

A NOBLE ACT.

Mrs. J. E. Hollenbeck Found a Great Institution.

She Will Be the Means of Caring for Countless Unfortunates.

Half a Million Dollars' Worth of Property Given to Charity.

The Hollenbeck Hotel and Homestead Deeded to Trustees to Found a Home for Women and Children.

It is a very difficult thing for people to be charitable after their death, by means of devises. In the first place the state law prohibits a person from leaving more than one-third of their estate to a charity; and again, such bequests are very open to attack by disputing heirs.

Yesterday afternoon an instrument was filed in the county recorder's office, which is the initial step in the execution of as noble a charity as was ever undertaken, and which steps taken to prevent any interference in the future with the wishes of the noble hearted woman by legal technicalities.

It consists of a trust deed from Mrs. J. E. Hollenbeck, conveying the Hollenbeck hotel and the Hollenbeck homestead in Boyle Heights to trustees for charitable purposes. The trustees are Judge J. D. Bicknell, F. A. Gibson, J. M. Elliott, John S. Chapman and Charles Batcheller.

The property conveyed at a low estimate is valued at a half a million dollars, the income from the hotel being between $25,000 and $30,000 a year.

Mrs. Hollenbeck's object is to establish a home for indigent women and homeless children. She will at once take the necessary steps to begin the work, and if her life is spared will see it an accomplished fact. The trust deed is simply an assurance that if Mrs. Hollenbeck is prevented from accomplishing the work the trustees will carry it on.

The institution will eventually be in full charge of the trustees; the only prescription that Mrs. Hollenbeck insists on is that in all its conduct no sectarianism shall be allowed to show itself.

The intention is, in connection with the children's department of the institution, to organize a thorough system of industrial education for their benefit, so that they may be fitted for some trade or occupation when they are ready to enter life's contests.

Mrs. Hollenbeck is a native of Germany, who left her fatherland when a mere child, and was taken to Central America. She there met and married Mr. J. E. Hollenbeck, who was closely connected with the government of Nicaragua, and who had control of the transportation facilities on the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua, a favorite route in 1849 and '50 for immigrants on their way to California.

He made considerable money and came to Los Angeles, where he entered into active business life, and became president of the First National bank. He died some six years ago.

Mrs. Hollenbeck has no children, and but one relative, a sister in New Orleans. She has a large estate besides the property mentioned in the trust deed, which will eventually be disposed of by will.

IT TICKLES HAZARD.

What He Considers the Recent Election to Mean.

Mayor Hazard was very jubilant over his re-election yesterday, and his friends poured into his office in an almost continuous stream all day to offer their congratulations. In an interview with a HERALD reporter yesterday afternoon he said:

"I consider the result of the election to be an endorsement by the people of the manner in which I have conducted the affairs of the city during the past two years. It has always been my aim to be a faithful officer to the people and my constant effort has been to treat all persons and questions without the least particle of self-interest. I have acted on my judgment, which has always been based on how things appear to me. If my conduct has in any instances been at fault it is because my judgment was in error. I intend to do my duty in the coming administration as I have done in the past. I am extremely gratified at this proof of their appreciation of my efforts. I was very much surprised at the stand taken by the church people against me before the election, because I knew that I was in the right; but I am pleased to find that when it came right down to the question of exercising their rights of suffrage, the voters of this city did not allow themselves to be influenced by any of the crazes advanced at the last moment, with but one motive, that of defeating me."

AT LAST ARRIGNED.

Special Agent Ray Takes His Prisoner From His Hotel to Court.

Charles Martin, the defaulting cashier of the Southern California Railroad company, was yesterday arraigned before Justice Savage, and held to answer in the sum of $6000.

would be able to untangle his accounts or repay his deficit. This proving to be resultless, yesterday Mr. Ray decided to turn the defaulter over to the authorities, his semi-imprisonment in a first-class hotel, with extract a single dollar from Mr. Martin's pockets. The local officers of the law have known that Mr. Martin was in the city under restricted liberty and charged with a crime, yet they have connived at this attempt to use this sort of official threat to get Mr. Martin to pungle up. Mr. Martin gave his bail, and was released pending his examination.

A RARE TREAT.

An Art Exhibition by the Singer Sewing Machine Company.

The ladies of Los Angeles should not let the opportunity go by of viewing free the art exhibition of the latest novelties in art needlework and home decoration which the Singer Sewing Machine company are giving at their rooms at 216 South Spring street. Mrs. L. Sommers, the traveling expert operator of the Singer Sewing Machine company, is making a tour of the United States with the exhibit with which the company took so many prizes at the Paris exhibition, and has been more than favorably commented on all over this country wherever exhibited, and pronounced by connoisseurs to be the finest collection of art needlework in existence.

Among the collection are a pair of portiers worked in Kensington stitch, which are well worth viewing. An etching, a bull's head, which is very much admired, took first prize gold medal at the Paris exhibition. Also notable among the exhibit are etchings of dogs, fishes and fowls, which are perfect marvels of needlework.

In the front window is displayed a life-sized doll with a hemstitched dress. This was done with No. 400 thread, showing that the finest of fine work, as well as coarse, can be done on the machines, without any attachments whatever.

Space will not allow us to give a full description of rope silk, Arasine work, all kinds of etchings, too numerous to mention, which can only be appreciated by seeing, and should be seen by all lovers of home decoration.

Mrs. L. Sommers will take pleasure in explaining and instructing in the art of this needlework. Come one, come all.

Calling the House Roll.

It is the custom for the clerk calling the roll to prefix the word "Mister" to each name, but before he has gone far he begins to retrench his expense of vocal powers. This leads to some strange combinations of sound. In the beginning he calls "Mr. Abbott," "Mr. Adams," "Mr. Alderson," and a few more distinctly enough, but by the time he reaches the C's he begins to telescope the title, and calls "M'ster Cannon," "M'ster Carter," and so on. When he has gone a little further he drops off some more, and it becomes "M'ster Fitch," "M'ster Flower," "M'ster Gear," etc. This holds out until pretty well into the H's, but at last the two words become one, and "Mr. Hopkins" and "Mr. Honk" sound like "Stropkins" and "Strouk." Down in the M's it undergoes another change. The sound of the "r" is lost, and "Mr. Mason," "Mr. McAdoo" and "Mr. Morrow" become "Stumason," "Stumacadoo" and "Stumorrow." This goes on through the O's and the P's, "Mr. Oates" being "Stoates" and "Mr. Peel" coming out "Stupheel." In the R's it shifts a little, and "Mr. Ray" becomes "Stray," while "Mr. Rife" is "Strife."—Washington Post.

Home of Adam and Eve.

The Chicago Tribune has a letter from the quill of a traveler whose rare good luck it is to loaf a little in the Garden of Eden—otherwise on the Seychelles islands, in the Indian ocean, 1,400 miles east of Aden and 1,000 from Zanzibar. It was "Chinese" Gordon who tried to prove these islands to be identical with Eden. The islands number 114. They were built by coral insects and have the richest soil in the world. Palms grow 100 feet high. The white beaches are the most beautiful on the round earth. No one need work, for the trees are constantly in fruit, and the many tinted fishes that flash through the clear waters are as toothsome as they can be. Turtles abound. The people live to a great age. No hurricanes ever strike the islands. They constitute, indeed, an earthly paradise.

The Father of Many Ills.

Constipation leads to a multitude of physical troubles. It is generally the result of a slothfulness or indifference to the simplest rules of health. Eugene McKay, of Brantford, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been a sufferer from constipation, had taken a great many different remedies, some of which did me good for a time, but only for a time, then my trouble came back worse than ever. I was induced by a friend, whom I had never seen, to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I did so, taking two each night for a week, then one every night for about six weeks. Since that time I have not experienced the slightest difficulty whatever, and my bowels move regularly every day. I believe firmly that for sluggishness of the bowels and biliousness DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS are far superior to any other."

OPENS THIS AFTERNOON.

The Singer Manufacturing company cordially invites the attendance of every lover of art in the way of home decoration, needlework, etc., to visit the art exhibit at their sales rooms, 216 South Broadway, this week. Opens this afternoon.

FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OPENED AT OCALA, FLA.

President Polk's Annual Address—The Blue and Gray Meet on Common Ground—Sectionalism Abolished.

Associated Press Dispatches.

OCALA, Fla., Dec. 2.—The National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union met here at noon. President Polk delivered his annual address, which congratulated the alliance on its achievements since the last meeting. He reviewed the agricultural depression, and declared that this depression was an anomaly to the student of industrial progress. "Retrospection in American agriculture," he said, "means national decay, and powerful and promising as is this young giant republic, yet its power and glory depends on that of the American farmer."

The harm incident to the centralization of money power, and the upbuilding of monopolies, was then pointed out. Both political parties were condemned for encouraging this condition. President Polk urged that additional organizers be sent at once into Oregon, Washington, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Arizona and other states. Among other recommendations was one that an organization be formed, to be known as the National legislature, composed of the national president and the president of all the state alliances, to look closely after legislative reforms demanded by the alliance, both in state legislatures and in congress.

In his remarks upon the proposed national legislative council, President Polk said an organization of this kind would wield the power which would enforce the respect of any legislative body to which it might appeal.

Touching upon political action of the alliance, President Polk said: "While I am not a partisan, it cannot be partisan or sectional in its action. In support of this declaration we proudly point to our whole past record and to the recent political action."

In outlining the future financial policy of the alliance, Polk said it would demand the restoration of silver to all the rights and equalities of a legal tender which gold possesses; the issue of government currency direct to the people; the equalization of taxes; the prohibition of the alien ownership of land; the ownership and control of transportation lines by the government; the limit of the public revenues to the economic administration of the government; and the graduated taxation of incomes, and the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

President Foulkes, of the South Dakota alliance, made a short address, speaking forcibly upon breaking down sectional lines. An old union soldier from Indiana moved that all the ex-soldiers in the hall who endorsed those sentiments, rise. Forty or fifty stood amidst the wildest enthusiasm. Then an ex-soldier from Wisconsin called upon all the union men to give three cheers for the old confederates in the alliance. They were given with a will, after which the confederates returned the compliment in a manner that left no doubt as to the genuineness of their feeling.

Expressions of dissatisfaction are heard with reference to the conduct of Dr. Macoune, editor of the National Economist, in taking part in the recent sensational fight in Georgia. It is also charged that he had violated the policy of the alliance in the advocacy of the Conger land bill, and opposition to the Paddock pure-food bill, and in several other ways. This matter will come up for consideration in a day or two, and will likely cause considerable debate.

The alliance opened its first business session tonight, and from now on all sessions will be secret.

THE MYSTERY OF FRENO'S NUMEROUS CONFLAGRATIONS REVEALED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—A Chronicle's special from Fresno says: The developments following the arrest of J. E. Williams on the charge of arson last night, seem to account for the origin of a number of disastrous fires which have visited Fresno in the past eight months. Williams, who is a prominent church member, is in partnership with his father here, in the undertaking business. Last July an undertaking establishment in which it is claimed Williams had an interest, was burned. C. Schillman, who was arrested just after the fire, has confessed that Williams paid him and a man named Miller to fire the building in order that he might obtain the insurance money on it. Miller left town soon after the fire, his railroad passage to some unknown place having been paid by Williams. Other arrests are expected to follow.

A BAD RECORD.

A Seattle Bank Cashier Short in His Accounts.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 2.—Financial circles were somewhat agitated today by the statement that W. R. Thornell, cashier of the Boston National bank, of this city, was short in his accounts. A run was commenced on the bank, but was stopped in a short time by the announcement that the shortage had been made good.

Thornell was formerly manager of the Seattle, Lake Shore and Eastern railroad, came here in 1882 from Denver, where he was convicted of embezzlement, but was immediately pardoned. He is now sick with typhoid fever, and the amount of his shortage is not known. He is treasurer of the Northwestern Baseball league, and several other companies.

The New Railroad Association.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—According to the World, one of the prominent leaders in the contemplated western railroad association thus outlined its scope: It is proposed to form a new combine to succeed the present several associations existing west of Chicago and St. Louis. The new association is to embrace all the routes west of St. Louis and Chicago to the Pacific coast and continue not less than five years. The association is to have a general manager or commissioner, with such assistance as may be agreed upon or found necessary. The association will regulate through tariffs, manage competitive business and conduct outside agencies for the procuring of traffic, as well as routing it over the respective roads, in such amount, manner and proportion as may be agreed upon between the members. During the existence of the agreement, the members of the association must not construct any new railway lines that might compete in local territory with the business of another member of the association; at least without the consent of the parties to be affected. The location of arbiters will be named, to which all questions shall be finally referred for arbitration where the parties cannot agree between themselves.

Disqualified Legislators.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 2.—The house judiciary committee tonight voted to recommend that twelve Democrats and ten Republicans be stricken from the roll of the house, four on account of neglect of duties, seven because they were federal appointees, ten for change of residence and one because of judicial appointment. The question of the eligibility of ten Republicans, who acted as census enumerators, will be decided tomorrow. The opinion is that the committee will divide on party lines, and this will precipitate a long and acrimonious discussion.

A SONG OF THE SEA.

The mermaids and mermen below the sea. A wonderful organ made: With the tenderest care and loving art Its every part was laid. Wood they brought from the wrecks below, And gold where the ships went down; They used no nails, but fastened it well With threads from a baby's gown.

One pipe gave the sound of a song so sweet That was sung by a beautiful girl; A mermaid caught it, and kept it safe. Wrapped round with a golden curl. The next pipe's note was the sound of a kiss That a mother gave her son, As he stood on the deck of a noble ship That went down ere the day was done.

This pipe gave forth the sound of a prayer That was heard when the storm was high; And next was the laugh from some children's dear. Who saw no danger nigh. A strong man's voice was heard in the next, And it was firm and clear, He said, "God bless you, dear," to his wife, When he saw that death was near.

So the mermaids and mermen gathered all Of the voices hid in the deep; They placed them in the pipes and reeds, To be roused once more from sleep. But the beautiful organ displeased the one Who rules the winds and waves, For the sounds that were placed in the organ's pipes Belonged to the ocean's caves.

So he placed them back in the silent depths, In the caves of the south and north. For the voices lost in the sea must stay Until he calls them forth. But if you listen, you hear them all Come up from the sounding sea— The mayer, the song, the kiss, the laugh, That some time shall be free. —Boston True Flag.
