

KILLED BY APACHES.

Robert Hardie Murdered in Arizona.

Shot from Ambush by Cowardly Redskins.

Narrow Escape of His Companion, Dr. F. L. Haynes.

The Murdered Man a Well Known Lawyer of This City—The Bereaved Wife Completely Prostrated.

Associated Press Dispatches.

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., May 26.—Robert Hardie, a prominent lawyer of Los Angeles, was shot and killed Saturday by Apache Indians, in Rucker cañon, about two miles from Mike Gray's house, and about fifteen miles east of here. Hardie, in company with Dr. Francis L. Haynes, of Philadelphia, now sojourning in Los Angeles, was on a visit to George Pridham, a prominent cattle man of this section, and they were riding through the cañon when a volley was fired at them from ambush, which instantly killed Hardie and shot Haynes's horse from under him. The latter secured Hardie's horse and escaped. The number of Indians in the band cannot be estimated, as after the first volley nothing but single firing was kept up for a while, but there can be no doubt of their being Indians, as Dr. Haynes positively asserts that he saw one not over forty feet distant. The coroner's jury appointed a committee to draft resolutions, and the following will be wired to President Harrison:

To his Excellency Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States:

Two weeks ago a large freight team was captured and burned in Sonora; the driver escaped, wounded. On the same day a citizen of this town, one Adams, was killed, and a party of surveyors was attacked—all committed by a band of Apaches numbering about ten. The nucleus of this band escaped from General Miles, and since has been re-enforced by desertions from the San Carlos agency. Our delegate in congress, M. A. Smith, was assured by the general of the army that steps would be taken toward the protection of our frontier. Overtures were made by the authorities of Sonora, whose troops were in pursuit, for assistance from the United States army. Not a soldier has left the security of his quarters, notwithstanding the fact that the probable route of the band of Indians was indicated to them. Yesterday, Robert Hardie, of Los Angeles, was shot from ambush, presumably by the same band, and his companion, Dr. Haynes, of Philadelphia, narrowly escaped. Today a coroner's jury, composed of representative citizens, rendered the following verdict:

"We, the jury, properly impeached to inquire into the cause of the death of Robert Hardie, find that he was a native of Canada, a citizen of the United States of America, a resident of Los Angeles, and of about 45 years of age; that on May 24th, at about 3:30 p. m. he came to his death by a gunshot wound inflicted by hostile Indians in Rucker cañon, Coconino county, Arizona territory, at a point about two miles from the ranch of Mike Gray.

It has been repeatedly asserted by the San Carlos officials and the army authorities that no Indians were off the reservation. To the contrary, not a month has passed in two years without at least two murders along the border between the United States and Mexico. Indians have constantly raided back and forth, been frequently seen and counted, and on reliable advices are estimated to be from twenty to thirty in number. The army headquarters are maintained in Los Angeles, 900 miles from the scene of the atrocities, and the body of a citizen of that city, which we now send them, should be accepted as evidence of their error. The present time seems most fitting to repeat the protest which the inhabitants of this territory have been making vainly for years against the system which maintains an unpunished and uncontrolled horde of murderers in our midst, and to pray once more in the name of humanity and justice for relief.

General Miles' statement. SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—Official news of the murder of Robert Hardie, a Los Angeles attorney, by a band of Apaches, at Rucker cañon, was received at army headquarters today. General Miles stated: "The Indians are Kid and his party, who attempted the life of the agent at San Carlos, in June, 1887, and were captured, tried by the military authorities and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary at Leavenworth, but were afterwards, in January, 1888, sent to Alcatraz; in October, 1889, were released by order of the authorities at Washington, and were sent back to Arizona. At San Carlos they were arrested by the civil authorities, tried and sentenced to be hanged. But these Indians were released from the penitentiary at Columbus, O., and returned to Arizona to be again tried, the United States supreme court having decided that the United States district court for Arizona could not try them. They were again tried by the civil court in Arizona, and sentenced. While on the way to Yuma penitentiary, in charge of Sheriff Reynolds and a guard, they, on the 2d of last November, killed the sheriff and escaped to Mexico, where they have been engaged in depredations in Sonora ever since, killing several parties of teamsters and prospectors there. The killing of Robert Hardie, of Los Angeles, is the first crime committed on United States territory since last November. The Apaches secured their arms from teamsters and prospectors murdered in Mexico, and a proof that it is the same party is that one of the Indians killed by Sheriff Reynolds's watch on him. The Indians at large are only eight, and they are Kid, Mignel, Sayes, Washlanta, La Cohn, Tonto, Todody and Caddaydon. The first four were originally under sentence for four years, the fifth and sixth for twelve years and the last two for life."

Orders were issued last November to all posts to look out for the escapes, and further orders were issued this afternoon by Major-General Miles to pursue and capture or destroy the hostiles.

The News in Los Angeles. Robert Hardie was a practitioner at Los Angeles bar, his law office being located in Temple block, opposite the old court house. He was a native of Canada, 45 years of age, and ten years a citizen of the United States. Eighteen months ago he was married to Miss Florence Haynes, sister of Dr. Haynes, who accompanied him on his fatal expedition and came so near losing his life also. Mr. Hardie was the father of one child. The bereaved wife and babe live at 920 South Main street.

Two weeks ago yesterday Mr. Hardie and his brother-in-law, who was here on a visit from Philadelphia, left Los Angeles for a brief vacation at George Pridham's ranch in Arizona, twenty miles out from Tombstone. The sad result of their visit is told in the foregoing dispatches.

The first intelligence of the tragedy received in this city was the following dispatch from the survivor of the massacre to Dr. W. W. Beckett, Sunday evening:

TOMBSTONE, A. T., May 24. Dr. W. W. Beckett, Los Angeles, Cal.: Robert killed instantly by Indians. Unmutilated. I'm not hurt. Will be home with body Tuesday evening.

Francis L. Haynes. Dr. Beckett, on receipt of the dispatch, imparted the news to Mrs. Hardie's relatives who live here, who in turn broke the sad intelligence to her. The poor wife was quite prostrated with grief. The body is expected to arrive here today.

Another Account. Another telegram received in this city about the killing, from Tombstone yesterday, says in part:

"Ten days ago Robert Hardie, of Los Angeles, accompanied by Dr. F. L. Haynes, of Philadelphia, left here for a trip in the Chiricahua mountains and stopped at Mike Gray's house, Rucker cañon. Yesterday morning word was received that he had been killed by Indians, and shortly the body arrived; also Dr. Haynes.

"The coroner's inquest showed that Hardie and Haynes were riding along the trail toward Gray's house, Hardie in front about ten feet, when a volley of firearms was heard, Hardie reeled in the saddle, falling backward off the horse. Haynes thinking he was mistaken for an animal, went to his assistance and saw he was dead, when he went back to his horse. When about to mount, another shot was fired, killing his horse.

"Being unarmed, he started to run, and on looking back, saw an Indian following, who raised his rifle and fired at him, but missed him. Dr. Haynes kept running and caught Hardie's horse and escaped to Gray's house. Four men went to the scene of the killing. Hardie's watch and pocketbook were gone, but the body was not mutilated."

WORLD'S FAIR COMMISSIONERS.

ST. JOHN'S SILVER BILL.

Provisions of the Measure Introduced by Senator Plumb.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The silver bill prepared by Banker St. John, of New York, introduced by Senator Plumb today, directs the secretary of the treasury to purchase silver bullion to the aggregate amount of $4,500,000; outlying silver at the market price, but not exceeding one dollar for 371.25 grains of pure silver, and issue United States notes in payment thereof, these notes to be legal tender for all purposes, unless otherwise specified, in any contract. The aggregate amount of such notes outstanding shall not exceed the cost of the silver reserved on hand, in the purchase of which the notes were issued. The notes shall be redeemable on demand at the treasury or sub-treasury, in coin, but the secretary of the treasury may, after the expiration of two years from the passage of this act, prescribe regulations for the redemption of notes on demand of the holder, in the amount the silver bullion is worth, at the market price, on the date of the redemption of the notes thus redeemed in bullion. The secretary may at his discretion coin such portion of the silver purchased, not less, however, than $2,000,000 monthly, as he may deem necessary to provide for the redemption of the United States notes. After two years minimum coinage the requirement shall be reduced to $1,000,000 per month.

AT THE CAPITAL.

Carlisle Takes His Seat in the Senate.

Debate on the Naval Appropriations Bill.

The Building of Battle Ships Strenuously Combated.

Senator Sherman Wants to Exclude the Police Gazette from the Mails.

Associated Press Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—In the senate, today, immediately after the reading of the journal, the oath of office was administered by the vice-president to Hon. John G. Carlisle as senator from Kentucky for the late Senator Beck's unexpired term.

Sherman presented petitions in favor of excluding from the mails the Police Gazette and similar publications.

Plumb introduced a bill to provide for the purchase of silver so to be used as lawful money, prepared by Banker St. John, of New York. Referred to the finance committee.

Plumb offered a resolution instructing the finance committee to prepare and report in connection with the tariff bill, a statement showing the duties levied under the existing law; the duties as they would be under the house bill to be reported by the committee; if the committee should recommend new duties, or increase the reduction of existing duties, to state the reasons in each case for such addition or increase.

Reagan moved to amend the resolution to require in cases of compound duties, specific and ad valorem columns showing the equivalent and ad valorem amount of the duty which is practicable. Agreed to, and the resolution as amended passed.

Call's resolution asking for information as to the landing of an armed force from a revenue cutter at Cedar Keys, Florida, was modified and agreed to.

The senate then resumed consideration of the naval appropriation bill. The pending question was Cockrell's amendment to strike out the provision for three heavily-armed battle ships at $4,000,000 each. There was a lengthy debate on this, in which Cockrell commented on the recommendations of the secretary of the navy for the construction of a large number of vessels.

There was no occasion, said Cockrell, for the construction of coast defenses or to increase the naval establishments. It was well for the senate to remember that the surplus was already gone.

When the legislation of this congress was finished there would be no surplus, and the people of the United States might be very happy if the taxes did not have to be increased. There was no necessity for the construction of great battle ships. The American flag was perfectly safe in every part of the earth. The United States could rely on securing justice without any manifestation of physical or visible force.

Cockrell said the American people no more favored increasing the navy and having a great standing navy, than they were in favor of having a great standing army. He had faith in the ability of the American people to get ready whenever an emergency arose.

Butler spoke vigorously in opposition to the amendment, and regretted that it was not in his power to vote for eight instead of three battle-ships. He hoped all our difficulties might be settled by negotiation or arbitration, but so long as human nature was as it is, it was unsafe to assume that the United States was in no danger of collision with a foreign power.

Blair moved to amend the provision for three battle ships by inserting a proviso that it shall not be available until the government of Great Britain shall have been requested by the president to withdraw all her naval forces from American waters, and to dismantle her naval stations in both South and North America and in the adjacent islands and shall have declined or neglected for one year to do so.

Hawley said the proposition from a nation already disarmed, to get Great Britain to disarm, was simply ludicrous. While he was as much in favor of peace as anybody, he did not consider that it was in any way departing from the teaching of the Holy Scriptures, to prepare for the day of battle, and gross injustice. There was some time in the history of the world, when, for the sake of God and country, a people must fight, and these were the days that lifted the people out of their worship of the almighty dollar.

Hale spoke of the defenseless condition of the Pacific coast, and the extensive British works and naval stations in British Columbia, which he visited last year.

Blair's amendment was rejected, as was also Cockrell's, the latter by a vote of 33 to 18. The bill was then passed. Mitchell offered a resolution which was agreed to, instructing the committee on pensions to report an amendment to the pension laws, providing in a more liberal manner for the widows, minor children and dependent relatives of deceased soldiers.

Adjourned.

House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The house was called to order this morning by Clerk McPherson, and on motion of McKinley, Burrows, of Michigan, was elected speaker pro tem., and took the chair amid applause.

[Speaker Reed is absent from the city on account of the death of his mother, who died in Maine Saturday.]

After the passage of several district bills the house adjourned.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The conference of the San Francisco postoffice site again failed to reach a decision today. Another meeting will be held Wednesday.

There was no quorum present at the meeting of the house committee on census today, but those in attendance decided to make no change in the questions to be asked by the census enumerators.

A bill was introduced by Senator Sanders today providing that no patent issued to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company shall be construed to convey to the company any mineral lands, iron or coal lands excepted.

The conference of the customs administrative bill have reached an agreement. The law is to take effect August 1st, but the section providing for the appointment of nine general appraisers is to go into effect at once.

Inherited Scrofula.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula, which broke out all over his face. For a year he had suffered, and I had given up all hopes of his recovery, when at length I decided to use S. S. S. After using a few bottles he was entirely cured. Not a symptom now remains of the disease. This was three years ago. MRS. T. L. MATHERS, Mathersville, Miss.

In the early part of last year I had a violent attack of rheumatism, from which I was confined to my bed for over three months and at times was unable to turn myself in bed, or even raise the cover. A nurse had to be in constant attendance day and night. I was so feeble that what little nourishment I took had to be given me with a spoon. After calling in the best local physicians, and trying all other medicines without receiving any benefit, I was induced by friends to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.). I discontinued all other medicines, and took a course of S. S. S. thirteen small bottles, which affected a complete and permanent cure. L. C. Bisset, El Dorado, Kansas.
