

THE DOGS.

Bench Show of the Southern California Kennel Club.

It Opens Auspiciously With a Good Display of Dogs.

A Full List of the Entries and the Owners.

A Collection of the Finest Dogs of Southern California—Sixty Varieties Represented—Premiums Awarded Today.

The dog show opened yesterday and will last through Friday. The vacant store at numbers 140 and 142 North Main street has been fitted up for the purpose, with rows of kennels along the sides of the room. The place was formerly occupied by Brown's restaurant. This show is the second annual bench show of the Southern California Kennel Club. It is held under the rules of the American Kennel Club, of which organization the Southern California Club is a member. The officers of the club under whose management the affair is given are as follows: President, H. T. Payne; vice-presidents, J. F. Holbrook, J. E. Preston; secretary, E. K. Benchley; treasurer, E. B. Tufts; bench show committee, J. F. Holbrook, J. E. Preston, C. E. Fout, J. H. Keifer, Tony Bright; superintendent, H. W. Wilson; veterinary surgeon, J. A. Edmonds; judge of all classes, H. H. Briggs, of San Francisco.

The show opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and by afternoon nearly all the entries were in and the stalls filled. Visitors soon began to crowd in, and during the afternoon and evening the room contained nearly all that it could conveniently accommodate. The show is open from 10 in the morning till 10 at night. In the evening the room is well lighted by electricity. The show is highly creditable to the organization that gives it and to Southern California in general. There are 136 entries in 60 classes. The catalogue sets forth 75 classes, but in 15 of these there are no entries. The decision of the judge, H. H. Briggs, of San Francisco, will be rendered this afternoon. A detailed notice of the most prominent dogs entered in the show will be given later in the HERALD. The entries are as follows:

A LARGE COLLECTION.

The Exhibit Made By Captain A. B. Anderson.

Scarcely anyone not concerned in the organization of the Southern California Kennel Club has taken more active interest in the success of the bench show than Captain A. B. Anderson of San Gabriel. He has shown this interest by making a large number of entries in the show. Ten of the fifteen dogs which he has in his kennels at "the Grange" have been sent to the show.

Captain Anderson is especially fond of dogs and has put a special fondness and attention in the improvement of his kennels. They are now among the finest in Southern California, containing a number of fine specimens of the best varieties of dogs.

In the mastiff class Captain Anderson leads off with No. 1, Richard Commodore, a large, light-fawn dog with a magnificent head. The animal, like all of those from these kennels, is of gentle disposition. He was whelped September 24, 1888, at the Richard kennels; sire, McCormick; dam, Princess Dolly. The price set is $250.

No. 6 in the class of mastiff bitches is Atella A. (13,707). This is a solid, fine-looking animal, of a beautiful fawn color. She was whelped March 12, 1889, G. A. Swartwout, breeder; sire, Im-amo Arno (13,017); dam, Zella M. (6,555). The price set is $200. Both of these mastiffs attracted much attention yesterday from visitors.

Captain Anderson's favorite dog, or, at least, one of which he is most proud, is a St. Bernard bitch, Dido II. This, like most of the others of Captain Anderson's collection, is an imported animal. Before she left England this bitch gave birth, at various times, to litters that included a total of 166 pups. In color she is orange and white, not very large for a St. Bernard, but handsomely proportioned. She was whelped August 21, 1885; sire, Scotch Barry; dam, Dido I. The price is $500. It is noticeable, by the way, that this is almost the only St. Bernard in the entire show. She has many admirers.

In the pointer puppy class Captain Anderson has a dog, El Rio Rey, and a bitch, Susie Post. El Rio Rey is lemon or white in color, whelped June 7, 1880. The breeder of the dog was P. D. Linville; sire, Climax (by Bang out of Ballona); the dam, Roberta (by Robert Le Diable, out of Young Beulah). The bitch, Susie Post, is also lemon and white in color, and out of the same litter with El Rio Rey. She is a beautiful animal, with a keen, alert face, every line of which shows fine breeding and intelligence. They are both gentle, affectionate creatures, and attract much notice.

Among the collies Captain Anderson has a dog, Laddie, sable in color, a good natured, athletic animal. He was whelped July 1, 1889. The breeder was Wood Wattles. The pedigree is not stated.

In the fox terrier class, Captain Anderson has Regent Jock (10,889) white; whelped April 30, 1889; breeder, August Belmont; sire, Regent Vox (by Tucker out of Sandy Vic); dam, Blemton Saffron (by Belgrave Primrose out of Flirt). This dog took honors at the second dog show in San Francisco in 1889. The value is $500.

In the fox-terrier bitch class, Captain Anderson has two; Tricksey, white black-and-tan, one of the most beautiful animals in the entire show, and Golden Patch, black white-and-tan, the latter having a litter of pups. Tricksey was whelped April 18, 1880; breeder, James E. Watson; sire, Teddy; dam, Gyp (9,937); value, $75. Golden Patch was whelped June 23, 1888; breeder, J. B. Martin; sire, Sly Mixture (by Mixture out of Shone); dam, Beatrice (by Bacchanal out of Blemton Arrow). This bitch took a prize at the Southern California Kennel Club's show of the past year.

Among the pups Captain Anderson has a very bright little dog, Bobby, fawn color, well sprinkled with black. This ends the enumeration of one of the most striking collections in the whole show.

THE CLARK CASE.

How Goods Were Obtained By a Deed and Notes.

People Who State That They Were Taken In.

A Pasadena Lawyer Undergoing Examination in Court.

The Evidence of a Number of Alleged Victims Admitted Notwithstanding the Defendants' Objections.

The examination into the case against F. K. Clark, Mrs. Belle Clark and Miss P. M. Seaman, of Pasadena, all of whom are charged with having obtained property by means of false and fraudulent representations, was resumed at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning before Justice Lockwood, in the presence of a large number of interested spectators. The proceedings commenced with the arguments on the objection of the defendants to the admittance of the testimony of E. E. Crandall, who had been called for the prosecution on Monday afternoon, shortly before the hour of adjournment. The defense argued that as the purchase of property from Crandall was a distinct and separate act to the one charged in the complaint, it was, therefore, not a part in the case, and could not be properly introduced.

The prosecution, however, cited authorities from this and other states in support of its argument that evidence of that kind it sought to introduce could be brought in for the purpose of showing a common design on the part of the defendants to conspire to defraud tradesmen.

The court, after hearing both sides of the question, overruled the objection made by the defense, and E. E. Crandall was called to the stand, which he occupied until the noon recess. He testified in effect that on November 4th last Clark called at his store, No. 124 South Spring street, and informed him that he was attorney for a Miss Seaman, of Pasadena, who wished to purchase a stove and some household hardware on credit, for a house she was furnishing. Clark produced a deed for the property on Colorado court, Pasadena, which he said was worth from $15,000 to $20,000, and upon which the only incumbrance was a $1,500 mortgage. He explained that his client owned considerable property in Brooklyn, whence she expected a remittance on the 1st of the month. Crandall asked the lawyer to bring his fair client into town, and intimated that the matter might be arranged. Accordingly Clark went away, but returned later with Miss Seaman, whose ladylike demeanor soon won the hardware merchant's good will. During the conversation which occurred between the merchant and Miss Seaman she took occasion to mention the fact that her property in Brooklyn adjoined that of a namesake of Crandall. The hardware man was not sure, but he was of the opinion that it was one of his relations; and with this pleasant little interlude the business was transacted, the hardware being picked out and Miss Seaman's note for the amount of the bill, due at thirty days, left in exchange therefor. When the note became due Crandall wrote, but received a reply similar to that which was sent to Salkey, the manager of the Parisian Cloak and Suit Company, to the effect that if he crowded Miss Seaman for the money, she would homestead her property and he would not get a cent. After waiting until February, Crandall's patience became exhausted and he went down to Pasadena with a deputy constable to interview Clark. On arrival at Colorado court he questioned the lawyer about Miss Seaman's property, and the latter pointed it out to Crandall, who then asked where the house was that had formerly been on the lot. Clark replied that it had been moved somewhere, but that it was not his business to say where to. When asked about the hardware, he said he presumed it was in some of the houses in the neighborhood. On being denied admittance to the ladies of Clark's household, Crandall went away and subsequently got his property back upon a writ of attachment.

J. B. Doty, a real-estate dealer of Pasadena, states that he was familiar with the property owned by Miss Seaman at Colorado court. It was part of lots 6 and 7, of Mrs. J. K. Hood's tract, and was worth from $15 to $20 per front foot. The house was probably worth $600.

Newell Mathews, a carriage manufacturer at No. 127 North Los Angeles street, testified that Clark had called upon him and told a similar story to that recited to Crandall, and Miss Seaman called later on and endorsed Clark's note due in sixty days, for a small pony cart. Clark returned a few days later and obtained another whip, the first one having been broken. The note, on its maturity, was turned over to a collector, but he was finally compelled to obtain a writ of attachment for the return of his property.

W. A. M. Osborn, a saddler, at Aliso and Alameda streets, told a similar story about Clark and Miss Seaman, who obtained $32 worth of harness from him. He called upon Clark when the note was due, but the attorney threatened to shoot him in his office. He finally received the value of his property on a writ of attachment.

J. H. Nelger, manager for Gordan Bros., the Spring-street tailors, stated that on the same day, November 4th last, Clark called with his wife and sister-in-law, and after examining some goods, ordered a suit of clothes of credit, Miss Seaman endorsing his note. On Clark's return for the clothes a week later, however, Nelger refused to hand them over, as he had made inquiries about Clark in the meantime, whereupon the attorney threatened to sue the tailor for the goods, but did not.

Jas. Sullivan, manager of the Sullivan cloak and suit store, No. 113 South Spring street, recited the story of how Miss Seaman and her sister obtained property valued at $34 from him under the same representations as above recorded. Mrs. Clark, however, settled his bill in full yesterday morning.

Chas. Smith, agent for the firm of H. D. Gates & Co., parted with a survey valued at $140 on September 17, 1889, in exchange for a note due in ninety days upon the same representations as were made to Crandall. He got his property back after bringing a suit of replevin.

Noel Nightingale, manager of the Milwaukee Furniture Co., stated that Clark called upon him as attorney and agent for Miss Seaman and attempted to negotiate the purchase of $500 worth of furniture for her. He produced the deed which had been shown to Crandall and a document, purported to be an abstract drawn up by himself. Subsequently he returned with Miss Seaman and the matter was talked over, but as Nightingale insisted upon having a copy of the abstract of title, Clark let the matter drop and did not insist on having the furniture.

J. K. Wilson, floor-walker at J. W. Robinson's dry goods store, on Spring street, remembered the Clarks and Miss Seaman driving to the store in a surrey, last fall, and obtaining some goods; but as the rest of his testimony was hearsay evidence he was excused, and Mr. Robinson will be called upon today to state what occurred.

C. M. Smith, a deputy constable, related the circumstances attending the arrest of the defendants on different dates; and reiterated the account of the barricading of the Clark residence by the ladies of the family, as already published in the columns of the HERALD, and he was still upon the stand when court adjourned for the day. The case will be resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

They know how to cure rheumatism in Pennsylvania! Mr. J. F. Meighan, a Pittsburg cigar dealer, awoke one morning with an attack of rheumatism in his right arm. Working around the store during the forenoon made it worse. By noon the pain was so severe that he could not raise his hand to his head and had to carry his arm in a sling. One of his customers, on learning the facts, went across the street to E. E. Heck's drug store, and at his own expense procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and persuaded the cigar dealer to try it. It eased the pain and reduced the swelling so that by the next morning he could use his arm, and by the second morning was entirely well. This is only one of the many severe cases of rheumatism that have been cured by this valuable remedy. Fifty-cent bottles for sale by C. F. Heinzeiman, 222 North Main street, Jno. A. Off, cor.
