

SHE MARRIED DICK.

THE HAPPY FINALE TO AN EMBARRASSING SITUATION.

Miss Rillie Lee Was Married Just the Same—Dick Elliott Wins the Prize of His Life.

On Sunday Miss Rillie Lee, who lives on First street, Boyle Heights, expected to be Mrs. Rillie Vaughn the next morning. The wedding was set for 11 o'clock Monday, but at the appointed hour the bridegroom had failed to appear.

It appears that two young men have been admirers of the prepossessing Miss Lee. Dick Elliott was the favored one, and it was generally thought that he would capture the prize.

The developments Monday showed that there was a hitch in the proceedings. Mrs. Vaughn was very much opposed to the match. She argued with her son, but with not much success until the day set for the wedding.

The sister of the bride did not waste any time thinking about the fickle bridegroom, but took the next car for Evergreen cemetery. She found Dick Elliott digging a grave. The young man was very downcast and looked as if he hadn't a friend in the wide world.

That evening Mr. and Mrs. Elliott were seen driving in the direction of the Evergreen cemetery. They looked supremely happy, especially Dick, who, a few hours previous, had been one of the most disconsolate of mortals in the city of Los Angeles.

BLOCKED ALREADY.

THE ROUTE OF THE SEWER TO THE SEA.

Mr. Dan Freeman Declines to Give a Right of Way—The Proper Course for the Council to Pursue—Take the Sewer Where the Water is Wanted.

The matter of locating the outfall sewer is not going to be easily arrived at, for Mr. Dan Freeman and about seventy other land owners at and about Inglewood are arranging to fight the route approved by the council to the bitter end.

A committee of the council called on Mr. Freeman yesterday morning, and asked him for a right of way, which was firmly refused. A HERALD reporter saw the owner of the Centinela, and asked him what offer the committee had made.

"They made no proposition, but simply stated that they wanted me to grant them a right of way through my property, (a distance of over seven miles), for the sewer. They have surveyed a line through my orchard, and through the town of Inglewood, and over on in front of the lands of more than seventy owners. Every one of these land owners, as far as I know, is opposed to the sewer crossing or going in front of his land. I do not want the water, as we can grow all sorts of fruit excepting oranges, without irrigation; and if anybody south of me wanted the water it would have to be piped from the main sewer in branch lines for two miles across my lands lying south of the proposed sewer. There would have to be six or seven of these branch lines, making twelve or fourteen miles of extra piping and extra right of way. I was told this morning that Judge Silent had offered the city $150,000 cash and the right of way if they would carry the sewer to his land three miles south of mine, and that he offered to pay for the water used on his land. Now the extra piping that would be necessary to run several branch lines across my property would be three times as much as the extra pipe required to go direct to Judge Silent's land, instead of by the Inglewood route; and as there is no town to run through, nor seventy protesting land owners on this route, as is the case on the Inglewood route, it would be far less expensive in the end. The city council should run the sewer where the water is needed, so that they can get a revenue from its use, and not try to force it through a town and a community where they will have to fight for every inch of the right of way, and where they can get no revenue from the use of the water.

THE PARKS.

The Purchase of Seven Seals Ordered by the Commission. The park commission met in the mayor's office yesterday afternoon and transacted considerable business of a routine nature.

The secretary was instructed to purchase seven seals, from Santa Monica parties. Superintendent LeGrande was instructed to present plans for a conservatory for the east side park, to present estimate of the cost of placing additional hydrants in the parks and to have a house erected in Elysian park for the accommodation of workmen.

A resolution was passed requesting the council to take some action in regard to establishing the boundaries of Elysian park. A similar resolution was presented to the council several weeks ago and shelved.

HANCHETTE'S DOUBLE.

A LOS ANGELES MAN WHO SAW HIM IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Mr. Ralph Hoyt Sat Opposite the Double at Breakfast—Exactly the Same as the Missing Man Except in His Walk.

Mr. Ralph Hoyt, of this city, said to a HERALD representative yesterday: "The report from San Francisco about Hanchette's double brings to my mind an incident that occurred one day while I was in San Francisco last spring. I was sitting at a breakfast table in Demmett's coffee house, on Market street, when, without my having noticed him as he came in, a well-dressed gentleman was seen to occupy a chair at the same table, and directly opposite me. His appearance startled me and I almost exclaimed, 'Hello, Hanchette,' but at once concluded to wait a moment and see if the gentleman would recognize me. To my surprise he did not appear to notice me in any special manner. We both ate our breakfasts in silence; but I scanned his face and figure closely all the while. My thought was: That is certainly the missing Hanchette or his apparition, and he eats too heartily Hanchette's size and complexion; his hair, forehead, whiskers, mustache—every feature and detail—appeared to stamp him as Hanchette.

We left the table simultaneously, he in the lead. I had resolved to follow him until all doubt as to his identity could in some way be removed. By the time we reached the restaurant pay-counter, however, I was convinced of my mistake. The man's walk showed me he was not H. J. Hanchette, the missing secretary of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. Everybody acquainted with Hanchette knows what a peculiar gait he had. It was wholly unlike that of any other man I ever saw. My breakfast table companion could not walk like Hanchette, however, much as he looked like him, and so I followed him no farther.

I presume he is the same man mentioned in the HERALD's article of yesterday. His resemblance to Hanchette is certainly remarkable, and it is not surprising that even the secretary's wife and children were for a few moments greatly excited when they saw this counterpart of their husband and father."

The true test of a baking powder is well known to every housekeeper. It is to try it in making bread, cake, etc., and we are of the opinion that it will be impossible to remove from the minds of our housewives the conviction long ago formed from the application of this chemical test, that the Royal does make the best, the most, and the most wholesome.

PASADENA.

Our esteemed townsman, the Hon. A. G. Throop, will be the founder in Pasadena of a non-sectarian college, for the success of which he will devote the bulk of his large fortune and the remainder of his days. The college will be opened the first of November and will be devoted to the recognized departments of higher learning, including manual training and professions. The institution will be endowed by Father Throop with several hundred thousand dollars and endowments from other quarters are assured. An agreement between the Pasadena Land and Water company and the Lake Vineyard Land and Water company to develop water at Devil's Gate, has been effected. The work will begin at once, under direction of Engineer Ledwick.

R. H. Shoemaker, of San Gabriel, was in the city yesterday. A sale of fancy and domestic articles will be held this afternoon in the Guild rooms of the Episcopal church. The proceeds will be applied on the church debt.

Mrs. Stephen Cutter Clarke and children are back from Redondo. Mr. Clarke is expected from Honolulu Saturday.

Lawyer Wright and family are home from a two weeks outing in Strawberry valley. Mr. and Mrs. Kernaghan and daughter have returned from an extended carriage trip through Los Angeles and San Diego counties.

SAN CLEMENTE.

THE SHEEP MEN HAVE NO LEASE TO THE ISLAND.

A San Diego County Surveyor Enthusias Over the Place—Land as Good as Found Anywhere—The Climate Perfect.

Ex-Supervisor Oscar Macy was seen by a HERALD reporter yesterday and asked about San Clemente island. He stated that the Wool Growers' company in which he was interested had no claim to the island beyond that of using it as a pasture. He did not think, however, that people would care to settle on it to any great extent. The San Diegan, of Monday, contains the following matter apropos:

A good deal of interest is just now being manifested in San Clemente island, which lies forty miles off the coast due west from Del Mar. It has been supposed by most people that the island was personal property through the operation of a Mexican land grant, but a search of the records show that it is ordinary government land, and as open to entry by homesteaders as any other unsurveyed government land. The result of this discovery is that a number of people from Los Angeles have gone "west" to San Clemente and staked out homestead claims. There is also talk here of organizing a party for the same purpose.

Last May County Surveyor Allen, acting as United States deputy surveyor, went to San Clemente with a force of men and run lines for three light house reservations and for a road to connect them all. The island lays somewhat in the form of a pyramid, the north end tapering to quite a narrow point, and the south end or base being broader. A light house reservation was staked off at the two corners of the base or south end, and at the north end, called Schubert's harbor.

Mr. Allen said today his surveys showed the island to be 20 miles long and 2 to 4 miles wide. There are portions of it are plenty high enough to keep people out of the mud, the altitude in places reaching 1900 feet. The shore next to San Diego is almost a wall, the bluffs rising from the water at an angle of 45 feet up to about the highest elevation of the island. From the crest of this bluff the land slopes gently to the water's edge on the west.

The southern third of the island is broken and full of canyons, or valleys, as reservoirs for water caught by winter rains. The northern two-thirds is fairly level, the slope being to the west and north. At the extreme northern end the land is sandy, but the middle belt is of above foundation, "and when I was there," said Surveyor Allen, "was covered with fileria two feet high. There are, in fact," he said, "thousands of acres of a good kind of alfalfa, and there is anywhere in the world, and the climate, tempered by the ocean, is perfect."

Up to a short time ago it was supposed no fresh water could be obtained except that which was caught in the canyons, but a well was then dug and reasonably good water was found. The absence of water is the chief obstacle to a residence and cultivation of the soil, however.

Tom Gallagher has for twenty years been the sole occupant of the land, which has been used as a free sheep pasture by the San Clemente Wool Growers' association.

Indian mounds and relics found there make the place of historic interest.

THE CHICAGO EXHIBIT.

Some Points as to What is Needed to Increase its Effect.

A Southern Californian who has just returned from Chicago furnishes the HERALD with the following statement regarding the permanent exhibit:

San Diego county has sent only three boxes of lemons, a box of oranges and a few potatoes and one squash, for four months. San Diego, with the exception of a package or two of the Great South-west, the Perris Land company and the Coronado Beach company, sends no literature.

San Bernardino has more literature than all the other counties put together, much of which was turned over to Mr. Truman by the orange carnival, including Ontario, Redlands and Bigto, reading matter. It has sent no contribution, however, except two boxes, for four months.

Orange county sends something once or twice or more times a week, and has some good reading matter. Orange county sends more fruits and vegetables than all the other counties.

Los Angeles contributes something attractive every once in a while, and has a fair amount of reading matter. Truman buys something new every week and labels it either from San Diego or San Bernardino county.

The general display from all four of the counties is good and remarkably well preserved and freshly labeled as occasion requires. Each county should send from four to eight small boxes of new dried fruits and raisins, as that of last year is nearly all wormy. A peck or two of corn, wheat and barley should be sent from each county to take the place of last year's. All of these would not cost each county ten dollars. The preserves, jams and jellies all look well, and so do the wines, which are kept in cases that are never opened. Each county should exert itself in sending its vegetables during the next three months, and each should renew its honey. The marsh and oil and olives and guavas from Frank Kimball are conspicuously displayed, and so is the asphaltum and bituminous rock from Los Angeles county and five cases of miscellaneous minerals from South Riverside and everything that can be mentioned from Orange county.

The exhibit never looked so well as at present, as I have seen it a number of times. There is no very big display of fresh fruits at present, except a few full of lemons and oranges from San Diego county. There is a bewildering exhibit of big vegetables, squashes, potatoes, beets, onions, etc., from Orange county sent by M. J. Bundy once or twice a week. Los Angeles makes the next best showing in vegetables. The hall is exceedingly clean and attractive, and everything is arranged artistically and to advantage. All is indiscriminately placed, however, so that one county may not loom up over another. This is a good idea. Go where you will, and you will see articles from each county alongside each other.

The walnuts in frame and the walnuts, almonds and peanuts in pyramid from Orange county, look extremely well to advantage. All is indiscriminately placed, however, so that one county may not loom up over another. This is a good idea. Go where you will, and you will see articles from each county alongside each other.
