

CRIME AND POLICE.

THE ANNUAL REPORT OF CHIEF J. M. GLASS.

An Excellent Showing Made by the Force During the Past Year—Several Improvements Recommended—A Summary of the Arrests.

Chief of Police Glass filed his annual report of the work performed by his department during the past year with City Clerk Teed yesterday. It is a voluminous document, containing an immense amount of matter of more or less interest to the general public.

Among other items of interest embodied in the report is a summary of the arrests made by the police during the year from December 1, 1889, to November 30, 1890, inclusive, the total being 2575.

Of this number 2 were for adultery; attempt at arson, 1; assault, 16; assault with deadly weapons, 27; assault with intent to commit murder, 9; attempted bribery, 1; begging, 49; battery, 186; burglary, 24; attempted burglary, 2; contempt of court, 3; carrying concealed weapons, 30; cruelty to children, 1; cruelty to animals, 57; committing nuisance, 2; crime against nature, 1; drunks, 815; disturbers of the peace, 310; embezzlement, 7; exhibiting deadly weapons, 2; fast driving, 16; forgery, 9; discharging fire arms within city limits, 3; violating the fire ordinances, 8; gambling, 83; violating the garbage ordinances, 15; violating hack ordinances, 1; violating hitching ordinance, 100; indecent exposure, 2; using profane language, 1; grand larceny, 14; petit larceny, 147; attempted larceny, 2; violating license laws, 82; violating laundry ordinance, 8; lottery ticket selling, 99; miscellaneous misdemeanors, 167; malicious mischief, 17; maintaining a nuisance, 1; murder, 5; obtaining money under false pretenses, 13; smoking opium, 7; keeping opium joints, 2; rape, 1; resisting an officer, 1; robbery, 14; violating sign ordinance, 3; violating sidewalk ordinances, 23; seduction, 2; suspicious persons, 23; vagrants, 214.

Of the above arrests 63 defendants were held to answer to the charges preferred against them in the superior court; 1872 were convicted in the police court; 600 were dismissed by the justices, and 40 cases are still pending.

During the time specified above 4 prisoners were held by the police while en route to other states; 25 insane persons were arrested; 36 witnesses who would otherwise have refused to prosecute, were detained; 302 sick and wounded persons were taken to the receiving hospital; 875 homeless wanderers were accommodated with lodging at the station; 458 loose animals were taken up and impounded, and 77 lost children were restored to their anxious parents; 5 wayward girls were rescued from lives of shame; 15 women dipso-maniacs in several cases, were treated and reformed, and 14 unruly boys were placed upon the right track.

The report contains a quantity of statistics, showing the amounts expended upon the food furnished to the city's prisoners, and the individual cost of feeding them; the number of days worked by the chain gang, and a number of other matters of a similar nature. It also shows the work performed by the patrol wagon, the services rendered by the detective department; and the disposition of all moneys handled by the department.

One of its most interesting features is the preface by Chief Glass, the full text of which is as follows:

It is expected in each annual report, that suggestions will be made of such improvements in the arrangement and additions to the equipments of the service, as experience may show to be useful and necessary.

The city owns the police station on Second street, our present headquarters, and the East Side station; although much has been done during your administration to improve the central station, in which for the present we have good offices and comfortable quarters, yet our jail is inadequate for the safe confinement of hardened criminals, and cannot be altered to comply with the requirements of a progressive modern city.

In all well regulated police departments, the main station is fitted up with a dormitory, armory, gymnasium, bath-rooms and sanitary improvements for the benefit of the force, and in the near future Los Angeles should have such quarters.

The uniform of the men is a matter of vital importance, and should be carefully looked after. I respectfully suggest that the material for uniforms be purchased by the board of police commissioners, and that each officer be compelled to purchase a dress and fatigue uniform each year; which plan will result in a perfect uniformity of dress and a great saving to the men.

In regard to equipments, the police regulations require that each officer shall carry a club, revolver and a pair of cuffs. The city furnishes a rosewood club 22 inches long, and a black patent leather belt; the revolver and handcuffs are the private property of the officer, and are of the make and style of individual fancy. I suggest that the revolvers and hand-cuffs be of uniform size and make and owned by the city; and that each officer be required to deposit their cost when issued, and that the deposit be refunded when the officer retires from the force, provided they are returned in good order, less use.

to secure favor, a long time in office, or promotion through political favoritism. A political policeman is an unmitigated nuisance—the worst and most dangerous type of demagogue. He reasons from the false standpoint that the influence of the criminal classes is sufficient to control his position and promotion. Acting on this belief, he ignores every legal requirement of his office, and before he is aware of the fact himself, he becomes the sworn ally and partner of those who profit by violating the laws of the land. The duties of the police are of such a character that it is absolutely impossible for a conscientious officer to pander in the smallest degree to the wishes of the disorderly element.

I respectfully call your attention to exhibit C, detective department, which shows property reported stolen and lost to the value of $20,800, and property recovered and restored to owners to the amount of $14,695. Exhibit H gives the cost of meals to prisoners on restaurant contracts, and the cost of having the cooking done in the jail by prisoners, showing an actual saving of $1010.52 from May 1st, 1890, to November 30th, 1890, by the jail cooking plan.

We have a rifle corps of sixteen men, who voluntarily armed themselves with the latest improved Winchester rifles, at a cost of about $25 each. They have spent much time in drill and target practice, and have attained a commendable degree of efficiency in the use of their weapons. I believe that in certain emergencies the possession of these weapons, and the knowledge of their use, might be a great service to the city, while they add materially to the general appearance of the force on parade or inspection. I think it would be a wise proceeding to furnish the department with a number of regulation bayonet rifles.

It has been the aim of this department, with positive instructions from the honorable board of police commissioners, to rigidly enforce the laws in regard to gambling. I think the city is more free from this vice than ever before. There is now no open or notorious gambling in Los Angeles. The evil of lottery gambling exists in a degree that is not easily eradicated. Arrests are made under difficulties, and when convictions are had the fine imposed too often has the character of a mere tax on the business, rather than a means of suppression.

The police work of the city during the year has been performed alone by the regular force. I have never asked for any additional men for special occasions, such as election days, legal holidays, circuses, public parades, etc., and at the present time my quota of men is short four officers. In conclusion, this department has done excellent and effective work, and reflects credit on the administration; and I, as their chief, am proud to be able to approve of their ability as a body, and I call your attention to my tabulated report herewith attached. I desire to express my gratitude to your honorable bodies and to the board of police commissioners for many courtesies received during my term of office. Respectfully submitted, J. M. Glass, Chief of Police.

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME. Horace's VII Ode to Minucius Plancius. Some poets praise illustrious Rhodes, Or Epheuse, all crowned with gold, Or they'll praise two-sealed Corinth, Or Thiebos, the sacred seat of Pan, Or light-dear to Ptochobos, Or far-famed Tempe's lovely vale, As sweet as Eden's garden, Some sing of Palus' city fair, Or Argos rich in horses, Or proud Mycenae, home of kings, The walls as strong as mountains, But me, not Sparta's great renown, Nor thy rich plains Larissa, Please half so much, or half so well As Tibur's yellow waters, The dewy meads and bending trees, Where Tibur's blooming orchards, O'erhangs the food that rolls beneath, Where Anio crowns its reaches, And thy good cheer abundant, When Tibur left ancestral fields, And Salamis behind him, He crowned his brows with ivy leaves And thus addressed his comrades— Whatever future meets us boys, Whatever skies bend o'er us, Nil desperandum is the word, For Tibur is your leader, The rock has pledged his steadfast word, And he will never fail us, New homes shall bloom beyond the seas, Tibur's Salamis shall rise anew, Crowned still with living splendors, Come down our cares with sparkling wine, We'll live as gay as gods today, And plow the waves to find a home, There lie fair lands to seaward, G. W. BURTON.

A SAD AFFAIR. Serious illness of a Most Estimable Young Man. The friends of Mr. S. B. Hunt, cashier of the State Loan and Trust company, will be pained to learn of his serious illness at Beaumont, on account of a paralytic stroke last Thursday, paralyzing his right side. It seems that before coming to California Mr. Hunt had repeatedly suffered from attacks of inflammatory rheumatism, and as a consequence had some valvular disease of the heart, which was the indirect cause of his sudden paralysis. Mr. Hunt has been in poor health since last February, and had gone to Beaumont for a change of atmosphere. He has not been able to speak since this attack, and his recovery is considered very doubtful.

PRACTICAL TESTS. An Astonishing Offer—Some of the Replies. The San Francisco papers of recent date contained the following offer:— "As an evidence of the ability of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla to prevent sick headaches, we will give to the first twelve responsible persons who will apply at our office a bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, and have derived great benefit from it, and intend continuing it. After my own experience I can heartily advise those troubled with biliousness and constipation to try it. Yours, CHAS. E. ELKINGTON, 126 Louisa Avenue, San Francisco.

IN THE HIP

IS WHERE DONATO WAS SHOT BY PALMA.

An Apparently Cold-Blooded Attempt at Murder—The Shooter Makes His Escape—Donato Severely Injured but Likely to Recover.

Shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning a young man named Cyrus Donato, residing at the corner of Alpine and Pearl streets, was shot at and seriously wounded by Luis Palma, an Italian fruit peddler.

Cyrus Donato, who is about 20 years of age, is the junior member of a firm which carries on a small retail grocery business at the place designated above. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning young Donato arose and at once proceeded to open the store. A few minutes after, while Cyrus was busily engaged in arranging his wares, Luis Palma, who lives in a small cottage opposite the store, sauntered in, and at once accosting the young grocer, proceeded to abuse him and his relatives because they dealt in fruit, thereby depriving him of his only means of livelihood. Donato noticed that the Italian was armed when he entered the store, but that his visitor intended mischief never occurred to him. The young grocer paid very little attention to Palma's remarks for some time, but continued his work, and when Palma was finally exhausted however, when Palma applied an insulting epithet to the young man's relatives, and he ordered the peddler to leave the store, at the same time advancing toward the intruder. Palma waited until his victim was within a few feet of him, when he suddenly drew a large revolver and fired, and the youth fell to the ground directly in front of the counter.

Palma coolly stepped forward and aiming deliberately at his prostrate victim, fired again, the bullet fortunately missing its mark and lodging in the side of a barrel on the other side of the counter. He then turned and ran from the store in the direction of Temple street. The wounded man's father and brother, who were up stairs at the time of the shooting, were horror stricken on rushing down stairs to find their relative lying in a pool of blood on the floor; but they at once carried him to his room, and sent for Drs. Le Doux and Powers, both of whom responded promptly.

On examination it was found that he had been shot in the left side, between the ribs and hip bone, the ball lodging in the muscles of the back. The wound is a serious one, but there is no immediate danger attendant upon it; and with proper care the patient will in all probability suffer very little inconvenience from it. At a late hour last night young Donato was resting comparatively easily.

As soon as possible after the shooting, the police were notified, and a full description of the murderous Italian was furnished to them; but up to the hour of 12 o'clock last night the detectives detailed to trail him down had not succeeded in doing so.

A GAME MAN. John McGarvin of Alamitos Is Such. John McGarvin of Alamitos was in the city yesterday, coming in for the most part to visit his little daughter, who is at school at the Sisters. John says the fishing in the bay is excellent, and that the hunting has become good in the last few days. On Friday his boys went out to get a few ducks for the use of their own house, and after being gone a few hours they returned with about four or five fat sprigs, wigwags and other varieties. The ducks have just been driven south by the late storm, and they have not yet become fishy. They are fat as little pigs after feeding on the wild celery of the upper Columbia river and the grain fields of Oregon and California.

Mr. McGarvin as usual kindly remembered the HERALD staff in several bunches of these toothsome birds and messes of fine fish. He reports the bay full of fish and game.

CATALINA ISLAND.

Reports Are Favorable to a Big Development. Letters were received here from London during the past week, written by Colonel Smith, to the effect that everything looks favorable for his schemes at Catalina. He is in hopes of getting back here at an early day with plenty of funds to set things in motion with a hum. The big hotel will no doubt be one of the first undertakings.

Cancer of the Nose. In 1875 a sore appeared on my nose, and grew rapidly. As my father had cancer, and my husband died of it, I became alarmed, and consulted my physician. His treatment did no good, and the sore grew larger and worse in every way, until I had concluded that I was to die from its effects. I was persuaded to take S. S., and a few bottles cured me. This was after all the doctors and other medicines had failed. I have had no return of the cancer. MRS. M. T. MABEN, Woodbury, Hall County, Texas. Treatise on Cancer mailed free.
