

WOMAN'S WORLD.

GOOD MRS. BALLINGTON BOOTH OF THE SALVATION ARMY.

Woman Suffrage in Massachusetts. Drawing Room Furnishings—The Story of Beekie Brown—A Woman's Hand. How One Coat Was Started.

The most impressive affair of the past few weeks was when the postmaster general's wife opened her house to a fashionable company asked to "talk" by Mrs. Ballington Booth of the Salvation Army. It was a woman's audience—all prominent women, from the president's wife down through the senatorial circle.

Her years of toil and trouble did not go for naught, as she leaves quite a sum of money to her children. In the fall of 1888 masked men broke into her cabin, and not finding as much money as they expected, they tortured the old woman horribly.

As this young English woman stepped forward to be introduced by the Rev. Dr. Hamlin, of the Church of the Covenant, there was nothing in the simple well fitting black gown and quaint black bonnet to mark her calling.

Mrs. Booth is the daughter of a London clergyman, reared in orthodox faith, and, as is plainly evident, is thoroughly educated. She began work in the Salvation Army eight years ago, when but seventeen, and with sister workers doing "rescue work" in the lowest quarters of London.

The love for her own baby has made this young mother's heart even larger and more tender, and in one of the lowest neighborhoods in New York city she has established a day nursery, where babies of the poorest, most wretched, and often depraved mothers are taken care of.

Another method of "rescue work" is donning the tatters of poverty, going into the very slums, where church work with Bibles and tracts would be powerless, and living the practical religion of caring for the sick, and for the time getting down to the level of the lowest.—Washington Cor. Springfield Republican.

Woman Suffrage in Massachusetts.

The legislature will soon reach the discussion of the bill for municipal suffrage for women. Perseverance is the stronghold of the woman suffrage cause, and this measure will be urged with the force and earnestness and eloquence that springs from belief in a just cause.

At first ostracised, then ignored, then laughed at, their cause has of late reached a point where its opponents find it needful to drop sarcasm, cease sneering and train all their big guns of argument and influence against the once despised and unpopular measure.

Drawing Room Furnishings.

No thoroughly smart drawing room is considered quite complete in these days without a glass topped table in which are kept on show all the especially odd bits of curio and antique trifles possessed by its owner.

The linings of these tables should be of old rose, pale blue, or green, or a silver gray. The fashion is one that existed 150 years ago in Europe, and a few of the drawing rooms have tables of that time, "handed down," of course, by family ancestors.

The furnishing of fashionable drawing rooms, by the way, is undergoing an important change just now. For the past ten years it has been the custom to crowd the rooms with chairs of every device, tables, cabinets, divans and lamps.

The Story of Beekie Brown. Beekie Brown, the "ferryman" of Brown's ferry, near Carmichaels, who died recently, had worked that ferry forty years single handed and alone. She was the widow of James Brown, who died before the war, and Beekie continued to placidly work at the ferry. In her early days she attended all the fairs, horse races and old time musters, peddling gingerbread and spruce beer, both famous, as she made them herself.

For the past twenty years she has lived alone in a moss covered cabin just back from the river. She was a great lover of flowers, but her taste rather ran to colors than what others might call beauty. She was exceedingly hospitable, and often entertained friends with a dimer of her own cooking, which was a marvel, and topped off with her famous gingerbread was a dinner never to be forgotten.

It is only recently that the manure industry has invaded London. It is now in that city an established trade, as it has been for some time over here. An English paper, however, is still sufficiently impressed with its flourishing to announce as a rather curious piece of information that some women who have plenty of leisure and money "go as often as once a week to the manure court," which will not strike an American reader as remarkably frequent.

It is a fact, by the way, tested by expert observation, that pretty women rarely have pretty hands. And it was a wise woman who said: "Give me a pair of fine eyes, a good carriage and a pretty hand and I will marry the king." So high an authority as Disraeli, too, extolled the charm of a beautiful hand in woman, and ascribed to it a means of fascination which never disappears.

She Found Her Lover Dead. A few days ago Mr. John C. Gore, a highly respectable and prominent citizen of Gainesboro, being informed of his approaching dissolution, at his request a messenger was sent after his affianced bride, Miss Etta Dycus, who resides with her father and mother seven miles beyond Gainesboro.

When Miss Hastings was a girl herself her family and intimate friends called her Carrie. At one time she was about to have some cards printed with the name "Carrie," but a wise brother saved her. The order was passed.—Boston Record.

Good for Miss Caroline Hastings!

At a recent meeting of the school board Miss Caroline Hastings offered an order that in all documents, records, etc., of the school board giving the names of teachers, their baptismal names shall begin without abbreviation or diminutive. In support of her order Miss Hastings said it was a shame to use such names as Nellie, Susie, Carrie, Hattie and Mamie in the official records of the board.

Hent is Needed in the Spring. The warning not to turn off heat too early and not to make haste to put away stoves in the spring needs to be spoken often. Many serious cases of illness have been traced to the foolish practice of letting down the winter fire as soon as the first mild breezes of spring blow.

"Rather lean on inward worth than outward show." If you trust to Pearlina you can do both. It will show its worth in washing clothes and cleaning house, with half of the labor and none of the usual troubles. You will only be "tried" if you try to do without it. Nothing can suffer if you use it; everything will suffer if you don't.

Perfectly Self Fitting Hosiery. An invention recently patented consists in making an article of hosiery, for either under or outside wear, in such a manner as to render it perfectly self fitting, without being narrowed or stretched reduced or widened, or the stitches increased in any way by transforming the fabric at intervals and so as to give the required shapes.

A Great Singer's Way. Mme. Pauline Lucea is now forty-eight years old and has decided to retire permanently from the stage. She is said to be the most approachable of all the great artists. Scores of young singers besiege her home every week, who beg to be allowed to sing to her for an opinion.

How One Coat Was Started. Some time ago Lady Dunlo, who has never got over her taste for theatrical apparel, took to wearing a big masculine box coat of white Melton cloth. It was intended to be worn as a coaching coat, but Lady Dunlo wore it everywhere with the collar turned up about her ears and her hands thrust into her pockets.

Among the unusual inventions patented by women are improved bottle stoppers, improved method of fastening door knobs to their spindles, an appliance for plucking hair to be used in the dressing of furs, improved method of preparing leather for the soles of boots and shoes, for improvements in electric arc lamps, and for more reliable indicators specially applicable for use on the rolling stock of railways.

Mrs. Bayley, of Manchester, is a most courageous and enthusiastic fisherwoman. Despite the inclemency of the weather, which it would seem that only hardened gillies could endure, this lady bravely faced the elements and landed on one trip six magnificent salmon, three of which weighed 23, 22 and 20 pounds respectively. Mr. Bayley succeeded in landing only four fish on this occasion.

The queen regent of Spain is a very much overworked and worried woman, despite her rank and authority. She is suffering from acute nervous prostration, and has been advised by her physicians to leave Madrid for a time to obtain perfect rest from her anxieties. This she cannot do for fear of endangering the security of her son's throne if she relaxes her vigilance in regard to state affairs.

The smallest shoes in trade are made for Annie Pixley, who trips about the country in No. 23. According to the same authority Mary Anderson wears 4 1/2, Lillian Russell, 4; Ada Rehan, 5; Lillie Langtry, 5 1/2; Ellen Terry, 6; and Maud Kendal, 6 1/2. Bernhardt takes a No. 4 last, but the long use of sandals has spoiled her feet for French boots and Spanish slippers.

Itti Kinney Reno, the Nashville apothecary, is the wife of Robert Ross Reno, who comes from the Rosses of Pennsylvania, and who, with the Haldemans and Camerons, claims a share in the estate of old Philippe Francois Renault, valued at $200,000,000. Mrs. Ross has just completed a new novel. She is a hard worker and frequently writes four-hour days a day.

S. HIS CHILDREN.

My little son had a number of bad ulcers and running sores for some time, which lasted for four years. I tried all the doctors and many remedies, but the sores still grew worse, until I did not expect him to recover. My friends were confident that if the sores healed it would kill him. I at length quit all other treatment and put him on Swift's Specific, and less than three bottles cured him a sound and healthy child. S. S. S., also cured a sore on another of my children.
