

HORSE GOSSIP.

DAGWORTH'S IDEAS ABOUT HORSES AND RACES.

Plenty of Trotting Material in Southern California—Los Angeles to Have a Good Meeting—The Bangtails Coming.

There will be plenty of good trotting material in Southern California this year and the miles will be reeled off very much faster than last season. It will be horse racing worth going a long way to see when Glendine, Lucy R. and McKinney or Gossiper come together. There is a chance that Otto Rex will be in the swim this season. He is fast and thoroughly game and no horse in this part of the country has any license to beat him. There is no need to waste any space in discussing McKinney. Every reader of this article knows that the sun of Alceyone is one of the gamest and most level-headed trotters ever hitched to a sulky.

Gossiper has had a rest for two years. This symmetrical son of Simons was a sensational three-year-old. The writer has always contended that Gossiper was the fastest of the get of Simons, and one of these bright days Charlie Durfee will astonish the natives with this adopted son of Los Angeles. Lucy R. has never been seen at her best. She is now doing splendidly under Maben's care and will certainly trot low down in the teens this year.

Glendine was the champion trotter in Southern California last season, and his record is nothing near what he is capable of doing. Connolly will have the son of Saulsbury in gilt edged condition when the bell taps at the next Los Angeles meeting. There will be any quantity of material for the slower classes, judging by the activity at the different tracks in Southern California.

The Los Angeles meeting will be the grand wind-up for the state. The trotters will be geared up to do their best by the time they hit this city. The general public likes fast time and the chances are that they will get it at the coming meeting. An effort will be made to have Stamboul make his final effort against the scythe bearer during the Los Angeles meeting.

What a drawing card Stamboul would be. It would be safe to wager that the great son of Sultan would draw out the largest crowd ever seen on a track in the state of California. The directors of the Sixth district should offer every inducement to have Stamboul here fair week. It would bring out thousands to the track who have probably never been there.

Los Angeles has a chance of bringing all the bangtails together at the fair in October. All the California stables will be home from their eastern campaign, and they will not hesitate to visit this city if a good programme is offered. A card such as offered last August would certainly be inducement enough for every horse owner in the state to take in our fair. The public want to see good horses and good races, and the only way to secure this combination is to offer fair money.

In order to secure hot and close events in running races it is necessary to display considerable judgment in making the conditions of each race. The framer of these conditions should aim to bring the horses together. The second class horse should get concessions which would at least give him a fighting chance. This is the way to get a big entry list and good betting races. Handicap races are not as popular in California as they might be. The reason is that many associations have been unfortunate in framing their handicap. No judgment is used, and as a consequence one horse is thrown in, while all the others but one or two are scratched.

LOST HIS STOMACH.

A Traveling Man's Experience in a Sleeping Car.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiffin were on their way to the hot springs, where Mr. W. intended to get relief of his rheumatism in the baths. On their leaving home Mrs. W. prepared for an emergency by taking along mustard for plasters, with which any pains incident to the fatigue of railroad travel may be relieved. At a way station a drunken traveling man boarded the train, and was put to bed in the berth next to Mr. and Mrs. W. by the porter. Shortly after Mr. W. woke up with a dreadful stitch in his side. Like a good, dutiful wife, Mrs. W. arose and went to the lavatory to make a strong, extra strong, mustard plaster with which to relieve the pain of her liege lord.

On her return she pulled the wrong curtain aside and placed the plaster upon the stomach of the senseless drunken drummer. Then she went to the lavatory, washed her hands, and returned to her berth, getting into the right position and finding Mr. W. asleep. The plaster has relieved the pain," said the good woman, and with that thought on her mind she fell asleep.

Nothing disturbed the sleepers except the rattle of the wheels jumping rail joints for some minutes. Finally a loud groan was heard, then these words: "Oh, my stomach, my s-t-o-m-a-c-h-o-h-o-h!" This was followed by "I'll never touch another drop as long as I live. Oh, it's burning a hole in me, oh-h-h!"

By this time heads were peeping out from behind curtains and the porter was on his way to the traveling man's berth. Of a sudden out came the bed clothes. The First Presbyterian church will have Dr. Ormiston with them today. Dr. Russell has been heard from, and is enjoying himself trout-fishing among the West Virginia mountains.

Mr. George J. Binder will address the men's meeting at the Young Men's Christian association at 4 o'clock today.

Dr. Thomson preaches his last sermon to the church of the Unity this morning, previous to his journey east.

IN SAN FRANCISCO.

THEATRICAL MATTERS IN THE METROPOLIS.

All Kinds of Fare Being Provided at the Theaters—The L. C. Company—The City Directory—Notes.

Correspondence of the HERALD.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24, 1891.

All kinds of fare are being provided at the theaters this week, and new bills have been offered all around. People are coming back from the seashore, and they are finding an abundance of good entertainment. The greatest interest has, of course, centered in the production of The Idler at the Baldwin, by the New York Lyceum company. It is not at all overstating the matter to say that it is a great production; I doubt if any company could do it better. The Idler is a strong play, and is a decided advance upon Mr. Chambers' first noteworthy effort, Captain Swift. It is unique in many respects, and the author has displayed much originality in his conception and working out of situations.

The story of the play is simple and straightforward. Side issues in the way of comedy are introduced to some extent, which serves to lighten the play and make it attractive as well as interesting. The interest is strongly sustained throughout, a circumstance due to actor and company alike. I will not spoil the pleasure for Angelenos by relating the story here, it is not one which can be told and justice done in a few words. It is the strongest play the company has yet appeared in, and gives splendid opportunities, of which splendid advantage is taken. Nearly every member of the company has surprised us by revealing unexpected strength. That is, unexpected by the majority, for there have been those who have suspected the existence of latent possibilities in several of the company. Herbert Keley plays the part of the novel role in which to see him. We have been so accustomed to see him as a truly good man, and now we have him as a man who, though finely organized and possessing noble impulses, yet plays a villain's part and nearly wrecks two lives besides his own. Mr. Keley himself assures me that he likes this character, and he plays it with a real villain, that is, not a real stage villain—that individual whose sole purpose in life is to be bad; he does wrong and comes near to doing a dastardly act through the overpowering influence of a passion for a woman. He does what he can to atone afterwards. Nelson Wheatcroft represents a rising statesman, a noble man, loving and being loved by a beautiful wife, but a man with a past which rises up and well nigh crushes him. He gives a great performance. I consider him one of the strongest men on the stage. Eugene Ormiston, a member of the company new to us, does some exceedingly good work as a man bent on vengeance, which he terms justice, and who falls in love with the sister of the wife of the man whose destruction he seeks. It is a difficult role to play, calling for both emotional and high comedy work. Georgia Cayvan is perhaps the greatest surprise. She plays, really superbly, a woman who, trying to save her husband, is wronged by the Idler and misjudged by her husband. W. J. Le Moyne gives a delightful performance of a light comedy part and Effie Shannon plays the ingenue deliciously. Mrs. Charles Watson plays the mother of the Idler.

The City Directory of the California, revised and with practically a new company. The City Directory is enough to make Shakespeare turn in his grave, but it is awfully funny. It was in Los Angeles about two years ago, but you would hardly know it down there now. There is no plot to it, which is a fact which the management candidly admit. It is simply a succession of incidents, and without here must be postponed until tomorrow night, when the seal of secrecy will be removed.

"P. S.—No newspaper is permitted in the precincts of the encampment except the HERALD, which is prized for its pure politics. There will be a lively scramble for the Union League's favorite journal when the train arrives from Los Angeles in the morning. Let the news agents govern themselves accordingly."

LOOK FOR THE RED GLARE.

The Heavens About San Juan of a Lurid Hue. The carmine hue of the southern sky last night was not a natural phenomenon, as some supposed, or one of the dread portents of war, as the superstitious declared. It was but the glare of the camp of the Union League bivouacked at San Juan-by-the-Sea, and the red fire used in connection with the ceremony of burying dull care. The special staff correspondent of the HERALD who has the honor of being one of the guests of the league, telegraphed at midnight: "As it is forbidden, under penalty of twenty-four hours' confinement in the prison of Governor Egan's castle, on a bread-and-water diet, to be caught communicating with the outside tonight, I am only able, in this surreptitious dispatch, to say that Dull Care is buried and Joy unconfined at this midnight hour. A trusty courier is waiting to smuggle this message through the picket lines to the nearest telegraph office, so particulars of the without here must be postponed until tomorrow night, when the seal of secrecy will be removed."

ment, but I think the house will be filled right through it.

Lewis Morrison is playing a Celebrated Case at the Alcazar, supported by Frederick Bryton and the stock company. The performance is a good one, though it has created no great sensation. Florence Roberts plays Valentine. George C. Staley is at the Bush street with a Royal Pass. As I have not seen it myself and as it has already been seen in Los Angeles, I will say nothing about it. They are giving Andran's pretty Olivette at the Tivoli, to good business as usual. I should like to own the Tivoli, it must be a perfect bonanza. It cannot cost the management very much to produce their operas, and although prices are low the theater is always next door to crowded.

Joe Grismer has returned from the east, and as there is always a good deal of interest taken in his movements by Californians generally, I have interviewed him. He will open his season at the Bush-street August 17th. After four weeks there he will take to the road, playing in Los Angeles the week of Washington's birthday, returning to this city in March. He procured a play new to the coast while east, Ferneliff, by William Hawthorn. It is a war play without any military effects, and is one which has been successful in the east. He has gathered together a strong company, a portion of which he has brought out from the east. One bit of good news is that Edgar Weir is back with him again. Weir has been abroad since he last appeared in Los Angeles. The coming season's tour will be the last which Grismer will make of the coast for awhile as he goes east at its conclusion to try his luck in pastures new. He will open at a leading New York theater, by the name of the Madison Square, in September, 1892. The least I can wish for Grismer and his charming wife, Phoebe Davis, is success.

They have been jumping on W. F. Rochester in New York, terming him the alleged comedian. Rochester will be remembered in Los Angeles for his connection with the Wyatt company.

The Bostonians will open their New York season at the Standard September 28th, when they will produce Robin Hood.

DR. KIERULFF TALKS

PARLIAMENTARY LAW AND THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

He Explains the Recent Features in the Board's Meeting From His Point of View—Some Strong Talk About Friesner.

A HERALD reporter yesterday interviewed Dr. Kierulff relative to the recent misunderstanding in the board of education. His statement is substantially as follows: "The fact that there were six votes for the change in the rules taking away the power of the teacher's committee would tend to show that there was a majority opposed to placing such power in the hands of a committee, as the classification committee claims. Dr. Barber himself voted for this change of rules and also for the reinstatement of Miss Auld, so that his association with Witter, Davis and Boal is of comparative recent date. The classification committee held their meeting when they knew Mr. Gaffey, their chairman, could not be present. They intended to drop certain teachers, and they took their opportunity. We, that is the four which they have associated together as the opposition, Gaffey, Marsh, Crowley and myself, have not made this fight on account of any personal favorites, but on principle. We want to know why certain teachers, formerly known among the best of our city schools, have been removed or classified below their proper grade. For instance, why was Miss Slack, the principal of Alpine street school, reduced to a lower position, with about half the salary, without any adequate cause? Mr. Friesner, when I asked him, said that she had been removed on reports against her ability. Driven into a corner he confessed that the reports were from himself and Mr. Baker, and asked how many visits he had paid her school, he claimed to have visited her quite frequently, when, as a matter of fact, I can only learn of one visit he has ever paid the school. I think Mr. Friesner is an underhanded man, and that he will work hard to retain his position by any means in his power. So far as I know no one has any personal feelings against Miss Gibson. For my own part I think her a good principal, but I consider Mr. Ennis a better person to have charge of the Spring-street school. Miss Gibson has been given as good a position outside the Spring-street school as it is possible to give her. With regard to the charge that I am trying to get control of the board, it sounds rather absurd, as coming from Mr. Davis, who is the Widow Bedott of the board. He has opposed the introduction of every new thing, and is constantly referring back to forty years ago, when he was a boy. He is exactly forty years behind the times, and his opposition to me is from the fact that I have opposed his blocking the march of improvement and progress. As for Mr. Shafer, I don't think he is as bad as painted. I expect he will vote to make a new classification of teachers, and to stand up for what he thinks. The efforts of ex-Governor Gosper to control his actions and the actions of the board are probable facts, but Gosper is not the only one who tries to engineer the board from the outside. I could give you the names of a number of others, but I won't."

A HOT SPELL.

The Mercury Assumes a Very Elevated Position. It was hot enough for you or anyone yesterday. The thermometer varied from 96 to 108 degrees in the shade, according to exposure. There were no sun strokes reported, however, and beyond causing considerable grumbling the heat did no harm.

Beer and sodawater were in great demand, and men in shirtsleeves, with a fan in one hand and a handkerchief in the other, were numerous.

At about a quarter to six last evening, a few drops fell from the clouds, and there was a scurrying of lightly-clad women fearful of a shower, but the shower was so light as to hardly deserve the name, and in a few moments ceased.

Last evening was also very warm, and late last night the prospect was that today would be as warm as yesterday.

UNIVERSITY.

University visitors to Redondo to see the Charleston: Theo. Lloyd and family, D. Neubart and family, Lew Frazier, E. E. A small social gathering was held at the home of Supervisor Davis, given by the Misses Davis to invited guests. The affair took place on Friday evening.

Mrs. Gray and children are camping at Redondo beach. Miss Jessie Blake gave a party to a number of her young friends Wednesday evening.

PASADENA.

Mrs. T. J. Martin leaves tomorrow for a trip east.

Prof. Graham joined the Union league club on their trip to San Juan-by-the-Sea.

Prof. T. S. C. Lowe, Mrs. Lowe and Miss Edna Lowe, are expected home today.

The reception to the Rev. Mr. Fifer was largely attended Friday evening, in spite of the sultriness of the weather.

Arrivals at Hotel Green yesterday were: S. Shieck, W. H. Paurad, W. F. Harris and wife, San Francisco; C. H. Solomon, wife and child, Santa Barbara; C. B. Fox, Blue Island, Ills.

Judge Rose is at Santa Monica. A lively contest took place yesterday in the council chamber, in the final discussion over the Terminal road rates. The results were practically in favor of the railroad, as increased rates were granted by the board for a term of two years. Other changes in the original franchise were granted, allowing the road right of way up the alley between Fair Oaks and Raymond avenues, from the intersection of their tracks and the alley, to a point forty feet south of the south line of Kansas street, and to acquire grounds for and establish a depot adjacent to said alley, all to be established and in running order inside of one year from date.
