HE ATTACKS ONE OF MAYOR HAZ-ARD'S VETOES.

The Hooker Contract Matter Explained-Is the Mayor's Position Tenable-The Points of the Case.

Major Bonsall yesterday addressed the following communication to the council: Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 10th, 1890. To the Honorable Council, Los An-

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 10th, 1890. To the Honorable Council, Los Angeles, Cal.

Gentlemen:—In a message from the mayor at a recent meeting of the council, in which he returns unsigned the contract with J. D. Hooker for pipe on a portion of the woolen mill ditch, he took occasion to use the following language: "By the terms of this contract it will cost the city along the same route, and now we are called upon to replace it with a new pipe." Is it a necessity: that is the question, and it is no argument to say that it should not be repaired because the pipe was laid several years ago. How does it affect the consumers of water out on, and adjacent to Figueroa street, or in other portions of the city, whether the pipe was laid ten years ago, if the fact remains that the city is compelled to keep up the supply of water? In order to do so it is necessary that a new pipe be placed in that portion of the system between the Second street park and Beaudry avenue. The system supplies the West Lake park and other reservoirs. Also the woolen mill and the large area of country adjacent to the Figueroa street ditch, and from which the city receives a revenue. I understand the Woolen Mill company have some claim to a permanent supply of water, but as to this I have not in-Irom which the city receives a revenue. I understand the Woolen Mill company have some claim to a permanent supply of water, but as to this I have not investigated fully. If it be the purpose to contest this right and to abandon a supply of water to the other districts named, then the necessity to repair is done away with. All admit that the city must do one or the other. If abandoned, it means the abandonment of the entire system, which includes also Reservoir No. 4, in addition to the district named. So far as the people of Second street are concerned, no doubt they would like to see it abandoned, for along their street, recently graded, and for which they paid hard cash, runs a considerable stream of water, making it a bog and mire, and a menace to life and property. One of the important branches of the sewer system, for which so much of the tax-payers' money was recently voted, is laid under the running streem, sewer system, for which so much of the tax-payers' money was recently voted, is laid under this running stream of water. A double-track cable car line is about to be laid upon this portion of the street, which cannot well be done on account of the water. Add to these the lact that it will cost the city thousands of dollars to repair the street, if the pipe is not fixed.

These facts I stated, substantially, on the floor of the council, at the time the mayor's yet o message was read, and in-

In the state of the pipe is not fixed.

These facts I stated, substantially, on the floor of the council, at the time the mayor's veto message was read, and incidentally mentioned a fact which I thought might not be generally known, that the citizens out there paid $3,500, nearly four years ago, so that the portion for which repairs were now asked should not be considered as having cost the city a dollar in the first place.

The mayor comes back with a second message, in which he has the astonishing and unblushing presumption and arrogance to state positively in so many words, that my information is obtained from mere street rumor. He does not advance the idea as his opinion merely, but states it as a fact. This too in face of the fact, that I have lived in the vicinity between four and five years, am on the street and see it several times every day. *He admits that the $3,500 was paid by individual citizens (and the record shows it was paid January 13th, 1887, nearly four years ago,) but he goes on and gives some figures as to what was paid Frick Brothers for work dome north of Temple street (an entirely different neighborhood, but on the same system), also to Burlingame for excavating the entire route, together with the bill of pipe for the entire line. Had he extended his examination of the "record" or gone back a greater number of years, he might have found that the system had cost even more than he states; but the part under consideration does not include the whole system, only that small portion between the Second street park and Beaudry avenue, which the zanjero and the zanja committee have several times stated to this council in written reports, was absolutely in need of immediate repairs. Every citizen who knows anything of its condition is forced to the same conclusion. Admitting that the repairs are needed, how is anything accomplished or what argument or reason is there in the mayor's saying "I won't sign a contract to repair that pipe because a new pipe was put down there several years ago." This w other manufacturers and agents of pipe tell me that the bid we now have is lower than the pipe can be made for, and if we readvertise the city will have to pay a much higher price for the same.

to pay a much higher price for the same.

If it were really the intention of the mayor to refer to the defective character of the original work, he might have vented his spleen upon a former council, underwhose administration the pipe was laid, instead of endeavoring to get a little cheap notoriety by throwing it upon the present administration, who only seek to make some necessary repairs. In that case, his inordinate desire to write a veto message would have been gratified.

I have no particular fondness in this direction, and regret being compelled to make this statement.

Respectfully submitted.

WM. H. BONSALL,
Councilman, Third Ward.

THE SPIRITS FAILED

To Cure Mrs. Hanford's Complicated Diseases.

Lewiston Journal.

At 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Mary E. Hanford, a native of Missouri, 45 years of age, was found dead in the din her room at the Somerset house on east Fifth street. Coroner Weldon the unfortunate woman. It was then elicited that Mrs. Hanford, who had resided at the Somerset for almost a year past, had apparently been suffering from consumption, but had refused to call in a regular practitioner to attend her, preferring to place herself in the hands of an alleged spiritualist named Mrs. Coy. A post mortem examination, however, disclosed the fact that the woman had been in a terrible condition from a combination of double pleurisy and cancers, which had caused her to gradually waste away to almost a skeleton.

On hearing these facts the jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes.

The case of the People vs. Albert Gibbs, of San Gabriel, on a charge of in-Gibbs, of San Gabriel, on a charge of interfering with a water main, was dismissed in Justice Savage's court yesterday. Mr. Gibbs removed a gate which had been placed in a zanja at San Gabriel by Mr. H. B. Warner, of the East San Gabriel hotel. One day a few weeks ago Mr. Gibbs attempted to take away the gate, which stopped the water from flowing where he wanted it. Mr. Warner, dressed in his best suit of clothes, went to the bottom of the zanja in a vain effort to keep the gate in position. Hence the arrest. The case was like the gate, it would not hold against the stalwart Albert.

Millionaire Blair's Eccentricities.

One Sunday afternoon a solidly built old man, with a long face and close cut gray hair, registered at the Grand Pacific.

"Want a room?" asked the clerk.

"There is no use of going to the expense of hiring a room," was the answer, "for only a few hours. I expect to go west tonight, but I'd like some place to change my clothing."

"Let me give you a parlor room for a few hours."

"Let me give you a parlor room for a few hours."

"No. There are few people-in the wash room; I can change my shirt in there and then sit around the office for a few hours. No need of spending money foolishly."

The guest changed his linen in the wash room and then began to clean his silk hat and coat with a little rag and bottle of bengins.

room and then began to clean his silk hat and cost with a little rag and bottle of benzine.

The eccentric person was John I. Blair, of New Jersey, whose wealth is estimated at fabulous amounts. He is rated to be worth from $40,000,000 to $100,000,000, yet he was seated in a porter's chair in the Pacific scrubbing his old hat as if he could never get another. While Mr. Blair spends little money on himself he is quite generous to others, and many kind deeds of charity are credited to his worldly account. He is a remarkable man, for though 88 years old he presents the appearance of one at 60, and accomplishes twice as much as most young men.

His business career was begun so long ago that the present generation does not know him well. He built the greater portion of the Lackawanna road, investing his sown money and keeping every dollar of his securities. When Scranton was a wilderness he bought land in and around the place, and saw it grow from nothing to a city of 100,000 people. Mr. Blair built and now owns half the roads in Iowa. The town of Blairsville, N. J., is owned by him. Of late years he has made an immense amount of money in the west. He would lay out the route of a new road, mark the town sites along the line and buy up all the good land before the public knew of the line of the road. When the towns sprung up Mr. Blair had all the lots for sale.—Chicago Tribune.

Confronted by a Memory.

Apropos of the movement to furnish books the prisoners in Auburn jail, a Norwegian lady residing in Auburn told in her picturesque way an episode which occurred in Charleston, S. C. Years ago a mother took her 5-year-old boy into prison when she went to see his father, committed for some trifling offence. The little fellow stepped into the adjacent cell, having over it the number 68. To tease him the warden shut the door, but quickly opened it at the little fellow's screams. His mother soothed him, saying: "Nobody shan't ever shut my little boy in a dark cell." Years passed. The boy's father and mother died. His uncle helped him and gave him money to get to New York. He fell in with bad company, squandered his money, and in there desperation attempted to commit burglary in his uncle's house.

That relative was so enraged he handed over his nephew to the authorities. Looking at the number of his cell, to his horror he saw "68," and knew that it was the self-same cell that had inspired his boyish ter-over his nephew to the authorities. Looking at the number of his cell, to his horror he saw "68," and knew that it was the self-same cell that had inspired his boyish terror. Then his mother's words came back, "Nobody shan't ever shut my little boy in a dark cell," and he wept as he had not since her death, for he had loved that mother. The warden's wife found him in a melted condition. He told her his story, and she gave him the utmost sympathy and kindness during his long term, shortened by his good behavior. As he left the cell and took a last look at those terrible numbers "68" he determined he would make a man of whom his mother should be proud. By his trade, learned in prison, he pursued an honest and lucrative business, and his taste for literature, also formed by the warden, provided for leisure hours. Ten years afterward he called on the warden's wife, and she could hardly believe that it was he who had occupied "68."—Lewiston Journal. Lewiston Journal.

"Wife," said he, "last night after supper I thought I would go into the dining room and steal just one of those ginger cakes you made yesterday. In the dark I made a mistake and attacked most vigorously a bar of turpentine soap that was lying on the table. I bit out a piece about the size of a half grown terrapin, and before I detected my error I had filled every hollow tooth and between my teeth with the tarnation stuff, and had swallowed about a dime's worth of it! And that's what made me so plagued sick." Alick says he's made about twenty gallons of soapsuds washing out his mouth, and judging from his taste he has material enough yet in his mouth to make twenty gallons more.—Macon County Citizen.
