THE NEWSPAPERS AND RAILWAY BUILDING.

There is no question of the fact that a great railway movement, having Los Angeles as its objective point, is under way, and that the movement for securing the right-of-way to Rattlesnake island is a part of it. While no leading eastern railway has as yet shown its hand as promoter of the consolidation of the Cross system of roads, very heavy capitalists in St. Louis are identified with it. The Dick "Kearns" referred to by a contemporary is in reality the quite noted Richard Kerrens, of Kerrens & Mitchell, and all the other parties are men of equal note. That the movement will result in a new transcontinental railway passing through Los Angeles we do not doubt, and it will do so at an early day. There are at least two transcontinental railway systems which might well desire a frontage on the Pacific ocean, such as would be afforded by the concession of the right-of-way to Rattlesnake island. These are the Union Pacific and the Denver and Rio Grande, the latter controlled by Jay Gould. Right between these two corporations lies, in our opinion, the real inspiration of the recent consolidation of the Cross roads and the energetic efforts being made to procure the right-of-way to tidewater on the Pacific. The recent arrival in Los Angeles of Mr. Burnett is quite significant, as he represents very important eastern interests. There has been no time in the history of this region when there was a more inviting field presented to railroad promoters. This is especially true as to the Union Pacific railway, whose road will traverse a section especially rich in the metals, both base and precious, which afford such remunerative employment to transportation companies. The supplies of coal, iron, copper and lead, to say nothing of gold and silver, along the line which will be traversed by the Utah Southern, would of themselves give a satisfactory business to this road. The idea that, under any circumstances, it would stop at Pioche is too ridiculous for mention.

AN UNTENABLE POSITION OF SENATOR YELL'S.

Senator Yell, of Mendocino, seems to think that the friends of Hon. S. M. White have no right to press that gentleman for the endorsement of the convention for United States senator. This is mere leather and prunella. For years a great scandal has been the denial of any representation in the senate of the United States to Southern California, and the undue influence which railway money has exerted in politics. The Democrats of Southern California meet the issue by desiring to have one of their number in the United States senate, and they have concentrated their efforts upon Mr. White because his youth, energy and ability conspicuously pointed him out as the man to represent his party in that body. Why, therefore, should not his friends aim to obtain for him a recognition by the state convention which would give the party the benefit of his oratorical talents and personal efforts during the coming campaign? Then, as to the unstinted employment of railway money in the senatorial and other elections—as to which we have the testimony of Mr. Coillis P. Huntington—why should not the Democracy of the whole state raise on indignation protest against such practices, and enlist the services of a champion who could bring home to the people a lively sense of such enormities? In addition, the Democracy of Los Angeles county appealed to the Democrats of other sister counties to inaugurate an agitation looking to the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people, thus popularizing that body and bringing it into touch with the masses, and in presenting this appeal the name of Mr. White was suggested as a fitting champion. All these are ample reasons why Mr. White should receive the endorsement of the Democratic state convention for United States senator, although they, of course, are not conclusive. The convention has a right to do as it pleases in the matter, just as Mr. White's friends have the right to work diligently for the convention's endorsement. The indications are overwhelming, the HERALD is pleased to say, that he will receive it, and will presently go to Washington as the first representative Los Angeles has ever had in the senate of the United States.

THE IROQUOIS CLUB, in its resolution sustaining the attitude of the HERALD, hit the nail square on the head in the following declaration:

Resolved, That the earnest thanks of the Iroquois Club of Los Angeles is extended to the HERALD for its manly and outspoken course, and that this club is surprised that the recent so-called investigation held on Saturday afternoon was not directed rather at the frauds which were practiced at the primaries than at the journal which dared to denounce outrages which were instigated by money procured from some source, and which was most lavishly used, as was apparent to every citizen.

That is what might be termed "the true business." Why did not the investigation grapple with the outrages themselves instead of trying to condone and whitewash the acts which compelled the HERALD to raise its voice for decent politics? The editor, who was also a delegate, was called to account for doing what was right and what it was his duty to do, whilst the men who had brought disgrace upon the party

San Francisco telegrams, that he is busy championing one of the Democratic candidates for governor, although in the bay city ostensibly in the interest of Col. Markham. There is something rather fetching in such a programme.

THE PRESS AND MALEFACTORS.

Whenever a man goes crooked or does anything sufficiently repulsive to decency or public morals to call out the animadversion of the press, instead of placing the blame on himself, where it justly belongs, he is sure to ascribe whatever of stigma attaches to him to the newspapers. If a gang of ruffians make a raid upon primary elections and carry them by fraud, the journal that holds up the men who commit the outrages to public execration is treated as the miscreant by these innocents, and sometimes even respectable persons who know better are to be found to side with them instead of the honest journalist. Of course the editor who thus does his duty to the community knows that he has the public with him, and that whitewashing resolutions of the men he has exposed are mere make-shifts for political effect elsewhere. The crimes against the rights of citizenship committed by the dregs of a party are snowed under by the indignant protestations of the men who hope to profit from them. But the public are not at all blinded or misled by this kind of tactics. They know that if embezzlers and keepers of dives and their parasites get into party conventions they get there by fraud and illegitimate means, and no amount of whitewashing by resolves will purify them in the eyes of the people. Just look at the declaration of Justice of the Peace Lockwood. He is before the courts charged with a grave crime. The facts that led up to the accusation were such as made his guilt very probable. Yet he, too, blames the press for the attitude he holds before the public. He declared that the newspapers had been manufacturing ill-feeling and prejudice against him, as if the newspapers could or would do such a thing if his own acts had not furnished the material. One would think, from the way in which tainted men cry out against the press that editors delighted in wrecking character and tearing down reputations. The cold critic, however, who reads our papers, finds a very different cause of complaint. He says the great and overshadowing fault of our newspapers is the unstinted praise they lavish upon the individuals they are called upon to discuss. And there is a great deal of truth in this criticism; but it goes to show that the average newspaper man would rather praise than denounce.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Alliance Club yesterday Dr. Joseph Kurtz and other able and eloquent Democrats took strong ground against the outrages that were perpetrated at the recent primaries, and it was announced that the efforts of that powerful organization should be directed to seeing that such things should not occur in the future. The club is composed of the very best material in the city of Los Angeles, and we welcome its aid in the good work of purifying our politics. We are glad to know that its pecuniary standing is first-class and that it is about providing itself with good quarters and elegant appointments.

were covered with whitewash. This is neither good politics nor good policy. No party can afford to overlook or wink at such vile practices as the HERALD exposed and denounced. If the better part of the delegation had backed the HERALD and turned its guns upon the ruffians who had disgraced the party they would have been made to retire to their subterranean holes, and the party would have been the stronger and the better for it.

The opening of the Chautauqua assembly in the new pavilion at Redondo Beach, Tuesday night, was a most imposing sight. Four thousand seats had been prepared for the visitors, and every one of them was filled. The aisles, too, were crowded, and many went away for want of room. It is evident, from the interest taken in the opening of the assembly, that the Chautauquan movement in Southern California is a very popular one, and that the membership is very large and increasing. The splendid temple they have erected at Redondo gives the society a permanent and most attractive rallying point and headquarters, and will, of course, tend greatly to the development of the important educational work which is the object of the organization.

It is just then when men resort to bitters and burning saucers to tone up their jaded appetites, that women find their sole recourse in the apparently innocent salt cruet.

It is the old story of giving an inch to yield an ell, and before the victim knows it, her palate demands a double or triple quantity of the mineral to savor every morsel she eats. Some go so far as to eat not only the substantial dishes, but tea, coffee, fruit, nuts, sweet-meats, and wine. They begin by taking a pinch extra now and then to pique their tastes, and before long steal a bit to keep in the pocket, or buy a crystal to nibble on the sly. Nature's revenge on her weak laughter is as insidious as the insult her immutable laws have suffered. She dies her first signals of distress in a clouding of the skin, replacing the pink glow of health by a dim, yellowish palor.

Lips and cheeks blanch alike, this change being accompanied by a deepening of every shadow on the face. This is as nothing, however, to the destruction this morbid habit works on a woman's crowning glory, her hair. And it is as nothing, however, to the fluctuations of one's health. Soon, each time the comb passes through, it brings great handfuls of long, shining strands.

No lotion is effective in checking the loss, and, unless corrected, the abnormal amount of salt in the system will produce partial baldness. Even now, quite a number of women are under treatment, some openly and others secretly, for this form of excess.—Illustrated American.
