

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

A ROYAL DISPLAY OF THE JAPANESE ROSE. A Week of Rare Beauty in This City Which has Pleas'd the Multitudes of People.

The Chrysanthemum fair now in progress at Armory hall is one of the leading attractions of the city. Only the popular love of the beautiful could have drawn such an attendance in the midst of the recent political excitement.

No one can estimate the ennobling and uplifting effort of such a scene. In the midst of this home of love and beauty, no one would think of evil to his fellow-man.

One large pyramid of pure white selected plants towers up above the crowd like a mass of snow, typical of our snow clad mountain peaks.

From the gallery the view, as a whole, of the landscape is simply lovely. The Japanese gardeners, who raised the ladies' exhibit of some 3700 potted plants, have restored to them the original Japanese names with the English translation.

The Raymond display is one of rare beauty, carefully potted and trained in showy style. Mr. Th. Rouinnet makes a lovely display of rare plants.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The Alumni to Hold Dedicator Exercises. For some time past the alumni of the high school have been making preparations for the dedication of the new high school building with appropriate ceremonies.

The trouble about the Irish rent question is that the Irish people generally consider a rent contract as having no moral obligation. The truth has been handed down from generation to generation that their ancestors were wrongfully dispossessed of their lands, and that the title of the large landlords, while legally perfect enough, is in its last analysis based upon robbery.

With our forefathers it was not the price of the tea, but the principle of the tea tax, that led to the revolution, and in like manner, as the Irishman looks at it, the rent is not so much a financial as a political question, though when the crops fail payment of the rent is an impossibility.

Discord in the Choir. Drilling a volunteer choir is the most exasperating work ever undertaken by a human being. In the first place it is morally certain that at least half a dozen members think they know more than the leader, and two or three are always better informed than the man who wrote the music, so they offer, with cheerful alacrity, the most idiotic suggestions as to the manner in which it should be performed, and feel much aggrieved if their ideas are not acted on.

They are not responsible for all the trouble, but when they do quarrel they generally manage to enlist the men in the service of both sides, and the first thing the leader knows one half his choir has quit and the other half is about to do so because they are not numerous enough to make a creditable chorus.

Congress Gaiters and Drowning. Speaking of congress gaiters and drowning recalls a fashionable middle aged physician who thoroughly believes in this fatality. He gave it away in this wise: While consulting a man in delicate health about his care for himself in the winter time the doctor said: "What kind of shoes have you got on?" They proved to be the fatal congress gaiters, and the doctor objected. "Did you ever see an account of a drowned man found in the bay that didn't say he had on congress gaiters? You laugh and say that doesn't make any difference, and there is no connection of cause and effect. "How do you know there isn't? You can't trace it, but I'm not certain that congress gaiters do not tend to such moral and physical degeneracy that a man is liable to fall off a ferry boat, or in a fit of despondency to jump into the river. At any rate I don't wear them. I told a woman the same thing once and she laughed. I went on, and when I reached home found a letter from her, saying she had picked up a paper after I went away, and the first thing found several confirmations of what I said, and she wanted to admit that she was convinced."—New York Tribune.

In the Clouds. Professor Moller, of Carlsruhe, has made some interesting observations on clouds. The highest clouds, cirrus and cirro-stratus, rise on an average to a height of nearly 30,000 feet. The middle clouds keep at from 10,000 feet to 23,000 feet in height, while the lower clouds reach to between 3,000 feet and 7,000 feet. The cumulus clouds float with their lower surface at a height of from 4,000 to 5,000 feet, while their summits rise to 16,000 feet. The tops of the Alps are often hidden by clouds of the third class, but the bottoms of the clouds of the second class, and especially of the thunder clouds, often unfold them.

The vertical dimension of a cloud observed by Professor Moller on the Nettleberg was over 1,300 feet. He stepped out of it at a height of about 3,700 feet, and high above the mountain floated clouds of the middle class, while veils of mist lay in the ravines and clefts. The upper clouds were growing thicker, while the lower ones were dissolving, and soon it began to rain and snow.—Public Opinion.

A Smart Detective. Sergeant Moser on one occasion saw a waiter in a cafe at Solo receive and place in his pocket a letter which the detective believed to be from a criminal a knowledge of whose whereabouts he was anxious to obtain. He therefore dropped his ring on the floor and asked the man to look for it. Alphonse, expecting a reward, immediately went on his hands and knees, and while thus engaged Sergeant Moser abstracted the letter from his pocket and thus obtained the means of bringing a forger to justice. Who can doubt that this was a perfectly justifiable act? But if, instead, Sergeant Moser had subpoenaed another person to steal for reward, and without telling him the object in view, he would most assuredly have acted very wrongly.—Spectator.

No New Coins for the Present. Superintendent Boshysell, of the mint, received from Washington a communication from E. O. Leech, director of the mint, conveying the disappointing intelligence that the department at Washington would not take any action until next summer in regard to providing new designs for coins, under the bill recently passed by congress. Director Leech explains that he is so busily engaged in the preparation of the report of his department and the secretary of the treasury's time will be so much occupied for some months that the matter of changing the models and designs of coins cannot be taken up until late in the spring.

Since the bill became a law Superintendent Boshysell has been in receipt daily of letters from persons anxious to enter into the competition, showing a widespread interest in the subject. As it was hoped to change the five cent nickel piece and get rid of the buzzard dollar as quickly as practicable, the delay will be received with universal regret.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Irish Rack Rents. The trouble about the Irish rent question is that the Irish people generally consider a rent contract as having no moral obligation. The truth has been handed down from generation to generation that their ancestors were wrongfully dispossessed of their lands, and that the title of the large landlords, while legally perfect enough, is in its last analysis based upon robbery. The rent is therefore considered not so much a pecuniary burden as a patriotic grievance.

With our forefathers it was not the price of the tea, but the principle of the tea tax, that led to the revolution, and in like manner, as the Irishman looks at it, the rent is not so much a financial as a political question, though when the crops fail payment of the rent is an impossibility. To the extent of considering it a political question the English government agrees with him, and hence the recent arrests. If pounds and pence only were involved it would have left the landlord to take care of himself.—New York World.

Didn't Want a Pension. John Parkhill, of Portland, who has made himself famous as being the only man in the United States who did not want a pension, passed through Astoria on his way to San Francisco to the volunteer firemen's reunion. Mr. Parkhill, who is over 90 years of age, served through the Seminole war in Florida in 1838, and also in the Mexican war.

TELLING THE STORY.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE'S FIRST BULLETIN. Letting the People East Know What the Profits of Southern California Fruit Culture Are.

Secretary Hanchette, of the chamber commerce, has published a bulletin showing the profits of fruit culture in Southern California. It gives the name of the grower, his residence, the acreage which is the subject of remark, and what he made out of a year's crop. Peaches, prunes, oranges, grapes, berries, apricots and other fruits appear in the list. Potatoes and other vegetables appear as an addendum. A tabulated statement of the climate follows, schools and other items of interest closing the good work. Mr. Hanchette printed 10,000 of them, and sent most of them to Manager B. C. Truman at Chicago. He has some on hand, which he will distribute in small quantities to residents of this state who would like to send some east to friends. It is well compiled, and will do good missionary work at the east.

Coachman Williams' Luck. Coachman John Williams, who guards the horseflesh of E. C. Howe, of Bristol, is in luck. He has just returned from a trip to California, where his uncle died recently, leaving a large estate. The interest on $7,500,000 was bequeathed to John and his brother William, who lives at Blackburn, N. Y. The wealthy decedent, Theodore Luderick, immigrated to America from Metz, Germany, in 1849, during the gold excitement in California, and he went to that state with only enough money to pay his fare. He got into the mining business and prospered. In 1876 he was worth $10,000,000, but during the panic in 1877 he lost heavily. Before his death he left several millions to charitable institutions in his country.—Philadelphia Record.

Courted Nine Girls at Once. At Lowell William Anderson, who was arrested on suspicion of larceny, is quite a character. In his possession was found a memorandum book, recording the fact that he was courting nine girls. For convenience sake he had them numbered from one to nine inclusive, and when he had occasion to refer to them in the memorandum it was by number. One entry is the fact that No. 6 became aware that he was escorting No. 6 to places of amusement. His description of No. 7 would make her tear her hair if she read it. While traveling Anderson recorded that he had letters from eight of the girls in one day. Anderson claims a residence in Portland, Me., and was at one time a polo player.—Cor. Boston Globe.

A Bright Prospect. Customer—Be sure and make those clothes large. I expect to put on ten or fifteen pounds shortly. Tailor—Yes, sir. Taking a course of treatment? Customer—No. I've just got back from my vacation.—Clothing and Furnisher.

A Good Start. The snow shovel factories of New England will start the season with 650,000 snow shovels left over from last year, and the middle states and the west stand ready to furnish a tramp for every shovel. Let old Boreas get up and howl.—Detroit Free Press.

Sarcasitic College Boys. The sophomores, much to the chagrin of the freshmen, have succeeded in painting upon the town water tower "94" in bright green colors. The tower is 120 feet high and the space painted measured 20 feet by 8.—Princeton Letter.

The Roumanian government has offered prizes to the architects of all nations for the best plans for its new assembly and senate chambers. The first prize for each building is $3,000; the second, $1,500; third, $800.

Thought He Was a Violinist. Mr. Lake Streete (on his first visit to London)—Say, cabby, what's that statue? Cabman—That's the H'Albert memorial, sir. Mr. Lake Streete—Oh, yes; heard him play the fiddle at home. The British music takes more stock in him than we did.—Texas Sittings.

Reportorial Memories. Mother—I am glad to hear you went to church today. What was the sermon about? Adult Son (a reporter)—I don't know, mother; I haven't written out my notes yet.—Good News.

SCOTT'S EMULSION Of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. There are emulsions and emulsions, and there is still much skimmed milk which masquerades as cream. Try it as they will many manufacturers cannot so disguise their cod liver oil as to make it palatable to sensitive stomachs. Scott's Emulsion of PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL, combined with Hypophosphites is almost as palatable as milk. For this reason as well as for the fact of the stimulating qualities of the Hypophosphites, Physicians frequently prescribe it in cases of CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, BRONCHITIS and CHRONIC COUGH or SEVERE COLD. All Druggists sell it, but be sure you get the genuine, as there are poor imitations.
