

DEMOCRACY BOOMING.

TWO LARGELY ATTENDED MEETINGS LAST EVENING.

Captain James in this City—A Fine Whoop-Up at Wilmington—Hon. W. J. Curtis, J. W. Mitchell and Colonel Tobin Make Addresses.

For several hours last night Market street was impassable by reason of the dense crowd of representative workingmen which was assembled round a gaily decorated platform, from which they were addressed by a number of eloquent exponents of the principles of the people's party, the Democracy.

Tri-colored bunting covered every portion of the rostrum from view, and the whole was surmounted by a canopy, over which floated proudly the national flag, and under which were suspended various colored Chinese lanterns and a huge lamp; the whole making a very pretty effect.

Mr. Thos. F. Donahue, who presided over this open air meeting, occupied a seat in the center of the platform, while Mr. Anthony Schwamm, who officiated as secretary, took up a position at his left hand, the speakers being ranged on the right, and the colored brass band being seated in the rear.

After a few preliminary remarks by the chairman, the following list of vice-presidents was read, those who were present being invited to take seats on the platform:

A. Ramish, J. C. Foy, J. H. Schumacher, V. J. Rowan, J. H. Dockweiler, W. A. Wilson, W. A. Driscoll, J. L. Mansfield, P. M. Scott, H. Bruning, J. H. Clancy, C. P. Kearney, G. Engelhart, N. M. Quirolo, F. W. Potts, A. C. Clarke, E. Smith, D. Harrington, B. Cohn, E. W. Taylor, P. M. Gaffey, E. Quarre, A. Moore and W. F. Nordholt.

The speaker of the evening, Capt. J. F. James, was then introduced, and in an interesting and straightforward speech of three-fourths of an hour duration, he expounded the merits of the Democratic platform and the demerits of those of other parties.

He was followed by J. Buford, one of the colored delegates at the recent county convention, who explained the reason why the colored voters were no longer Republicans, and had sought redress by joining forces with the Democrats.

Dr. J. Kurtz, candidate for county treasurer, who was seen on Spring street, was loudly called for, and he graciously responded to the summons by mounting upon the platform and delivering a brief but ringing address, which was enthusiastically received.

W. S. Waters also addressed the meeting, which, at the close of his remarks, adjourned with three hearty cheers for the ticket.

At Wilmington.

The large hall of Wilmington was filled to overflowing last night with citizens of that place, San Pedro and the surrounding country, assembled to listen to the addresses of Col. J. J. Tobin, Hon. W. J. Curtis and Hon. John W. Mitchell, on the issues of the campaign for a Democratic standpoint.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. J. Willey, who introduced as the first speaker Hon. John W. Mitchell of Los Angeles, who was received with hearty applause. Mr. Mitchell made a very strong point on county affairs, showing the disastrous results of Republican misrule, the corruption of that party in its principal offices in this county, and the thieving and jobbery which have become so notorious.

He concluded his address with a scorching and Republican office-holders in general, with a few glaring particular "lights," and urged his hearers to insist on and work for reform and retrenchment, through the ticket put up by the Democratic party.

Hon. W. J. Curtis, Democratic nominee for congress from the Sixth district, was the next speaker, and he was received with deafening applause. Mr. Curtis had spent the day in examining the harbor at San Pedro, and devoted a good part of his address to an analysis of the needs of this district in its harbor facilities, etc., and briefly outlined his plans for the improvement of the harbors, which plans he guaranteed would be earnestly worked for if elected. The remarks of Mr. Curtis were received with great applause, and caused much gratification to his audience, many of whom were Republicans. It is predicted that the speech of Mr. Curtis has captured many a Republican vote for the entire Democratic ticket in this precinct.

Colonel J. J. Tobin of San Francisco was next introduced, and made an excellent speech, exposing from the workings of the Democratic state platform, showing the actual necessity of a change from Republican misrule, and concluding with a particularly forcible argument on the tariff question, scorching the McKinley bill most righteously but unmercifully. His speech was followed closely by his interested audience, who frequently responded in hearty applause.

Taken altogether, the meeting was a great success, and the Democrats of that precinct are very hopeful of turning in a good majority next Tuesday.

COL. GEO. H. SMITH.

The Napa Journal Thus Speaks of This Distinguished Angelino.

"At the San Jose convention, the Democrats of Southern California were very moderate in their claim to recognition. They demanded nothing. They asked the nomination of a single candidate on the ticket. They presented to the convention for associate justice of the supreme court the Hon. George H. Smith, a man whose name now adds character and strength to the ticket, and whose election would confer respect and dignity upon the office.

"This claim of the Democracy of Southern California was reasonable as well as moderate, and the convention very wisely recognized it by nominating Colonel Smith, who with E. F. Del Valle are the only representatives of Southern California on the Democratic ticket. Colonel

Smith is an old Californian. He was admitted to practice in the courts of this state in 1858, and has for over twenty years been recognized as one of the foremost members of the bar of Los Angeles. As a member of the well known firm of Glaseell, Chapman & Smith, he has had an extensive law business, giving him large and varied experience, and making him thoroughly acquainted with the history and practice of litigation in this state.

"Col. Smith is not only a well-equipped practitioner, but a man well read and learned in the history and philosophy of the law. He is a thinker and writer of reputation, and has made valuable contributions to the literature of his profession. As a man, he is highly esteemed for his purity of life, high sense of honor, and unswerving integrity, and no citizen of Los Angeles enjoys in a higher degree, the respect and love of the whole community.

"His candidacy was suggested and commended by the bar of Los Angeles of both political parties. His election is earnestly desired and expected by the people of Southern California, and this expectation is reasonable, as he is in every respect fitted for the position, and Southern California ought to have at least one representative on the supreme bench.

"We heartily commend Colonel Smith to the favorable consideration of our readers, and trust that he will receive not only every Democratic vote in the county of Napa, but the votes of all who desire the improvement and elevation of the supreme court of the state."

THE TRAINMEN'S BALL.

A GALA OCCASION LAST NIGHT AT HAZARD'S PAVILION.

Paradise Lodge Entertains the Delegates to the B. of R. T. Convention—The Features of the Occasion.

The ball given last night by the local Paradise lodge No. 74 of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in honor of their visiting brothers, was one of the finest affairs that was ever witnessed in this city. Hazard's pavilion was taxed to its utmost capacity. It was elaborately decorated, one locomotive headlight being at either side of the stage, and one on each side of the entrance to the hall. The wall and ceilings were draped in red, white and blue bunting, and on the walls over the stage was spread a large American flag, and on each gas jet, all around the banisters of the balcony, lighted railroad lanterns with globes of different hues were suspended.

The supper furnished by the W. R. C. was heartily enjoyed by the many participants, especially the ice cream department, which was a great success, owing to the good and tasteful management of Mrs. M. Rosa Spencer and Mrs. Gridley, who did their best to make the visiting boys feel at home.

Mrs. M. Rosa Spencer presented Mrs. Wilkinson, wife of S. E. Wilkinson, the grand master of the brotherhood, with an elegant lambrequin, in the name of the ladies of the W. R. C.

MARKHAM FORGOTTEN.

HON. W. W. MORROW DISCUSSES NATIONAL POLITICAL ISSUES.

The Republican Congressman Talks of Tin Plates and the McKinley Bill Last Night at a Republican Meeting.

The Turn Verein hall was fairly well filled last evening, the occasion being a political address by Hon. W. W. Morrow. Governor Lionel Sheldon was the president of the evening. Col. Allen read the following list of vice presidents, very few of whom were present, however: J. A. Donnell, Ben. Stern, L. H. Whitson, T. J. Carron, W. S. Marchant, E. F. De Celis, J. B. Sanchez, Herman Silver, J. J. Gosper, H. G. Rollins, R. W. Ellis, W. Hansen, N. B. Walker, C. W. McKevey, E. F. C. Klokke, W. Lindley, G. Alexander.

Governor Sheldon made an introductory speech and presented the speaker of the evening, Hon. W. W. Morrow.

Mr. Morrow made an apology for an impaired voice, affected by his work in the campaign. He was, of course, glad to be in Los Angeles, and indulged in a quantity of very nice taffy. He was present, not as a candidate for office, but as a bearer of good news for the Republicans, as he had been elected three times from a Democratic district, he had always been careful of what he said about Democrats; he thought the Democratic party was behind in this race, but it was necessary to have two parties, and the Democratic party was a good one to have in opposition. The speaker then reviewed the record of the two great parties, and endeavored to make an argument for the high tariff of the Republican party as shown in the McKinley bill. He then posed as an apologist for Speaker Reed; he made the astonishing assertion that though the Democrats were in the minority they had threatened that they would prevent any Republican legislation.

"Therefore it was plain that with the rules in force in the Forty-ninth congress, it would be impossible to carry out our plans, and seeing this, we very wisely, I think, selected Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, as speaker of the house." He cited the action in congress on the contested election case of Smith vs. Jackson, as the point on which commenced "the great reformation of the house of representatives." He read from the Congressional Record a full account of the arising of the question of Speaker Reed's rulings, and how that gentleman overruled the action of the Democrats, minority, though that action was the result, as the speaker admitted, of one Democratic member's withdrawing his vote, "as was his privilege." Mr. Reed's action, it was argued, was right because it was based "on his stalwart idea of the constitution of the United States." The speaker showed how Mr. Reed had abolished the privilege of a motion to adjourn being always in order, but he spoke of the power to call the yeas and nays as constitutional, and "so we cannot get away with that."

The admittance of the new states in the northwest and the "meat inspection bill" were cited as the "splendid" work of the last congress on the Republican side, and as work which had never been equalled by any other congress in the history of the nation. The silver question was given considerable attention; the raise in price of that metal being credited entirely to the Republican party, and a fact no blessing that exists being credited to any other source than the presidency of Mr. Harrison and the rulings of Speaker Reed.

The McKinley bill was then taken up and discussed at some length. A record of all tariff measures was given and the causes that led to the creation of a protective tariff given. The McKinley bill, it was argued, was a blessing to the consumer in all ways, and a safeguard to the country, though there was a reason given for the sudden increase of prices of every household article since the passage of this bill.

The attempt was made to show that dudes with $10,000 a year income and no work to do were the only ones who had to pay the increased prices resulting from the McKinley bill. The fact that workmen's tin dinner cans will cost a cent more to make, and a tin can three cents a dozen more because of the McKinley bill, was admitted, but this was airily passed off as a blessing because the "manufacturers and jobbers had assured" the speaker wherever he had spoken, that they would kindly bear the loss of that extra cent, and that no increase of price would result. This jobbery philanthropy he asked voters to share with him. The remark of the tax on sweet wines was claimed for the Republican party, the speaker apparently forgetting that this action was due to the efforts of a Southern California winemaker, who is the chairman of the Democratic county central committee.

Foreign commerce, reciprocity and other matters were spoken of. Mr. Bowers was endorsed, and it was hoped by the speaker that he would secure a subsidy for a line of mail steamers from "our harbor here, San Diego, to foreign countries." National matters were handled but very little, so little, in fact, that the reporter heard next to nothing of it. Nothing was said about Colonel Markham as a letter-writer, as a business man, as a faithful friend and honest partner, nor regarding his denial of a letter which was held to support Mr. Bowers, and at the very close he said: "I do not suppose it is necessary to ask you to vote for Col. Markham," and very briefly remarked that he could endorse the colonel. He had nothing to say against Mr. Pond. He then pleaded for the Republican county ticket, and came near forgetting to ask support for Judge Carpenter, but was reminded by a vice-president of his oversight. The best advice he gave was to say in closing, "but above all things, whatever may happen, remain true to the American flag."

Senator Bowers of San Diego then was called for and made a brief address. At the close of the meeting the Union League club gave Mr. Morrow a warm reception and enjoyable banquet at the club rooms.

Cleveland's Minstrels. Cleveland's minstrel show will open at the Grand Thursday night. The Buffalo News says of the attraction: "Cleveland's Colored Minstrels drew another very large house last evening. The bill is an excellent one, containing many excellent specialties of a varied character, and free from the old stereotyped afterpiece and chestnutty jokes of the old inferior companies."

Get a Souvenir of Los Angeles Before You Go.

The fine body of railroad trainmen, whose convention has been in session in this city for a week past, has attracted a great deal of attention. They will soon be returning to their eastern homes, and should not go without a copy of the Illustrated Herald as a souvenir of their visit to the city of the angels. The book contains articles on this section, and is profusely illustrated with cuts of buildings, orange groves, mountain scenes, street scenes, etc. One of the subjects, most elaborately treated, is the railroads of this section. It costs only fifteen cents. To be had at the HERALD office on Second street, west of Spring, or at the newsdealers. It is forty-eight quarto pages, with sixty illustrations.

THE GREAT EVENT OF THE YEAR 1890

FOR SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY WAS THE DAY OF THE

GRAND DISTRIBUTION

Or Selection of Lands Sold by the

Bear Valley & Alessandro Development Co

On Wednesday, October 15th.

The day itself was perfect. The new road (built by the company from the heart of Redlands to Alessandro) was in splendid condition, and crowded with teams of every description from early morning.

HEADED BY THE REDLANDS BRASS BAND,

Arriving on the ground at 10 a.m., when they were met by delegations from Riverside, Colton, San Bernardino and adjoining towns. There were from 500 to 600 ladies and gentlemen present when the selection commenced. The land had been previously staked and laid out in boulevards, avenues and streets.

Of entire 21,000 acres was shown under canvas. As the option number was called, the holder came forward and made his choice. Everything worked harmoniously; nearly every one secured just the corner lot he coveted. Scarcely a word of dissatisfaction was heard from anyone. Everybody was delighted and happy, and everyone expressed themselves as more than pleased with the

BEAUTIFUL VALLEY

That will soon be the future homes of many of them. At high noon there was a short intermission for refreshments, that had been abundantly provided by the company, while the band played (Frank E. Brown) or "Hail to the Chief."

By 3 o'clock the entire 7000 acres sold had been selected.

'Twas a Great Success!

A Grand Day for the Company!

A Grand Day for the People!

The City of Alessandro

Is a Fixed Fact!
