

AT THE BEACHES.

The Santa Monica Balloon Race a Success.

Miss Keyes Makes a Thrilling Parachute Jump.

She Holds on for Life While Swept Through the Air.

Prof. Romig Also Meets with a Slight Accident—The Beach Visited by Thousands—Some of Those Who Were There.

The attraction yesterday at Santa Monica was the balloon race between Miss Hazel Keyes and Prof. Romig. It proved to be a success in every particular. The daring aeronauts made an especially good ascension. Thousands watched the balloons go up into the clouds. Miss Keyes was the first to get under way. The balloons presented a very pretty appearance as they sailed skyward past the Arcadia hotel. They began to look small in the distance when the man was seen darting through the air with lightning rapidity. The parachute opened up and the professor's descent was checked very materially. Miss Hazel Keyes then cut loose, but for some reason or other the parachute wavered from one side to the other in an apparently dangerous manner. The spectators watched the thrilling descent with bated breath. Miss Keyes was tossed from side to side, but she clung to the trapeze and when she reached terra firma a sigh of relief went up from the multitude. "I am all right," said the fair aeronaut a few minutes afterwards to a HERALD reporter. "The wind was very strong and was responsible for the parachute turning so much. It was the most thrilling jump I ever made. I never had a parachute act like the one this afternoon."

Just before the start was made a can of naphtha exploded, burning Professor Romig about the face and hands, but this did not delay him in going up in the air.

BEACH PERSONALS.

George S. Wilson, T. Sullivan, E. J. Gorman and Arnold Cochran spent the day at Santa Monica, sporting in the surf and lunching at the Arcadia.

Barney Cohen, of Sonora, Mexico, fame, was seen in the crowd. He and El. B. Wilson and Joe Malinali joined the multitude on an early train, and left for home on the last.

Miss Hattie Lindendelf, escorted by her brother, George Lindendelf, were among the throng.

E. A. Ray, of San Bernardino, came down to spend the day with his charming wife, who is sojourning here.

Judges McPhee and Teed, delightful lights of New Mexico, are delightfully situated in one of G. W. Kint's cottages, on South Beach.

Col. Brown, A. Canan and E. L. Allen formed an interesting group on the piazza, counting the political chicks of Ohio before they were hatched.

Mr. Miller, Pasadena's telephone artist, listened to the call of the waves. Park Mitcheller was in the swim.

Mrs. Henry Mason and Miss Lizzie Carr witnessed the ascension from a good position on the bluff.

Mrs. Graham, the charming Miss Ethel Graham, and Dr. and Mrs. Davis were down from the crown of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chanslor and son, and Miss Nettie Clarke spent the day here, guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Chanslor, who are stopping at the Arcadia. Mr. and Mrs. Chanslor's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cooby are also guests of the Arcadia, where they will remain for some time.

Captain Fallon, of the English army, who is on the retired list, spent the day at the Arcadia.

Herman Morris and family were in the swim and lunched at the Lawrence house.

H. B. Pike was seen chatting with a group of Los Angeles friends on the hotel piazza.

Colonel Frederick Stanford mingled with the crowd, being a guest of the Arcadia.

William Colmeijer enjoyed the surf in front of the Arcadia.

S. S. Foy and family were seen enjoying the briny in front of the north beach bath-house.

Ben, Walter and Minot Ward were everywhere mingling with the throng. Mr. and Mrs. Siegel were seen sporting in the surf.

John Bryson was the youngest man on the beach for his years and ambled about like a youth.

Colonel Hewitt, J. M. Crawley, D. Ainsworth and Bob Hamilton discussed Southern Pacific improvements over an elegant dinner at Eckert & Hoppe.

Miss Canan entertained a large circle of gentlemen on the Arcadia piazza.

Sam Adams watched the balloon race while he hummed "I'm Not So Young as I Used to Be."

A. Steadman, of Nebraska, was more than pleased with the seaside resort.

Among yesterday's arrivals at the Arcadia were: Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Salkey, Col. F. Stanford, A. W. Dumliller, Shirley C. Ward, Dr. P. Anderson and wife, Miss L. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Parker, Salem, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kilgariff, J. K. Wilkins, San Francisco; George D. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. George Courtwright, New York; John Johnson, Ballona; Miss Maude E. Anderson, Pueblo, Colo.; H. N. Mathews, San Diego; A. Steadman, Nebraska; J. F. Falvey, Santa Ana; Chas. B. Reddington, Santa Barbara; E. R. Brooks, Pomona; E. R. James, Providence.

AT REDONDO.

A SMALL CROWD EXPECTED AND A LARGE ONE RECEIVED.

The Quiet Breakers Entice the Usual Crowd of Bathers—Fishing Yarns and Excursions—Beach Notes and Personals.

The day opened up at Redondo yesterday with a calm sea and an unclouded sun. It was not expected that a very large crowd would be down, but time and the arrival of the first train developed a surprise. Aside from the guests at the great hotel there were probably few notables on the beach, but the Smiths, Browns, Joneses and others who are to be met with everwhere, evidenced their good sense by turning out in much greater force than usual.

At noon people said: "Well, this is all the crowd that will be here, and just look at it!" But when the 1:30 train on both roads rolled up to the station platforms, with extra cars on and people standing in the aisles, the beach-wise people gave it up and acknowledged themselves surprised.

The crowd was experienced and the younger portion of it had provided against emergencies by bringing down a supply of bathing suits, but even then the bath-house had hard work to supply all applicants.

The steamer Bonita was at the wharf when the morning crowd arrived, but steamed away out to sea early in the day.

The steamer Eureka put in at noon and proved a great attraction to the crowd. Out at the moorings the crew of the lumber schooner the Laura Madsen, was waiting to take the place now occupied by the Webfoot at the wharf, and provided a good subject for all the owners of opera glasses and such like instruments. The amount of wisdom displayed by the holders of the nautical would have been sufficient to run a glassed college, provided it was correct.

Up at the hotel the members of Saturday's fishing party were running each other clear up out of sight in estimating the weight of the fish they had caught. Down in the ice box the result of the catch was stowed away in tangible support of the most reckless of fish stories, and the guests at lunch time had a chance to sample some of the various finny specimens cooked in various appetizing ways. Mr. J. A. Graves, who engineered the party, said that the entire trip was very pleasant. A twenty-five pound yellowtail was captured early in the trip and was speedily converted into chowder, which the eighteen members of the party heartily enjoyed. He is already planning to get up another party in the near future, to make a trip which shall keep them out over night and carry them many miles further. His party of Saturday are with him any time he wants to go.

Col. Root has a house full of guests, and on Saturday evening not a room in the hotel remained unoccupied. The Saturday evening hop was one of the merriest of the season, and was well attended. The light fantastic was tripped till the hour of midnight, which signaled the time to end the festivities.

Last evening the services of the Episcopal church were conducted by Dean Trues in the music hall of the Redondo hotel. The audience was large, and the guests were glad of the opportunity to attend religious services in the house.

Yesterday was a fine day for driving, and vehicles of all descriptions were going and coming all day.

RENDONDO NOTES.

Captain E. A. Barker, of Washington, D. C., has engaged rooms at the Redondo for a month or two.

Ex-Governor L. A. Sheldon, formerly of New Mexico, but now of Pasadena, and Mrs. Sheldon, are guests of Redondo hotel.

Miss Marguerite Wielens, of Salt Lake City, is one of the charming young ladies of the big hotel.

Professor A. Cuyas came down yesterday, as usual, to instruct his class here in Spanish.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Daggett, of Pasadena, are enjoying an outing at the seaside.

J. W. H. Clarke's genial countenance was seen mingling with the throng yesterday. He has been here several days.

Colonel Wheeler is again among his friends at the Redondo. The Colonel has been greatly missed during his absence, as he has the faculty of making every one around him happy and possesses an exhaustless store of wit and wisdom.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sheward are taking an outing at the beach.

S. C. Jones, of San Francisco, was seen on the sands with his best girl.

First Alfred Solano is spending a few days at the Redondo.

Mrs. L. J. Rose and family registered at the big hotel Saturday.

Judge James A. Catlin, of Utica, N. Y., will arrive Monday for a couple of months' visit to our beautiful resort.

A. W. Carter took a trip out on the steamer Pelican.

F. B. Prussia, secretary of the Californian club, with Mrs. Prussia, spent Sunday at the hotel and on the golden sands.

Judge W. P. Wade says the fishing trip of Saturday was perfectly immense.

T. E. Gibbon, the handsome young lawyer, attended the Saturday evening ball at the hotel.

Charles H. Humphreys watched the bathers.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Glassell, Sr., are among the visitors.

Miss Jessie Walden, of Santa Barbara, attracted attention by her fine swimming.

Mrs. and Miss Mortimer, of the Nadeau hotel, are among the late arrivals at the Redondo.

Colonel F. Van Melus and his lovely daughter, of New York city, have a handsome suite of rooms at the Redondo.

J. J. Callahan, of Palestine, Texas, dined at the hotel.

F. T. Degro, of Texas, is a visitor to the beach.

Baron Rogniat is a fine swimmer and the admiration of all onlookers.

County Clerk T. H. Ward remained over Sunday at the Redondo.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kingman and child, of Brockton, Mass., and Miss S. Kingman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are guests of the Redondo hotel.

E. B. Sadler, of New York, took in all the sights at the beach.

Miss Grace Evans is spending some time at the beach.

Miss Rena Rigg, of Pasadena, was among the visitors.

Mr. Burdette Chandler was down from the city again, and made an exploring trip down the coast about five miles, returning with curious geological specimens.

There were enough lieutenants and colonels and other officers from headquarters about to lend quite a military air to the place. General A. McD. McCook was of course the principal figure. He will remain for some time a guest at the hotel.

The tall form of Lieutenant Charles Collins attracted much attention as he promenaded the porches in company with his charming little wife.

Captain Bailey surveyed the scene on the beach and before the hotel with a critical eye.

The ever cheerful Lieutenant C. B. Baker looked none the worse for his trip to the Moqui reservation. He had much interesting information to impart relative to the wonderful game dance.

Colonel E. Blanton O. Duncan was another of the hotel guests yesterday.

Colonel J. B. Dobbins, from San Gabriel, of vedolia cardinalis fame, was resting by the sea yesterday.

Colonel and Mrs. J. J. Ayers were among the guests at the hotel yesterday.

Maj. George S. Patton was visible about the hotel several times during the day.

Miller, J. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fellner, Miss M. M. North, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Roeder, Mrs. A. E. Harvey, Miss Gross, Mrs. Calvin Smith, A. W. Beebe and Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Keller, Los Angeles.

AT CATALINA.

The Yellow-Tail Beginning to Bite. The "Regulars" in Force.

Quite a large number of people visited Avalon the past week, and a considerable number made the trip there yesterday. Whilst there are not as many "during the season" at the island as in past years, on account of the closing of the hotel to boarders, yet there is quite a goodly representation of the "regulars" on the beach.

The yellow-tails, that have been holding off so unaccountably this season, are beginning to put in an appearance. The catch is increasing every day, and it now looks as if the prospect of a very gamey fish would begin in earnest very soon. This will be good news to the lovers of sport, and will doubtless cause numbers to overhaul their tackle and get ready for a few days of the best kind of fishing we have on this coast.

Charles F. Holder writes to ascertain whether there is any known instance of a yellow-tail having been landed by pole and reel. Who knows?

HAVING A GOOD TIME. The Captain, Officers and Crew of the Itata Celebrating.

To say that Captain Manzenn and the Congressionalists connected with the steamer Itata are having a good time at San Diego, over the joyful news received of Palmsada's defeat, would be putting it mild. Never was the crew of a vessel more hilarious than those of that famous runaway craft. A HERALD representative boarded the vessel yesterday in San Diego bay, and to see the smiling countenances of those connected with the steamer would convince the observer that Palmsada's downfall is welcome news. On Saturday evening the Itata was beautifully illuminated and the celebration was kept up until all were exhausted.

The vessel yesterday was gayly decorated, and it is the unanimous opinion of all in the bay climate city that the result of the big battle at Valparaiso fully meets their approbation. The entire population at San Diego seem to be in favor of the insurgents, and the genial and popular Captain Manzenn is receiving congratulations on all sides. The gallant skipper has made himself a great favorite at San Diego, and many an American is rejoicing with the commander in the great victory achieved by his party.

THE COUNTRY PRESS. The Colton News announced recently that "Señor Citro Craig, of the Scipio-graph, was in the city this morning on his way to Los Angeles."

The Fallbrook Review suspended publication recently, as the community would not guarantee a sufficient patronage to support a creditable paper.

The Azusa News makes this announcement at the head of its editorial columns: "Schools opens soon."

The following from the Times-Index is pretty tough on Company E: "The war-scarred veterans of Company E, who have been in camp at Santa Monica for the past ten days, returned home this afternoon."

In the same paper is also the following important bit of news, which for some reason the Associated Press did not handle: "Our Claude, the other day, became a little careless with his colt, while on his way to the Glendora postoffice. The horse ran into the awning pole and gave him a black eye. Some horses nearly took fright and made work for the harnessmaker. We are very sorry that any harm was done, and if the gentlemen will send in bill for damages we will credit it to their subscription account."

Young Cornelius, the bookkeeper at the Reform school, showed us the other day a copy of the "Daily Morning Call," published Friday morning, September 24, 1888. It is about two-thirds the size of the Pointer, and many of the items in it are interesting. Col. J. J. Ayers was editor-in-chief of the Call. —Whittier Pointer.

There is no other place probably on the Pacific coast, says the Yuma Sentinel, where the monks of the Colorado river and the upper end of the Gulf of California, for all kinds of fish; sea bass that weight from 250 to 750 pounds each, clams as large as a common dinner plate, millions of sardines and smelt, oysters, small but delicious, millions of soft-shelled crabs, and other shell fish, myriads of wild geese, brants, ducks, cranes and other sea fowl and birds. It is a paradise for fish and game.

Young Chronicle, near Santa Paula, owns a stallion valued at $800. Tuesday evening it was taken ill, and he drove to town for Dr. Pierce. The doctor, after arriving, proceeded to tap the animal with an instrument behind one of the ribs, and a great quantity of gas rushed out. A match was applied to the escaping gas, and it ignited and burned with much force, greatly to the astonishment of those present, and the order of the horse was able to walk about, and may recover. —Ventura Free Press.

It seems that all the trouble about bathing costumes at Ocean Grove grew out of the fact that the elderly women who attended camp meeting were accustomed to walk from their tents to the beach in garments that revealed their ungainly figures. This procession became an eyesore, and so the order went forth that all those who left the beach must cover their bathing costumes with an outer garment. The pretty young saints still show their shapes on the beach and they continue to find favor in the eyes of godly brethren. —Perris New Era.

There is one thing the city of Riverside ought to do by all means, and do it at once, that is to purchase the top of Rubidoux mountain and begin the construction of a public park. It could be made one of the most beautiful spots in the world, and in a few years, after the trees and shrubbery had attained some growth, it would be as famous as our Magnolia avenue. In all probability it could be purchased for a mere song for such a purpose, and a judicious expenditure every year would soon make it lovely beyond words to express. To the city to pave the streets, add about twenty more electric lights, and with a magnificent park on the top of Rubidoux, there would be little more to ask for. —Riverside Press.
