THE FIRST BAREBACK RIDER.

James Robinson Reviews the History of Circus Riding. From the New York World.

James Robinson, the veteran bareback rider, whose early triumphs belong away back in the childhood of men now grizzled with years...

Robinson was the first man to "cut out" the bareback ride and make it a specialty. This was in 1847. Previous to that time he, like all others, rode the pad act.

Robinson's two boys are riders, though one of them, Clarence, has retired from the ring and is a commercial business man in Kansas City.

Apples Properly Cooked. We have learned the value of the apple as an every-day luxury, and have them to use freely.

It is a well known fact that the apple is not good at any time of the year. An apple that has flavor should not be cooked till all the flavor passes off in steam and nothing is left but pulp.
