

MAN.

I was born as free as the silver light That laughs in a southern fountain; Free as the sea bird that nests On a Scandinavian mountain; Free as the wind that whistles at the sway And pinching clasp of another's arm...

And the autumn day that had smiled so fair Seemed suddenly overcast; A gloom, more dreadful than nature owns, My human mind enshrouded; I thought of the power benign that made And bound men one to the other...

Why the Doctor Cried.

Dr. Hill's autocratic bearing in the sick room gave stragglers no hint of the deep sympathy which he felt for the humblest of his patients. A gentleman entering his office unannounced was surprised to find the doctor with his head bowed over his desk and sobbing convulsively.

"Take a seat. There's no occasion for privacy. I was thinking of little Willie M—, who has been sick with scarlet fever. It was a severe case, but I had it under control. In fact the boy was out of danger when his aunt, moved by his entreaties, gave him a hot doughnut to eat."

"The gentleman was expressing regret at this sad turn of affairs when the doctor, as if ashamed of his unwonted display of feeling, exclaimed impatiently: 'I don't particularly care for the boy; what I am sorry for is that I can't kill his aunt before she has a chance to murder another sick person with her confounded doughnuts.'"

Parata, the Maori Sea Monster.

The Maories of New Zealand and the adjoining islands have a strange belief concerning the cause of the ebb and flow of the tides. These phenomena, it seems, they attribute to a huge water breathing dragon which they call Parata, who is said to do his work by powerful and regular respirations, or inspirations and expirations of water.

The New Zealanders have a myth which tells them that their island was populated by Parata bringing a loaded canoe in his mouth from some far away land. A cunning priest confined in the monster's mouth with the others in the canoe recited a charm, which caused the dragon to disgorge his load in time for those imprisoned to safely steer to the coast of what is now New Zealand.

One night a lawyer sat in his office, troubled over a case, the keystone of which was a bit of testimony locked in the breast of a certain witness, whose present place of residence was unknown.

What Led to this Dream?

In the early part of last year I had a violent attack of rheumatism, from which I was confined to my bed for over three months and at times was unable to turn myself in bed or even raise the cover. A nurse had to be at constant attendance day and night. It was so feeble that what little nourishment I took had to be given me with a spoon.

Inherited Scrofula.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula, which he had all over his face. For a year he had suffered, and I had given up all hopes of his recovery, when I decided to use S. S. S. After using a few bottles he was entirely cured. Not a symptom now remains of the disease.

A Great Man's Courtesy.

There are several stories afloat about the late Fletcher Harper which reflect great credit upon his memory. He was one of the most courteous gentlemen in New York, gentlemanly by instinct, training and intellectual purpose.

Dictionary Study.

I make a practice of marking with a colored pencil such words in my dictionary as, from lack of a full knowledge of their meaning, I am obliged to look up. I do this by placing a mark something like an inverted caret at the top of the column in which the word appears and another adjoining the word itself.

The Ingenious Woman.

The ingenious woman is the happiest woman in the world. She gets more real comfort out of life than all the women geniuses rolled into one ever could. The ingenious woman is the kind of woman who can pack more clothes in a Saratoga trunk than the average man could get into a furniture van.

Perfumed Linen.

Everything is perfumed save the handkerchief. Custom stamps a scented handkerchief as vulgar. If you wish your linen to have a particularly fresh, wholesome, old fashioned odor, buy one of those lavender filled bags now in the market. They are filled with the crushed lavender flowers, and the pungent odor will last much longer than powder sachet. One cannot imagine the task it is to prepare these bags for the market. I was talking with a girl who does this work, and she told me that when at work she is forced to cover her hair completely, wear gloves, cover her neck carefully and her gown with huge aprons, and even then the fine dust of the flowers will fly up, lodge in the eyebrows, ears and nostrils, causing unlimited discomfort.

Pretty Wicker Chairs.

There is nothing prettier in a country parlor than a few pieces of rattan furniture, either in natural color with cushions of India silk or enameled in white and gold and fitted up with striped tapestry cushions or any artistic material the owner fancies. There are two kinds of furniture classified under the head of rattan—the genuine rattan and the reed or wicker. The wicker chair is less expensive than the rattan, but it is not to be despised for this reason. It certainly possesses one advantage over rattan—it cannot be twisted into such grotesquely ugly shapes as rattan has been by some manufacturers.

A Victory for the Journalist.

An interesting judicial precedent has been established in Hamburg. M. Pollini, manager of one of the theatres, refused admission to a newspaper critic on the ground that the latter had given his performance a bad notice. The court, after deliberation, decided that the manager's course was illegal, and condemned him to pay the journalist five hundred marks for each refusal of admission.

Might Have Been.

A captain in the German army published a pamphlet showing how the French might have gained a great victory at Sedan, and he has been cashiered and sent to prison for five years. If the French didn't know what they were doing at Sedan it is not the business of any German to post them at this late date. So ruled the court-martial.—Detroit Free Press.

She Wanted a Barometer.

Mamma (ready to go shopping)—Good-bye, dearie; what shall I buy for my little girl? Helen (aged 4, whose nurse is an old fashioned weather prophet)—Oh, mamma, buy me some barometers, please, so I can tell when the weather is going to change.—Harper's Young People.

The grapple plant of the Kalaharia desert is said to be a real vegetable curiosity. In its general appearance it looks more like a grapple than a plant, and each ray or arm is tipped with barbs, which, when fastened to the wool of sheep, have to be cut out as the only way of removing them.

Ladies Who Sew.

Or-do-homework will find "LEARNELLE OIL" a delicate article for softening the skin and allaying roughness. When applied let it dry on. Its use does not interfere with the hands, and the finest ribbons, silk satin, etc., are not damaged. It is sold by E. S. WELLS, Jersey City, N. J.

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes digestion, relieves headache, clears the mind, and cures dyspepsia.

In a Terrible Condition. "I owe my life to Hood's Sarsaparilla. For two years I was in a terrible condition with dyspepsia. I could eat nothing but soda crackers, and my weight fell from 170 to 135 pounds. Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me at once, and after using 12 bottles I was entirely cured. I have gained my usual weight, 170 pounds, and have had excellent health ever since." T. J. WILCOX, 20-22 1st South Street, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Headache—Hot Flashes.

"I had headache, hot flashes, soreness and swelling across my body, pain in my right side, with frequent vomiting. I used Hood's Sarsaparilla with the best results. I am in better health than for four years. Hood's Sarsaparilla is safe, reliable, and sure." J. C. WILSON, Auburn, Cal.
