

GOOD SPORT.

THE AMATEUR BOXING CONTEST AT THE ATHLETIC CLUB.

Feather, Light, Middle and Heavy Weights Meet in Friendly Rivalry—The Winston-Brink Meeting a Corker.

Several weeks since the directors of the Los Angeles Athletic club decided, in order to promote good healthy sport, to have a boxing tournament. Gold and silver medals were offered in the various classes, and the greatest interest was evinced in the contest.

Competitors were very numerous when the tournament was first announced, but the number who were suddenly afflicted with the gripe and other complaints during the past few days was astonishingly large. Physicians might term it la gripe, but "funk" is undoubtedly the right definition of the disease. Nevertheless, the tournament, Thursday night, was the best ever held in the city, and the young gentlemen who toed the mark acquitted themselves in gallant style.

The affair was managed with considerable judgment, and Sam Dewey is entitled to more than a fair share of praise for the success of the entertainment. Charles Ellery, William Gooding and Tom Strohm were selected as judges. Their decisions were satisfactory all round and were undoubtedly correct, which is not often the case in boxing encounters of four rounds. Sam Dewey was referee and Mr. Thayer time-keeper. Hostilities were opened with the bantams. Albert Brooks and Frank Strayhorn were the young gentlemen to enter in this class. The latter had the best of it in reach, but his opponent more than equaled this advantage by his activity. The youngsters displayed considerable caution in the first two rounds, Strayhorn escaping punishment by his ducking tactics. Brooks forced matters in the last two rounds, and got decidedly the best of it. Strayhorn fought back gamely, but he wasted his patent swings on the desert air. The judges decided Brooks the winner by ten points.

There were three entries in the light-weight class, which was limited to 135 pounds. They were W. O. Guthrie, Tom Osgood and Ernest Chapman. The latter was fortunate enough to draw a bye, and Guthrie and Osgood were called out. Osgood had the advantage in height and reach, but Guthrie showed good development. Osgood did not lose any time, and led for his opponent's face. A rapid exchange of blows followed. Guthrie rushing matters at a 2:10 gait. Osgood was not to be denied, however, and the round ended with honors easy. The second round was distinguished by hot work, and both men were cheered at the end of the round. The third round was not up to the former ones. Osgood started in well by getting home with a couple of round armers, but Guthrie equalized things before the expiration of time. During the first round virtually decided the contest. Guthrie got a little the best of it, and was awarded the contest. After the middle weight and heavy weight men had displayed their expertness, Ernest Chapman and Tom Osgood met. The winner of the bout had to meet Guthrie to battle for the club championship. Chapman proved himself to be as lively as a cricket, and displayed more than ordinary agility. During the first two rounds there were some hot rallies, at which both men got several backsets. In the third round one of Chapman's swings caught Osgood on the neck and dazed him. Chapman followed up his advantage, but Osgood unfortunately slipped and fell rather heavily, the fall placing him hors du combat, although he pluckily continued the fourth round. Chapman was adjudged the winner, and the contest ended with Guthrie and Chapman would meet next Monday night to decide who shall be entitled to the gold badge.

Frank Garbutt and Joe Joia were the contestants for the middle-weight honors. Both displayed more than the ordinary amount of caution, and, in consequence, there were few lively encounters. At the outset Joia demonstrated that he was a hitter from hitherville. He occasionally reached the goal with one of his Santa Monica swings. The judges awarded the gold medal to him by 16 points.

The event of the evening was the heavy-weight encounter between John Brink and Jim Winston. Each contestant had a host of supporters. John Brink is the popular caterer; a few short weeks since, he tipped the beam at 240 pounds, but he surprised his friends by coming into the magic circle with only a fair amount of surplus flesh. Jim Winston showed up as leanboned and handsome as ever. Jim reached and found Brink's countenance in a playful style, but he got a swing on the bread basket in exchange. The round provoked considerable merriment, Brink's bluffs making Winston step around in a lively manner. Honors were even at the end of the round. In the second, Brink tried a La Blanche swing, but Mr. Dewey ducked very opportunely. Winston soon after led, but falling short, Brink got his head in jeopardy. Some lively work characterized the end of the round, and the boxers retired to their corners for the minute's rest amid the plaudits of the spectators.

The third round was a corker. Winston failed to get out of the way of one of Brink's swings, which clearly dazed him. Brink followed up his advantage and rushed Winston against the spectators. Jim showed himself distressed, but veered around with a little rest. Hot and rapid fighting followed, science being cast aside. It was give and take of the hammer and tongs variety. Both contestants were tired when time was called.

The greatest excitement prevailed when the fourth round began. Winston did some effective jabbing, and managed to escape the wild swings of his opponent. Clinch after clinch followed. Both men appeared to be tired, but Winston reached his opponent several times without return. Just before time was called Brink almost got home with a La Blanche swing. The judges gave the bout to Winston by 22 points. Brink made a capital showing, but Winston's quickness won him the victory. The spectators voted it the best heavy weight contest ever held in this city, and both participants were cheered upon returning to the dressing room. This concluded a highly successful exhibition. DAGWORTH.

WANTS HIS MONEY.

Ex-City Justice Lockwood Cannot Get His Warrant.

On Thursday afternoon a notice was served upon Mayor Hazard to the effect that the attorneys of one W. E. DeGroot would, on the first day of December, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, in department six of the superior court, move for a writ of mandate against him, commanding him to sign and issue a certain demand against the city for W. C. Lockwood, for his salary for the month of September, 1890, as city justice.

The affidavit on the motion for a writ of mandate, which is attached to the notice, sets forth that on Tuesday, November 6, 1888, at a general election, W. C. Lockwood was duly elected to the office of justice of the peace of Los Angeles city. That he took the constitutional oath of office and filed a bond in the sum of $5000, conditional upon the faithful performance of the duties of said office, and ever since the first Monday in January, 1889, he has been and is now a duly elected, qualified and acting justice of the peace.

After touching upon the official position of the defendant, and his duties as regards the auditing of demands, the affidavit shows that Lockwood served as city justice during the month of September, 1890, and was entitled therefor to the sum of $166.66, for which he made a formal demand. That on October 1, 1890, the council passed said demand and the finance committee audited and indorsed it, and the city clerk finally passed it to the mayor. That on October 5th, a formal demand was made of the mayor that he audit and honor it, but he refused and still refuses to do so. That on November 1st, Lockwood assigned said demand to affiant, who now seeks to compel the mayor to sign it.

Mayor Hazard, when asked by a HERALD reporter, whether or not he intended to take any action in the matter, replied: "Certainly not. This man Lockwood's accounts were not straight at the time the demand was presented to me, and pending an examination of his books by an expert, withheld it. Now he is under indictment by the grand jury, and I shall still withhold my signature to the demand until the court decides upon the question as to whether or not I am compelled to do so."

FROM ANAHEIM.

What is Doing At The Old Colony These Autumn Days.

EDITORS HERALD: The Hotel Del Campo, which has lately been furnished at quite an expense, is now open for guests. Mr. Johnston, of Silver City, New Mexico, the proprietor, says he will have the house full within a month, and by the present indications it will be. Quite a number of the best rooms are already engaged. Colonel Everhart, of the Commercial, formerly the Anaheim, is also full. I do not mean the colonel, I mean his house. Eastern people are beginning to come. Our city fathers are making preparations to gravel our main streets; the Santa Fe company has very kindly offered gravel at a nominal figure.

Messrs. Melrose and Kroeger have moved their old wooden building around, so as to give room for a new brick block, which will add greatly to the looks of the town.

Contractor Grant is building a $2000 residence for Dr. Hunt near the school-house.

The Lost Mine, at the opera house the other night, was a grand success, both as to the acting and financially. The proceeds are to be the nucleus for a fund with which to start and maintain a free reading room.

Our baseball team defeated the Santa Ana's badly last Sunday; another match is spoken of.

H. C. Gade, the old-time truck and transfer man, has sold out to Wommer & Stock. Wommer was the proprietor of the express line, and mail and express carrier. The firm is now transfer and express.

At least thirty teams are constantly hauling sheep manure through town to the Southern California depot, where they dump it for the present, as Agent Desmond has orders to load no more flat cars. The company has none to spare now, on account of a large amount of coal just arrived at San Diego. The manure is destined for Riverside.

The former is more likely to be selected, owing to its central location and convenience of access. Several new members were admitted at the business meeting Thursday night.

The Pasadena Land and Water company has sent out a circular to the stockholders calling for a meeting on January 22d, to revise and amend its by-laws and authorize the issue of $50,000 in bonds to pay its present indebtedness, replace old pipes, repair the Orange Grove reservoir and open up new water supplies.

Hon. James A. Beaver, governor of Pennsylvania, and wife, are expected to make an extended visit in Pasadena soon after the close of the governor's term, which expires January 17, 1891. They will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Thos. R. Hayes, of North Los Robles avenue. Dr. Hayes is a brother-in-law of Governor Beaver.

The Tennis ball, which was given last night in the Webster under the direction of the Pasadena Lawn Tennis club, was a brilliant success. The patronesses were Mrs. C. D. Daggett, Mrs. W. U. Masters, Mrs. C. F. Holder, Mrs. L. Blankenhorn, and Mrs. George Patten. The music was furnished by Arend's orchestra. The hall was beautifully and appropriately decorated with tennis nets, rackets and flowers, and presented a charming appearance. The refreshment committee, consisting of Mrs. E. H. May and Misses Bradley and English, provided an elaborate supper. The floor managers were B. M. Wolkyns, C. A. Scharif, H. H. Suesserott, C. B. Scoville and P. A. Van Doren.

THIS IS SOUND.

The People Will All Endorse the Views Set Forth.

EDITORS HERALD: For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain the heathen Chinee is not wholly peculiar. On the eve of our city election there is some silly gossip being indulged in that is unworthy of any possible Democratic candidate. William Lacy, Jr., is mentioned by some of his friends as a fit person to represent the First ward in the council. That he would accept the nomination if tendered is wholly unknown to the writer, but the objections set forth by some aspirants are not deserving serious consideration.

The first objection is that his father is an aristocrat, and that William, Jr., is too young. If his father is an aristocrat it is very desirable to have many such aristocrats in this community. A sample of his aristocracy is well known to the writer, who had occasion to borrow a few hundred dollars from the First National bank while he was an officer of that institution. On being asked the security he required, the answer came, "Make a note, get one of your friends to sign it, and if you cannot conveniently spare a day to call at the bank I will take the money to my house, and you call in the evening and get it." So much for the father's aristocracy.

Now for his business ability. When he made money by shrewd speculation he did not spend it in aristocratic airs, but ventured to develop an industry that redounds to the welfare of the country at large and to his sound judgment. All who know the younger William know that he is a chip of the old block.

Where will we find two men so young as the Lacy brothers conducting successfully a business of the magnitude of theirs with such consummate skill? Echo answers, not in Los Angeles, at least. If William, Jr., will consent to run, he will receive the votes not only of the Democrats of his ward, but of the honest Republicans, as well.

The Ladies of Immanuel Will Hold a Novel Fair.

It is known that the ladies of Immanuel Presbyterian church have been for several months busily engaged in turning out with their own hands linen work to be offered to the public for sale. They have made up a great variety of articles in linen, consisting of table toiles and fancy pieces, and these will be exposed for sale by them at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, on Broadway, on the 25th and 26th of the present month (next Tuesday and Wednesday.) Many of the articles are worked up into beautiful designs, and all are of the finest and best fabrics. HIS COUNTING DEFICIENT.

Wherefore He is Charged With Having Perjured Himself.

Charles H. Hayns of Ravenna was yesterday arrested by the United States marshal and released upon filing a bond for $500, pending his examination on December 3rd, at 10 o'clock, before United States Commissioner Van Dyke. Hayns is charged, on complaint of James O'Reilly, with perjury. The affidavit alleges that defendant, on the 13th of May last, testified falsely, while under oath, before United States Land Register William H. Seaman, in the contest between Anton Mallichowitz and Henry R. Torres, involving a timber culture entry for the 8 1/2 of the SE 1/4 of Section 10, Township 4 North Range, 13 W., that there were a little over 200 trees on said land, when he was well aware that as a matter of fact there was not any such quantity of trees there.

AT $75 PER ACRE!

Payable $10 per acre cash, balance in 2, 3 and 4 years, at 8 per cent interest.

Our lands lie four miles west of San Bernardino and Colton, on the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads, seven miles north of Riverside, and we are prepared to establish the fact that in quality and location they are not excelled in this country. Our elevation is 1300 feet above sea level, being about 400 feet higher than Riverside, and almost entirely free from frost.

The home office of the company is at Rialto, one of our four railroad stations; and the officers are: EX-GOVERNOR SAM'L MERRILL, President; MAJOR GEO. H. BONEBRAKE, Vice-President; F. C. HOWES, Treasurer; J. L. MERRILL, Secretary.
