CALIFORNIA FOR FRUIT.

From Dan to Beersheba in all the States of the East the world-bee fruit-grower is just now loud in his lamentation for the loss of the crop that should have been borne this season, and in too many instances for the loss of the trees, too, so that he is out and injured to the tune of many prospective crops. This is not alone in the bleakest portions of the hyperborean Northwest, where life is an everlasting struggle to preserve life, and where spring frosts not only nip the early buds of promise, but sometimes catch the almost mature fruit in what is falsely called mid-summer; but it is heard all along the lower peninsula of Michigan, and is re-echoed on both banks of the Ohio, is taken up in New Jersey, passed along to Delaware, crosses the bay in old Virginia, and is heard along the Florida reefs as the sad ulula mingles with the waves of the Gulf of Mexico. The orange groves of this last-named State have gone, blossom and fruit, leaf and branch, and sometimes root and all, to follow the peach orchards of Michigan, New Jersey and Delaware to that limbo of things lost on earth that Dante found so sad a sight in the cold and cheerless regions of the unsmiling moon.

There is a very important lesson in all these facts so discouraging to the good people of the East. The lesson is to be learned in this sunny land of Southern California, where frosts never visit the orchards to blight the hope that springs eternal in the orchardist's heart, and springs there because it is not nipped by the cold touch of disappointment, but is always fed by a rich reward for all the labors of the husbandman. It is in this section the whole country must look for its fruit supplies. California is the only State that can be depended on for a certain supply of all sorts of delicious as well as citrus fruits. And it is here the fresh treasures must be gathered from the trees. From here they must be sent to the East. Here they must be dried, canned, conserved, cured in all ways and sent by the thousand carloads to feed the East and enrich our farmers in return. We are just at the very beginning of these things. We do not realize the hundredth part of what is before us in this respect and what the East will look to us for, nor of the rewards the States east of the mountains will pour into our lap, treasures richer and more abundant than we dream of for these multitudinous and various products of our orchards.

In a suit now being tried in the courts of this county a real estate dealer was put on the stand yesterday in the capacity of an expert to testify as to the value of the piece of land in dispute. It lies directly west of Florence a few miles and adjoins Hyde Park on the east. There are 1,040 acres in the tract, and the expert swore, that in his opinion, it was worth $80,000 to $100,000 in 1887. Being somewhat pressed in cross-examination, by the opposing attorney, and being asked what it was worth now, he said it would be difficult to say how much it would sell for, as there was no demand at present, but he had no hesitation in saying that it was worth, at this moment, $100 an acre. The expert stated that he was not a "boomer," but a rational valuer of property. He is perfectly certain good land so situated is cheap at $100 an acre.

The esteemed Express is reminded of the very simple, but very important fact that during the time Mr. Hellman had the funds of the city and county there was no offer made by any other bank to pay interest for their use, nor was there any law permitting the city to loan its cash, nor yet any law requiring that it be kept in a safe in the Treasurer's vaults. There is no gored ox in this business, nor yet any gored zeal. It is simply a matter of public business and of compliance with the plain terms of the law. The Herald proposes to be zealous in the matter until the Council, whose thick-and-thin advocate our contemporary always is, learns less zeal for selfish ends and more for the public weal.

By all means let the Council take steps at once to collect taxes twice a year, and let steps be taken also to do away with the tax-buying land sharks, and let us have the rule that obtains in many progressive States of adding say 2 per cent a month to all taxes allowed to go delinquent. The people will forgive the Council a great many of the heinous sins of that body if this should be done. It will be a great charity to the taxpayers, and like all mantles of charity, it will cover up and hide a multitude of sins of which there are indeed a multitude to hide.

THE TRUE WAY TO RECREATE A BOOM.

This section is now engaged in a line of development that is the truest way to re-create a boom, and that one will not pass away. Never has there been so much activity going on at any time in the way of developing the resources of the country as at this particular time. It is going on in all sorts of industries. Careful and observant people estimate that the planting of young orange trees in the three counties will reach the gross sum of a million. That is 10,000 acres. At four boxes to the tree when these come into bearing it will be 13,000 cars, or 1,300 trains of ten cars each. At $1 a box, only, it would mean $4,000,000 a year for the crop.

But there are a great many other sorts of fruit trees being set in orchard this year. English walnuts and figs come next after oranges and lemons, but the present energy reaches widely out and includes nearly all sorts of fruits.

And passing from the realms of Pomona to those of the less radiant divinity that preside over the more prosaic subdivisions of husbandry, the same activity is nearly everywhere discernible. At Buena Park, on the boundary line of Los Angeles and Orange counties, a factory has just been completed, and the machinery, started for the making of condensed milk, that will take the product of 3,500 cows, and the best of it is the cows are on the spot in the surrounding meadows ready to yield up their treasures to supply the factory. On such pastures as those which lie all around that district as far as the ocean, a good cow will yield five gallons a day of rich milk. The factory pays 8 cents a gallon for the milk; or in other words each animal is worth 40 cents a day to the owner, and he has no trouble at any period of the year in the way of housing or feeding her. She lives in the pasture all the year round, and costs less to care for than in any other section in the country.

A new industry is to be opened up, alongside of this factory in a plant to express syrup from the sorghum plant. The farmers are offered $2 a ton for the cane, and an acre will easily yield thirty to forty tons. Thus the growers will receive at the rate of $60 to $80 per acre. Contracts have been made for the product of 100 acres.

Nor is this activity confined to the direct products of the fields and orchards. There is much being done to open and build up manufacturing in this city. The cement works on Alameda street, near Washington street, are almost complete, and will soon be in operation. Then the plans for a large tannery are rapidly maturing, and in a short time work will be in progress on that plant. Many similar enterprises are being discussed that are in too embryotic a condition yet to be referred to specifically.

To return to animal industries there has been opened here an establishment for the curing of hams and bacon, and the refining of lard. From this time on the farmers will find a ready market for all the good hogs they may raise, and no section of the country can compare with ours for this industry.

In many smaller channels of productive development much is being done. Eggs and poultry of local production are becoming much more nearly adequate to the home demand, and there is a good deal of attention being given to butter.

Here are multiplying on all sides signs of a real and permanent growth that will surely make the people rich, and richer every day this goes on. It will demonstrate the indisputable fact that our lands have value, and a high one. It will draw capital and population here that will stay, and will rapidly convert this into the most matchlessly prosperous bit of territory the sun in his daily rounds looks down upon in either hemisphere, or on any side of any ocean.

If a dweller in this perfect climate and on the rich soils of this section will step into any grocery store in the city and look over the shelves he will see many things to make him aware that there are openings here for many new enterprises. He will see preserved strawberries put up in Cincinnati, and shipped in here, where the fruit ripens under semi-tropic suns every day in the year. He will see cheese made among the rocky hillsides of New York, where a blade of grass has to circumbent a dozen cobble stones to reach the light of day, sold here in a city surrounded by meadows in which he could not find a stone if he plowed ten acres of it, and whose lush sweet grasses are kneaded to the cattle that feed in them. He will see potatoes that had to be dug in Kansas last September and put ten feet under ground to keep them away from the frost, sold to people whose own land would yield four crops of this sort a year if it were only asked to do so. We are developing, but there is a long road before the end of this is reached.

RAILROAD DISASTERS.

A Fatal Smash-Up on the Northern Pacific. HELENA, Mont., March 25.—The east-bound passenger train on the Northern Pacific was wrecked near Hebron this morning. The cars were all burned except two sleepers. Express Messenger Miles was killed and seven other people injured, one fatally. They are: A. Crockett, postal-clerk; Mrs. S. H. Cox, of North Yakima, Washington, bound for Memphis, Mo.; Mrs. Lillie Davis, of Seattle, and her daughter Carrie; J. W. Weedom, of Dayton, Washington; J. P. Zann, of Washington; J. H. Richards, of Randall, South Dakota. The mail and express are a total loss. Half the baggage was saved. The railroad officials did all in their power for the injured.

Southern Pacific Cars Derailed. WILCOX, Ariz., March 25.—A west-bound passenger train on the Southern Pacific encountered a broken rail east of this point early this morning. Four coaches were thrown from the track, and one of them was completely overturned and dragged some distance before the coupling broke. None of the passengers were seriously injured.

A Coyote Rampant. Yesterday afternoon, about 4:30 o'clock, Charles Wald, a young German, representing a San Francisco brewery, was driving past the Plaza in a buckboard, on Main street, when an animal, which appeared to be a yellow dog, jumped up in front of his horse and grabbed it by the throat. Wald being unable to frighten the animal off, jumped out of his vehicle and ran to his horse's head, whereupon the coyote, for such it was subsequently found to be, rushed at him and bit him in four places on the left wrist and hand before beating a retreat. Wald at once drove up town to the police station for medical treatment, and his wounds were dressed by Dr. Wing. The coyote was afterwards caught in the Pico House saloon, and claimed by H. B. Meyer, the junk dealer, on Upper Main street; but a few hours later it again escaped from captivity, and was at large upon the streets when last heard of.

A Defective Information. S. Brooks was before Department 1 of the Superior Court yesterday, to be tried on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. A jury was ready to try the case. The information charged that Brooks committed the assault on one T. W. Tyler, at Downey, February 12, 1890. The complaining witness was put on the stand, and on being asked his name, answered: "J. A. Tyler." That settled the case; the change of the initial letter of the name made the information invalid, and the court instructed the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty as charged in the indictment." A new information had to be filed and all the preliminary work gone over afresh. The mistake seems to have been that of the stenographer who took the testimony in the preliminary examination, who changed the "J" to "T."

The Pioneer Excursion. The pioneer excursion will reach Pasadena April 18. There are now 112 people booked in Boston by Raymond & Whitecomb, who estimate that the party will finally number not less than 150 souls, all pioneers and the members of their families. They will remain at the Raymond, Pasadena, for three days. One of these days will be spent in Los Angeles, where the reception will be tendered in some hall, and probably a banquet will follow in the evening. It is the purpose of Pasadena people to entertain the party for one afternoon in a grand basket picnic, at the foot of the mountains, in some romantic spot such as is easily found around the "Crown of the Valley." There is pleasure in store for the visitors.

Undelivered Telegrams. The following telegrams remain undelivered at the Western Union telegraph office, corner Court and Main streets, March 25, 1890: Mrs. M. L. Codin, Mrs. W. A. Levinson, James M. Sigbee, James E. Bove, Mary F. Keyes, H. Hughes.
