

FASHION POINTS.

WHAT THE LADIES WILL WEAR THIS SUMMER.

New Shades of Colors—Styles in Head-Gear—The Latest in Waistcoats and Other Articles of Apparel.

Potecki is a light Bordeaux red. Condeole is a heliotrope leaning toward a plain lilac.

Saphire, turquoise, and bleu toile are likely to be much worn.

Chimay is the name for a bluish gray cloth with a greenish hue.

Blue colors will be in great favor next winter, and it is said that they will be leading.

Grand moyal, or fin du siecle, as it is called, is a reddish lilac, and indie a new bluish green of an elegant hue.

The accordion-plaited peasant cloak is new, the fulness being attached to a cloth yoke, either plain or braided.

The latest blue shade in the market is called Jeanne d'Arc. It is of a light though intense hue, and very becoming.

Silk gloves fit almost as beautifully as those of suede, and long-wristed mitts are donned with evening toilets at summer resorts.

Guerrita is the name for a green-yellow, much lighter than the lightest olive. This shade will scarcely find favor, as it is not pretty.

Ladies of mature years wear costumes of gitana brown, combined with the new blonde, which as nearly as possible reproduces the tresses of a blonde beauty.

Jackets of English hunting pink are donned for coaching or hunting parties, and with their brilliantly polished gilt buttons, are altogether smart and fetching garments.

The top-coat may be worn with the prevailing sailor hat of straw or light felt, but a Marguerite gown should be seen on the street with a picturesque hat of mull or straw trimmed with Marguerites or daisies to complete the effect.

A very attractive hat in white fancy straw braid, faced with shirred white net, is trimmed with an imposing bow of velvet ribbon, three inches wide, in moss green, posed at the back of the crown, and holding a full garland of purple heather, which is twisted around the crown.

Parisian women are seen at the races, in country houses, and at the seaside resorts attired in gowns of black Hosiery, with their brilliantly polished gilt buttons, are altogether smart and fetching garments.

The gauntlet cuff has reappeared on suede or dogskin gloves, and is much liked, as it is so readily drawn over the full sleeves of summer gowns. It is admirably adapted for tennis, yachting and horseback-riding, and is often made of wash leather, which does not shrink by contact with soap and water.

Single and double-breasted habit-basques, with pointed fronts and dress-backs, of becoming length, are among the leading elegancies of the season.

Arts of the pretty woolsens suitable for street wear, may be fashionably made up in them, white serge, camel's hair, etc., being particularly dainty.

Another pleasing specialty of the summer is the vest, a real waistcoat, with a narrow rolling collar and little turning lapels. It may be made of as rich materials as the wearer desires, but the most popular fabric just now for traveling and morning wear, is what is called canvas gingham, or pique, showing a small irregular or regular check.

Black lace hats are as much the vogue as ever. Parisians are varying their appearance by having them trimmed with the particular blossoms which happen to be most common at the time. In this way lilies-of-the-valley and forget-me-nots were superseded by lilacs and laburnums, and these again by pansies and iris, flowers which are reproduced in a variety of delicate gray-blue, violets, and mauves. Now the peonies and gaulder roses are coming forward, and then these will be followed by the June roses. Some of the prettiest of the black lace hats are made up of rows of insertion alternating with bands of black ermine.

ADVERTISING THE STATE. A Special Pamphlet to be Issued by the State Board of Trade.

At a recent meeting of the state board of trade, an organization of which the Los Angeles chamber of commerce is a member, General Chipman offered the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, It is of great importance to ascertain and make up at the earliest practicable moment the statistics gathered by the United States census relative to the state of California during the past decade, and that the secretary be directed to communicate with W. H. Mills, the vice-president of the state board of trade, now in Washington, and request him to wait upon Hon. Robert C. Potter, superintendent of the census, and obtain permission and arrange to have made copies of the official returns of such information as may concern the welfare of this state, provided that such copies or tabulated data cost not to exceed $250.

Resolved, That the superintendent of the census be, and is hereby requested to afford to this board such aid as may be consistent with his duty to the public, with a view to promote the objects herein expressed.

They were carried unanimously. The following was introduced:

WHEREAS, There is pressing need for a pamphlet publication which shall in compact form present the resources, industries, general and special features of California, and its desirableness for residence, and as the home of the industries of all classes, and that such publication should embrace the whole state by counties, giving the special industries and aptitudes of counties and regions.

Resolved, That the committee on agriculture and industrial resources be directed to enter upon the work of preparing the material for such pamphlet as is contemplated herein.

Mr. Boggs, of Colusa, spoke in favor of the last resolution, characterizing it as a most excellent suggestion. Most of the pamphlets now in circulation regarding California did not fill the bill. A few of them were misleading, being gotten up by real estate agents for the purpose of boomeraging. He would suggest the addition of a map.

Colonel Irish, in the chair, stated that Mr. Boggs's suggestion of a map was a most excellent one, as he was informed that of the educational institutions of other states were using the map issued by the board. The idea of getting out this work was one to be commended. There was a work issued by the Morning

Call some time ago which covered the whole state and reflected credit on the enterprise of that paper. In fact, all the San Francisco papers were lending their aid to such a purpose.

E. W. Maslin supported the resolution, saying that the trouble with the counties was in their issuing separate pamphlets, often, as Mr. Boggs said, misleading. He hoped the resolution would pass, as there was need of a pamphlet giving succinct information to those desiring it. While traveling in Minnesota lately he looked in vain for books giving information about California. He found out all he wanted about Washington and Oregon.

The resolution was adopted.

An Unlucky Blunder. One of the reminiscences which the queen loves to recall is of the time when Louis Napoleon was her guest aboard the royal yacht Victoria and Albert. The French monarch praised the sumptuous furnishings of the vessel, and confessed that he had never felt able to afford so great a luxury.

"But for you, madame," said he, gallantly, "you are the queen of the sea!" This compliment tickled the queen mightily. The title was a new one and it hit her fancy. Victoria is a great stickler at formality; she will not tolerate anything like a breach of custom. The custom is that whenever the queen visits a town she shall, before leaving that town, knight the mayor thereof. The form of dubbing a knight is exceedingly simple. The candidate kneels before her majesty; she asks his name; he gives it simply "Andrew Jones" or whatever it may be; the queen touches him with her sword and says: "Rise Sir Andrew Jones." On one occasion the queen was about to knight the mayor of one of the smallest cities she had been visiting. The poor fellow was scared almost out of his wits. He was so nervous that when the queen asked his name he answered: "Mr. Thomas Hopkins." Whereupon her majesty, incensed at this breach of custom, and making no allowance for the poor man's trepidation, exclaimed: "Rise, Mr. Thomas Hopkins," and, throwing the sword aside, looked indignantly out of the room.—[Chicago News, London Letter.

Mrs. Richard Crowley, wife of the representative from the Niagara district, has written and is about to publish a book of historical, political and personal observations and reminiscences under the title, "Echoes from Niagara." Mrs. Crowley lived at Albany and Washington during a most interesting period in American politics and had friendly relations with the picturesque and heroic figures of that time. Her chronicle is said to be "as good as a novel."
