponed action on the proposition until later.

Provision for a general investigation of alleged legislative corruption will be made with all speed.

Sensational developments came in kaleidoscopic order as the senate assembled for the crucial day in the scandal that has shaken the Republican forces ever since the legislative session opened. Great crowds had come for the session, as it was expected that many senators would take occasion to explain their votes on the question of Allds' guilt with speeches fraught with political importance.

Then came the Allds bombshell. Half an hour before the vote was to begin one of his counsel in the investigation, Lewis E. Carr, announced that Allds had resigned. Confirmation of this was received quickly from the office of the secretary of state. This action was taken as indicating that Allds, after a poll of the senators, found that there was a majority against him and that the vote of the committee of the whole would be followed by his expulsion by the senate. The formal resignation gave no cause for the step. It took effect immediately.

Senate in a Flurry.

As soon as the resignation was read the senate, on motion of Senator Brackett, took a recess of an hour. The significance of this action became apparent when it became known that a movement was on foot to adopt a compromise resolution declaring that the Conger charges had not been sustained, but that nevertheless enough evidence had been deduced to warrant Allds resigning. Immediately a conference in which Democrats and Republicans mingled opened in the senate library, where Mr. Carr made a speech.

Mr. Van Hoesen, of Conger's legal staff, was called in shortly after. The point was raised that inasmuch as Allds had resigned there was no longer any question before the senate and that the vote on the Conger charges was unnecessary.

The conference finally decided that it was the duty of the committee of the whole to vote upon the question of whether or not the charges were sustained.

Huge Gift For Washington University. St. Louis, Mo., March 30.—It was reported here that Adolphus Busch, the multi-millionaire St. Louis brewer, will donate to Washington university of this city, a very large sum, some estimates of which reach into millions of dollars, to make the university's medical department the greatest scientific school in the United States, as planned by Robert Brookings, the university's president.

Calls the United States a Model.

Copenhagen, March 30.—King Frederick declared that the United States is the model for all nations. This expression was made to Minister Egan, who, having recently returned to the Danish capital, was received in audience. Mr. Egan brought a personal message to the king from President Taft.

JUSTICE DAVID J. BREWER

Died Suddenly in His Washington Home.

JUSTICE BREWER FOUND DEAD

Member of U. S. Supreme Court Dies of Apoplexy.

STRICKEN IN BATHROOM

Famous Jurist Was Found by His Wife and Died Before Medical Aid Could Be Summoned—He Was Seventy-Three Years of Age.

Justice David J. Brewer, of the United States supreme court, died at his residence in Washington, Justice Brewer had not been feeling well for more than a week, but had not been obliged to take to his bed. He had enjoyed Easter with the members of his family and Monday afternoon walked out to the office of his physician. He complained at the dinner table of feeling worse, but his condition was not considered serious.

At a little after 10 o'clock Monday night he told Mrs. Brewer that he was going to retire, and entered the bathroom.

A little later Mrs. Brewer heard a noise as if something had fallen in the bathroom, but she took no particular notice of it until her attention was attracted a few minutes later by the sound of heavy breathing. Rushing to the bathroom then, she found her husband lying on the floor, unconscious. The Justice had undressed before entering the bathroom.

Only the servants were in the house with Mrs. Brewer, and she dispatched one of them to the home of Judge Ashley Gould, of the District of Columbia supreme court, who lives next door to the Brewers. When Judge Gould arrived he had been summoned by Justice Brewer and carried from the bathroom and laid on a bed, but when the doctors arrived a few minutes later he was dead. Apoplexy was the cause of death.

Justice Brewer's two daughters, Mrs. James L. Carrick and Mrs. H. P. Jutmore, who live in Washington, were summoned and arrived shortly after the physicians.

Justice Brewer was seventy-three years old. He had been an associate justice since December, 1889, and had a part in deciding many momentous questions, among them the great anti-trust prosecutions.

He was appointed to the bench by President Cleveland.

Was a Keen Lawyer.

David Josiah Brewer was born in Smyrna, Asia Minor, in 1837. He was the son of Rev. Josiah Brewer and Emily A. Field, sister of David Dudley Field and Cyrus W. Field and Justice Stephen J. Field. His father was an early missionary to Turkey.

Young Brewer was graduated from Yale in 1856 and from the Albany Law school in 1858. He established himself in his profession at Leavenworth, Kan., in 1859, and there he lived until he assumed his duties as justice of the supreme court.

Coming from one of the most eminent families of America, he early made his mark as a lawyer of keen acumen. No family in American history has a more distinguished record for men of caliber than the Field family, which is New England stock and of Puritan origin. Clergymen, jurists, scientists, conquerors in every part of the globe, the scions of the Field stock have played a great part in the glories that have come to the American nation.

In the annals of American pluck and perseverance and scientific conquest no name stands higher than that of Cyrus W. Field, who stretched the first oceanic cable which linked continent with continent.

In 1861 David J. Brewer was appointed United States commissioner, and during 1863 and 1864 he was judge of the probate and criminal courts of Leavenworth county, and 1865 until 1869 he was judge of the First district court of Kansas.

In 1876 Judge Brewer was elected justice of the supreme court of his state, and was re-elected in 1876 and 1882; and in 1884 he was appointed justice of the circuit of the United States for the Eighth district.

Justice Brewer succeeded Justice Stanley Matthews on the bench of the highest tribunal in the nation in December, 1889; and since that time he has rendered many decisions of note and filled many special commissions with signal ability.

STOLE MORPHINE

Unknown Man Gets Away With 300 Grains From Leigh Street Pharmacy.

Clothed only in his shirt sleeves, and with wild and haggard face, a young white man, apparently twenty-two years old, and neatly dressed, as far as his apparel went, entered the office of Dr. J. C. Carper, colored, 1107 West Leigh Street, yesterday afternoon and stole 300 grains of morphine. After obtaining two partly empty bottles of the drug, he went into the kitchen, where the physician's wife was preparing supper, and, rolling up his sleeve, injected a hypodermic syringe, containing several grains, into his left arm.

The colored woman, extremely frightened and surprised at the white man's visit, looked on without saying a word. The latter, within a few minutes after taking the hypodermic, apparently became calmer.

MAKES LIVING THAT WAY.

"Look out, woman," he said, "I make my living by stealing, and if you let the police know about this, they will give me a hard time. After waiting long enough for his nerves to become settled, he left the house, apparently much better for the self-applied dose.

The stranger had first applied, it developed afterwards, at Jackson's Pharmacy, at Graham and Leigh Streets, where he wanted a prescription for morphine filled. The druggist refused him, and in his shirt sleeves he proceeded further to satisfy his craving.

When he applied at the office of Dr. Carper, the latter's wife informed him that her husband was not at home, but that she expected him shortly. The visitor said that he would wait, and was shown into the office. He lingered a little while before reappearing before Dr. Carper's wife. He had opened the physician's case and taken therefrom two bottles containing the drug he sought. He hid most of it up his sleeves, leaving out enough for an injection. When he walked into the kitchen he took his time in preparing the dose. He had his own syringe with him, in his vest pocket. He took that out, mixed the drug in the proportion he wanted, and then applied it. At first he was wild and incoherent. But after the morphine had coursed through his veins he became calmer and spoke rationally, though there was a gleam in his eye which boded ill for any one who attempted to interfere with him.

BACK TO CAROLINA.

Just before he left the kitchen and house he told Dr. Carper's wife that there was no use in searching for him, as he intended to leave for North Carolina at once. She did not follow him as he departed, and he was soon lost to view down the street.

The 300 grains of morphine which he stole are worth about $6, and he took nearly the whole supply the colored doctor had in store. If he is a dope fiend as he appeared from his actions in preparing the dose, he would last him about two weeks—enough to "give him all the fancy dreaming and air castles in Spain he could well want. Dr. Carper's wife so thoroughly frightened was she, could give little description of the thief. But a thorough search for him has been instituted.

He knew evidently the habits of physicians, and where to find their medicine chests, for he was in Dr. Carper's office but a short time before reappearing with his morphine. It is generally believed that he is a medical student who has become only too well acquainted with the use of drugs.—Richmond, Va. Times-Dispatch, March 30, 1910.

His Wife, ESTELLA FOX.

The Woman's Missionary and Educational Circle of Ebenezer Baptist Church, doth hereby record its sympathy to the bereaved family of Deacon James Fox.

At the organization of our circle, Deacon Fox was enrolled as a contributing member and has since been earnest in his endeavors to aid the circle in whatever ways he could. The circle deeply mourn their loss, but feel assured that their loss is his eternal gain.

Bro. Fox has finished his work down here, and is now waiting his final reward, saying, "Come ye, blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you, from the foundation of the world."

We say to those he left, your husband and your father's God, is able to keep you until that perfect day. If you will trust Him, and then father, mother and children will be reunited, never any more to part.

Richmond, Va., March 21, 1910. This is to certify that Brother James Fox was a volunteer in the United States Army during the Civil War.

We knew him first as a soldier; secondly, as a christian gentleman. He died a member of Custer Post, No. 11, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Virginia and North Carolina.

Comrade Fox bore his illness with christian's fortitude; though death fought him with convulsions, pains, and fevers, he would not surrender until he heard the voice from the upper world saying, "Lights Out." Then the soldier was able to say, "Good-bye time," and How do you do eternally?

We couldn't grieve after Comrade Fox as we could after one who had no hope, for we have all right to believe that our loss is his eternal gain. By order of Custer Post, No. 11, Grand Army of the Republic, C. WASHINGTON, Commander.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom and mercy, to remove from our midst, our beloved Brother, James Fox, we, the members of the R. F. and P. Club, No. 1, regretfully announce the death of our brother, and bow with humble submission to the decree of Divine Providence.

We have lost a beloved friend and brother; his wife a kind and loving husband; the community, an humble and upright citizen, and the church, a consistent, christian member.

Resolved, Second, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, and also that a copy be sent to the widow of our deceased brother. Done by order of R. F. and P. Club No. 1, this 19th day of March, 1910, A. D. STERLING SMITH, Pres., W. J. WASHINGTON, Sec'y.

The Grim Reaper Death, has again entered Gethsemane Fountain, No. 160, G. F. U. O. T. R. and borne from her ranks, one of her most faithful members, Bro. James Fox, whose remains now lie before us, was a member of the above named fountain, since its organization, and for a number of years served as chaplain.

We feel that in the death of this good man, we have lost an honest, ardent and God fearing member, one whose very presence bespoke peace and meekness. We shall miss his pleasant face and gentle voice, but look forward to meeting him in the great beyond. His sorrowing wife and daughter we commend to Him whose divine providence is sufficient for all and who is too wise to err and too just to be unkind.

"Peace be to his ashes."

Brother thou art gone to rest, Thy toils any cares are o'er, And sorrow pain and suffering now Shall ne'er distress thee more.

Brother thou art gone to rest, And this shall be our prayer, That when we reach our Journey's end Thy glory we shall share.

Done by order of Gethsemane Fountain, No. 160, G. F. U. O. T. R. W. F. DENNY, W. M., KATE E. BAGBY, W. Sec'y.

This certifies that Brother James Fox has been a faithful member of the Ebenezer Baptist Church for about forty years.

Soon after the Civil War, Brother Fox cast his lot and membership with the Ebenezer Baptist Church, and by his upright walks, works and pious conversation, he soon won the heart and confidence of the membership in that on the elections of January, 1877, he was chosen to fill that responsible office. This position he has filled faithfully for the thirty-three years from the date of his election until the day of his death.

Whereas, we shall miss him and mourn our loss, we feel assured that our loss is his eternal gain.

We extend our sympathy to his wife, daughter and other members of the family and commend them to God, whose acts are always just and right, and will care for the widow and orphan.

AMERICAN AID FOR LIBERIA

President Sends Special Commission's Report to Congress.

President Taft sent a message to Congress yesterday, transmitting the report of the commission which investigated social, political, and financial conditions in Liberia last year. The report which became public for the first time upon its presentation to Congress, makes the following recommendations:

That the United States extend its aid to Liberia in the prompt settlement of pending boundary disputes; to refund its debts by assuming, as a guarantee for the payment of obligations under such arrangement, the control and collection of the Liberian customs; in the reform of its internal finances; in organizing and drilling an adequate constabulary, or frontier police force; that the United States establish and maintain a research station in Liberia, and reopen the question of establishing a naval coaling station there.

In transmitting the commission's report to the President, Secretary of State Knox gave a resume of the historical relations between the United States and Liberia. He emphasized the desirability of carrying out and said tentative plans were under way to negotiate a treaty with Liberia to put them into effect.

"The task of government in Liberia," the commissioners report, "is difficult because of the partition of Africa by European powers. Because Liberia has thus far failed in solving these problems satisfactorily, she has found herself involved in controversies with foreign nations. These have created an unrest which hampered her internal development and have made her feel that her national existence is threatened by powerful neighbors without and by weakness within."

Shortly after the British officers, employed to reorganize the frontier police, were dismissed, the British government served notice upon Liberia that it must run a more orderly government and restore order among the rebellious tribes along the border of the British colony adjoining. The Liberian government sent a delegation, consisting of several of its most prominent citizens, to Washington to appeal to Elihu Root, then Secretary of State, for assistance. The result of their visit was that the State Department obtained an appropriation to pay the expenses of a commission to investigate conditions in Liberia.
