

THE CASTAC CASE.

Chormicle Says He Shot Cook and Walton.

Gardener Was Unarmed and Took No Part.

Several Witnesses Testify to the Bad Character of Cook.

Defendant's Statement Regarding the Shooting Attracts Considerable Attention—Other Evidence.

When Judge Cheney and the jury in the Castac case took their seats yesterday morning, the courtroom was packed with spectators, eager to hear the account of the shooting from the lips of the defendant Chormicle, he having related all the circumstances surrounding the affair on Monday afternoon. His testimony was even more interesting than that of the previous day, and was to the following effect:

After sitting in the cabin with Gardener for a few minutes he heard the wagon returning, and with the Marlin rifle in his hand and a revolver in his hip pocket, he walked out of the cabin and waited for it. As he stepped out in front of the cabin he called upon Walton and Olme to stop, but both men threw their hands back to their hip pockets and attempted to draw their pistols. Divining their intention, he fired with the rifle and Walton fell, Olme jumping from the wagon with his pistol in his hand as the second shot was fired. After firing again Chormicle dropped the Marlin rifle, and stepping back grabbed the Winchester, which was leaning against the house, and as Cook was advancing with a pistol in his hand, Chormicle fired again and Cook fell forward in his buggy. The mare attached to the vehicle then ran away, and at that moment Chormicle turned for the first time and saw Gardener standing close behind him unarmed.

Chormicle admitted that there were no shots fired by the intruders, and that he fired four times at Walton and twice at Cook. He denied having fired from the cabin, however, and insisted that after the second shot at Cook he did not shoot again. After the shooting he picked up both rifles and walked up the cañon. Gardener followed on a buckskin mare, and asked for one of the rifles. Chormicle asked if he had any Marlin cartridges, and he replied that he had up at the house, and rode off to get them, shortly after returning with some.

The Winchester rifle exhibited in court, Chormicle stated, was not the one which he used during the shooting. Will Gardener took the one he had at that time, and he had not seen it since. His reason for taking the rifle out that morning was that he thought that if Walton saw that he was armed he would go away. He readily identified another rifle which was introduced, as his, and stated that he used to handling it and could shoot twelve to fourteen shots with it in a minute.

Juan Burrola and a boy were at the southwest side of the house, sitting on a turkey coop, but they were unable to see him from where they were.

On cross-examination Chormicle adhered strictly to the story he told on direct examination, and throughout the severe cross-questioning he was subjected to by the prosecution, he sustained a cool and quiet demeanor.

When court reconvened after the noon recess, the defense created somewhat of a sensation by announcing that it desired to acquit the court with the fact that W. W. Jenkins had attempted to intimidate some of the witnesses, should they testify to anything derogatory to him. The prosecution vigorously denied that Jenkins had done anything of the sort, and counsel entered into a lively debate on the question, but were promptly called to order by the court, who announced his intention of stopping anything of the kind, should it be going on.

Miguel Duron, a storekeeper at Newhall, was the first witness called at the close of Chormicle's cross-examination. He testified that he knew both defendants, and had known Dolores Cook since 1876, but was not acquainted with Walton in his lifetime. Shortly before the shooting Cook called at his house, and they stood upon the porch and talked about Chormicle in the presence of C. Moore and a man named Lopez. Duron asked Cook how the lawsuits between Chormicle and the others had resulted at San Fernando. Cook replied that he had got away with them. Duron noticing that he carried weapons, told him that it was a bad business to do so. Cook replied that he knew his business, and as Chormicle passed into a saloon near by at that moment, he added, "Look, there goes the — I am armed for." Duron said that he had better not get mixed up in any such racket and that he had better go away, but Cook said warmly that they would have to bury him in the same tomb with Jenkins before they got away with him.

C. R. Moore, also of Newhall, corroborated Duron's testimony, and also testified that Cook's reputation for truth and veracity, peace and quiet was bad.

W. M. Bailey, of the Alamo rancho, eight miles south of Gorman station, also testified that Cook had borne a bad reputation.

Martin Kaufman, constable of Santa Paula, had known Chormicle very well for a number of years, having lived within four miles of his house. When he saw him board the cars at Piru with the sheriff he noticed something strange about Chormicle's face, his beard having been torn out on one side, leaving a swollen red place on his cheek.

On cross-examination he said that Chormicle stated that it had been done in the fracas, but he did not say who did it.

Thos. Marple was then called to the stand, but was very briefly examined, and the court adjourned.

WANTS DAMAGES

Because He Was Restrained From Burying Garbage.

D. F. Donegan, the contractor, commenced suit yesterday against George Vacher and a number of others for $15,800 damages and costs. In his complaint Donegan alleges that he made a contract with the city of Los Angeles on February 17, 1890, for the removal and disposal of its garbage, he being accorded the privilege of burying the same for a period of ninety days, after which time he was to erect a crematory for the disposal of the garbage. In accordance with his contract he did bury the garbage on a piece of land, comprising forty-two lots, which he purchased for the purposes of a public dumping-ground; but the defendants filed a complaint against him, alleging that they were the owners of the land, and the result was that on March 10th last Judge Wade issued a restraining order, preventing him from dumping garbage on the tract. This order continued in effect until May 20th last, when it was dissolved; but in the meantime Donegan was compelled to procure another dumping-ground, to his damage in the amount claimed.

DEMOCRATS IN COUNCIL.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION TO BE HELD JULY 22D.

The Primaries Called for Saturday, July 10th—The Orange County Representation in the State Convention.

The Democratic county central committee met yesterday afternoon, Chairman E. Germain presiding, and about twenty-five members present.

A letter from Chairman English, of the state central committee, was read, stating that Orange county was entitled to five delegates to the state convention according to the official count of its vote, and one at large, making six in all.

Letters from the secretary of the Democratic county central committee of Orange county claiming that that county was entitled to seven delegates to the state convention were read.

It was stated that the official count of Orange county showed 1,030 votes, while it is claimed by the Democratic county central committee of Orange that over 1,100 votes had been cast at the last election.

M. C. Marsh moved that the apportionment as made by the state central committee be allowed Orange county.

The time for holding the county convention to select the delegates to the state convention was, after discussion, set for July 22d, at 10 a. m., and the primaries ordered held on Saturday, July 19th, from 12 to 6 p. m.

On motion it was decided that a committee of seven be appointed to appoint judges and inspectors and select the polling places for the primaries.

The following were appointed as the committee: Captain A. F. Mackey, M. C. Marsh, James Hanley, W. R. Burke, M. T. Brewer, Judge Eaton, and C. R. Redick.

Mr. Brewer moved that the county convention be composed of one member from each precinct, and one member for every fifty voters and major fraction thereof in each precinct. Carried.

The committee then adjourned, and the special committee convened and decided to request the members of the central committee to hand in to them lists of those to be appointed election officers and the polling places at their earliest convenience.

A Number of Applications for the Coronership.

At the meeting of the board of supervisors yesterday morning, there were present Mr. S. M. Perry in the chair, and Messrs. Davis, Hubbard and Martin.

The supplemental report of the viewers of the Puente and Azusa bridge road was adopted, and the road was thereupon declared to be a public highway.

The contract for the supply of drugs to the county hospital was awarded to A. E. Littleboy, and his bond of $1,000 was filed.

A protest was received from a large number of residents against the closing up of Marengo avenue, at Ramona, and a copy of the same was ordered sent to J. De Barth Shorb, with a request that he present his reasons for closing the avenue.

Applications from the following persons for the appointment of the coronership were read and filed, but not acted upon: L. H. Whitson, Drs. R. Wernick, I. B. Hamilton, W. E. Wade, W. E. Reed, Brainerd Smith, all of this city, and Dr. W. A. Weldon, of San Pedro.

CENSUS WORK.

It Closes Saturday Night for the City.

Prospect That Many Will Not Be Enrolled.

What the Public Must Do to Be Counted.

People Not to Be Found at Their Residences—Penalty for Divulging Official Information.

The census enumeration in the city will close next Saturday. In the country districts it will continue a couple of weeks longer.

It will be at least a month, and perhaps two, after the enumeration is completed before results are obtainable, and they will be promulgated from Washington, and not from the localities where the count has been made.

Mr. Mosher received yesterday a circular from the census department at Washington, calling attention to the fact that the thirteenth section of the law establishing the present census makes the divulging of any information obtained in the work a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $500. The circular goes on to state that the rule applies to newspapers and individuals alike, and that the giving of "rough estimates" by those engaged in the work will be regarded as an infraction of the law. No hint of results can be given, and the first knowledge obtained by the people of Los Angeles as to the number of population in this city will come by telegraph from Washington.

The public should be apprised of the fact that however faithfully the enumerators may work, there is a probability that many people may be skipped. This results from the fact that in many cases the enumerator is unable to find people at the houses where they live. Ten years ago, after the census was completed, there was much complaint in various cities all over the country, that names had been omitted. One daily paper in Chicago started in to publish the names of the people who wrote complaining that they had not been enumerated, and soon discovered several hundred. As the enumerator is paid by the number that he enrolls it is safe to assume that he will do his best, but it will be inevitable that he will fail to find all in his district. As it is plainly to the advantage of every citizen of Los Angeles to have the best possible showing made, those who find themselves left out of this count should take steps to have the error remedied. A man can judge for himself whether the enumerator calling at the house where he lives is likely to get the information that is necessary to enroll his name.

If not, he should leave word just when and where he can be found. If this is not practicable, let him call at Mr. Mosher's office, in the Bryson-Bonebrake block, and secure a blank for himself and fill it out. A number of people who were about to go out of the city, took the precaution to leave their names with Mr. Mosher.

The month of June is certainly not the most favorable in the year for the taking of the census. The enumerators report that they frequently find houses empty, and learn by inquiry that the people are away at the seashore or having taken advantage of the cheap rates, had gone east for a visit. One man reported a half a dozen families at once of this sort.

The census authorities, while they are not supposed to have any particular interest in swelling the general result, are anxious to fill their duty to the utmost by enrolling every resident of the city. Under the system employed by the government this end can hardly be accomplished without the volunteer assistance of those who find themselves omitted.

It Makes a Difference, You Know.

A Salt Lake paper says that R. C. Humeston, of this city, has arrived in Utah; and to show that Los Angeles has gone to the demeriton bow-wows it says that Humeston had leased his fine residence here for $10 per month. As Mr. Humeston's residence is away outside of the city limits, the rent he gets for it is no criterion of the rent of fine residences inside the city. If the Humeston place were accessible to people doing business in the city, it would rent readily for from $50 to $75 per month.

Off to Yosemite.

There is a great deal of travel to Yosemite this year, and Los Angeles is sending her small quota of sight-seers. Hon. S. M. White is there, so is T. E. Rowan. The gentlemen are accompanied by their wives. Yesterday Thomas A. Lewis and Major W. H. Bonebrake went up on the noon train en route for the granite peaks of the valley. Their wives too were of the party. On the same train went Milton Thomp and wife, Rev. Dr. Pitkin and wife, Mr. Chonder and wife, and nearly a dozen others.

Sweep the Street.

Those doing business on Requena street, between Main and Los Angeles, complain that it is not swept. The street is paved, it is central, and much used. Certainly it ought to be kept clean. The dust flying into windows and doors is very annoying.
