

PRETTY PRIMED PRIMARIES.

Republicans Meet and Elect Delegates.

Exciting Contests Which Did Not Occur.

The Machine Had Been Well Oiled and Worked with Little Friction and no Noise—The Delegates Chosen.

The Republican primaries yesterday were marked by a general mildness suggestive of the millennium. All the talk about violent contests resulted in nothing, and the finish shows that the machinery has been well oiled and that the plug-hatted bosses have their heels well in hand.

The expected opposition tickets looked for in all the wards did not materialize. Only in the fourth, the home of H. Z. Osborne and Colonel H. G. Otis, was there any opposition, and even here there was no bloodshed.

FOURTH WARD REPUBLICAN CAUCUS TICKET. H. A. Barclay, 115; H. Z. Osborne, 72; Geo. E. Gard, 88; E. P. Johnson, 113; Fred Eaton, 118; S. H. Kingery, 117; E. W. Jones, 67; E. L. Stern, 117; J. J. Walsh, 55; G. Wiley Wells, 50; T. Smith, 50; J. A. Bernstein, 39; J. A. Thomas, 110; M. T. Allen, 120; J. Frankenstein, 114; Walter Moore, 117; A. W. Eaton, 56; C. B. Tidball, 14.

FOURTH WARD REPUBLICAN TICKET. S. P. Mulford, 67; J. H. Book, 53; N. Francisco, 99; Fred L. Alles, 63; George W. Williamson, 49; C. S. Gilbert, 63; William Raymond, 58; M. J. Magrew, 67.

It appears, therefore, that J. J. Walsh, G. Wiley Wells, J. F. Smith, J. A. Bernstein and A. W. Eaton of the caucus ticket were defeated, and S. P. Mulford, N. Francisco, Fred L. Alles, C. L. Gilbert and M. J. Magrew elected in their places.

Sam Adams made the kick last night that the fire department had scratched his protegee, Johnny Cook, to a man. That meant, as he claimed, fifteen votes, but Col. Walter Moore sat down very promptly upon the insinuation when it reached his ear.

In the second ward there were sixty-four straight ballots for the regular ticket, and Ed Niles covered himself with glory by this showing of political control. Not a single scratch was discovered by the Herald reporter, who was looking hard for one. Mr. Niles did not confine his efforts to his own ward, but was active all over the city. A curious feature of the election was that the second ward, advertised to be in the old court house, was in reality in Mr. Niles's cigar store.

In the seventh ward there were 321 votes, showing that the seventh is the banner stronghold. The successful candidates averaged about 222 votes, the scratched votes not being replaced by substituted ones.

In the eighth Georgie Flint held sway, and had everything his own way. Three or four tickets were scratched so as to leave only three of the names on the regular ticket. One ticket was so terribly mangled that it had to be thrown out. One hundred and forty-three were accepted.

The full list of delegates elected all over the city is as follows:

THE CITY. FIRST WARD—84 VOTES. W. W. Stockwell, F. W. Tyler, A. E. Meigs, L. M. Brown, E. E. Willis, Robert Sharp, Chas. Teel, N. O. Brown, O. N. Raney, E. Munsey, C. J. Fox, W. W. Young, J. M. Tibbitts, George Weeks.

SOCIETY.

The Boyle Heights history class enjoyed an outing yesterday to Verdugo cañon. A merry party left the Terminal depot at 8 o'clock in the morning chaperoned by Mrs. Threlkeld. A delightful day was passed by the young folks. Among those who went along were: Mrs. Threlkeld, Mrs. C. W. Fisher, Mrs. S. Benjamin, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Brinton, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stephens, Misses Haskell, Miss Ethel Cromwell, Miss Rose Hill, Miss Della Bates, Miss Daisy Deason, Miss Artie Henckley, Miss Nellie Watson, Miss Macd Henckley, Miss Maggie Phillips, Miss Effie Wick, Miss Ellen Everett, Miss May Haymond, Miss Grace Sanborn, Miss May Davison, Miss Benjamin, Miss May Thatcher, Miss Abbie Willing, Miss Mamie Hazelton, Miss Nettie Hazelton, Miss Dora King, Miss Clara Chapman, Miss Alice Crowell, Miss Annie Kellam, Miss Hattie Madison, Miss Della Barnes, Miss Winnie Miller, Miss Della Wheaton, Miss Nellie Cowell, Miss May Ausling, Ernest Oliver, Ed Crowell, Alfred Guest, Harry Arnold, Earl Street, Hayward Richardson, Charley Davison, John Korhill, Percy and Davis Benjamin, Mr. George Briton.

There was a large gathering at the home of Mrs. White on Friday evening, the occasion being a birthday party for Misses Grace and Helen White. The evening was spent in games and social conversation. Cake and ice cream were served, soon after which the merry crowd dispersed. Among those present were: Misses Grace and Helen White, Mary Bailey, Edith Owen, Bessie Neice, Grace Bainter, Lydia Deckman, Lillie Shields, Tillie Johnson, Florence Peck, Lottie Towillager, Annie Adams, Winnie and Emma Standiford, Cleora Oeder, Messrs. Seth Hart, Earl Wolf, Tom Kramer, Ed Slaney, Shirley Reese, Percy Ketter, Lawrence and Clara Butler, Arthur Adams, Wilkes and Charles White, Harry Owen, Jim Staniford; Mr. and Mrs. White, Mrs. Bainter, Miss Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Oeder and Mrs. Peck.

Mirrors Made of Wood. In Germany wood with a mirror polish is coming into use as a substitute for metal in the finishing of ornamental work. In order to make the wood susceptible to a polish of this order it must first be submitted to a bath of caustic alkali for two days, the bath being kept at a temperature of 175 degrees Fahr. all the while. Next it is soaked in a solution of hydrosulphate of calcium for from twenty-four to thirty-nine hours. The third dip is into a bath of concentrated solution of sulphur. The final dip is into a solution of acetate of lead at a temperature of 100 degrees.

After being thoroughly dried the wood is ready to have the metallic surface imparted to it, which is done by giving it a rubbing with finely powdered lead, tin or zinc. Wood treated in the above manner, it is said, will take a polish almost equal to that so often imparted to steel, silver or nickel.—St. Louis Republic.

Culture in Boston. "Is it" wondered a New York woman just returned from Boston, "because of the use of the sounds of 'a' and 'o' which we are accustomed to associate with cultivated speech that Boston saleswomen seem such refined and attractive persons? They seem a race of gentlewomen, and it was a positive pleasure to be served by them. I noticed also that their hands and nails were beautifully kept, and many of them really did wear eyeglasses. As to that, however, I got in two different horse cars whose drivers had a very scholarly look from the same cause, and a sign posted conspicuously on Boston Common read, 'Professor Brown, Artistic Bootblack.' I begin to believe the stories of the culture of the masses in Boston."—New York Times.

Character Shown in Thumbs. There is as much character in the thumbs of people as in their faces. A long first joint of the thumb indicates strong logical or reasoning power; a wide, thick thumb indicates strong individuality, while a broad knob at the end of the thumb is a sure indication of obstinacy. The thumb is the characteristic feature of the human hand, a characteristic in which it differs from the hand of the monkey, and of all parts of the hand no one is so strongly individual or telltale as the thumb.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Arabs, when they wish to reproprove their most forcible malediction, say, "May thy soul know no more rest than the hat on the head of a European!" The hats of kings and emperors must have been specially in their minds when they framed this curse.

The Best Baking Powder.

The Official Government Reports:

The United States Government, after elaborate tests, reports the ROYAL BAKING POWDER to be of greater leavening strength than any other. (Bulletin 13, Ag. Dep., p. 599.)

The Canadian Official Tests, recently made, show the ROYAL BAKING POWDER highest of all in leavening strength. (Bulletin 10, p. 16, Inland Rev. Dep.)

In practical use, therefore, the ROYAL BAKING POWDER goes further, makes purer and more perfect food, than any other.

POMONA NEWS NOTES.

FIGHT AGAINST THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS TICKET.

A Couple of Important Real Estate Sales—The Coming Flower Show. News and Personal Notes.

POMONA, April 23.—The Republican caucus nominees for delegates to the county convention were elected today by a heavy majority. There was no fight on except in one precinct, where an opposition ticket was put up against Senator McComas, General Wasson and Mr. Pratt, but the opposition was not strong enough by about two to one.

The Occidental chloride of gold institute has leased a building on the corner of Rebecca and Third streets and is now ready for business.

The college nine and the Pasadena nine crossed bats at Claremont today. The college boys won by a score of 7 to 2.

Lu Cathcart, one of our young men, was married this week at Berkeley to Miss Amy Green.

Dr. Fairchild is sending some fine specimens of his marble to Chicago.

The splendid reports of the Santa Barbara flower fair, which appear in the Herald, has the effect to stimulate our people to extra exertions in arranging the Pomona fair, so that it will be in all possible particulars equal to the very best.

Two gigantic real estate deals were consummated today. The eighty-acre orange grove of M. M. Balbridge at Covina was bought by Col. George Rhorer of this city and his brother Henry Rhorer of St. Louis. The price paid was $70,000, and this is considered very much below its actual value, as the orchard is in full bearing, being principally navel, planted and cared for under the special supervision of Mr. Balbridge from the planting of the seed bed, the budding and the planting in the orchard until the present, and it is pronounced the finest orange grove in all Southern California by those who have seen it. We are glad to enroll them among our citizens.

Mrs. Loop, wife of C. F. Loop, is again dangerously ill.

REDLANDS.

News Notes from the Infant Wonder City.

REDLANDS, April 23.—The Choral society would be pleased to see their friends at the rehearsal in Woodman hall on Monday night.

Where is that baseball club Charley Brown was about to organize? We thought he would have it in running order by now, but since he returned from some of the games played by the Angels he is inclined to believe Redlands is not "swifit enough."

Ed Baker, secretary of the Redlands Democratic club, reports a large number of new signers.

W. C. Butler leaves today for the Bear valley dam on inspection matters. The consolidation of the Sloan house and Windsor hotel dining rooms is announced to take effect May 1st. This change has been caused by the improvements to take place at the Sloan house to make room for the new quarters of the First National bank, which will occupy the entire lower floor.

So far about $1700 has been subscribed towards the new Y. M. C. A. building. This is pretty good for three days' work, and at that rate it will take long to raise the $12,000 necessary to commence the erection of a handsome $20,000 edifice.

Mrs. Carrier and her daughter, Fannie, who are from Detroit, Mich., but at present visiting in West Riverside, drove over to Redlands Friday to see their old friend, S. E. Andrews.

The Native Sons will be here in full force on Wednesday morning, and all owners of conveyances should meet the young boys at the depot and give them a cordial welcome.

Our genial friend, L. P. Donlittle, one of the patentees of the Goldman hose coupler, expects to start next week on a tour through the state in the interest of this useful little contrivance.

George A. Cook and A. E. Tuttle are on a fishing tour up the Santa Ana waters.

Washing Little Indians.

We were camped at the Hot Springs on the Lo Lo trail, made famous in Indian annals by the escape of Chief Joseph and his band of Nez Perces. Just above us was a large camp of Flatheads who were making their fall hunt. One morning we were awakened by shouts and cries. Evidently there was great excitement somewhere, and we promptly jumped up. It was just after daylight and cold clouds of steam were rising from the big basin shaped pool at the foot of the granite wall, from which poured a thick stream of boiling water. The pool was so large that at the lower edge the water was almost cold. The nearer you approached to the place where the water burst from the rock the better chance you stood of getting boiled.

At the edge, a point where the water was of a comfortable temperature, stood two Indians, one on the bank and the other on a stone in the water. Near by were a dozen other Indians guarding a number of little Indian boys and girls who had nothing on and were howling and crying.

When we looked out of the tent the two Indians at the pool had an Indian boy, one holding him by the feet the other by the hands, and were gravely swinging him backward and forward through the warm water, while he yelled at every dip. As soon as they had finished with him he was set upon the bank, and ran to the willow brush near by.

Then the willo redoubled, for each child in the group guarded by the Indians feared that it was his turn. They all tried to escape to the brush, but their elders pursued and caught them, until the very last one had been put through the cleansing process.—New York Sun.

Big Field Guns and Their Effect.

If you insist on high velocity you have to add so much additional machinery to your gun carriage and have to so greatly strengthen its construction that you destroy its mobility, while even if you gain a long range you are still unable to make use of your most efficient projectile at it. Moreover, since the remaining velocity of its shrapnel is a truer measure of the value of a gun than its initial velocity, and the two are by no means directly proportional, it does not follow that we benefit as much as we might expect by submitting to these disadvantages. Thus, the 12-pounder has an initial velocity of over 1,700 feet per second and a remaining velocity at 3,000 yards of 863 feet; while the 13-pounder, with an initial velocity of only 1,560 feet, has at the same range a remaining velocity greater by six feet per second than that of its rival.

One of our highest authorities on field artillery has, indeed, recorded his opinion, that, as regards the efficiency of shrapnel, we gain nothing by the increased muzzle velocity of "the best field gun in Europe" at all practical ranges. Moreover, it is the attempt to squeeze out the last few extra feet that does all the harm.—London Saturday Review.

Modern Education.

With all its novel modern powers and practical sense I am forced to admit that the purely scientific brain is miserably mechanical; it seems to have become a splendid sort of self directed machine, an incredible automaton, grinding on with its analysis or constructions. But for pure sentiment, for all that spontaneous Greek waywardness of fancy, for the temperature of passion and the subtler thrill of ideality, you might as well look to a wrought iron derrick.

Science found education blundering peacefully along, cultivating half of the mind with charming results and letting the other die of disuse; it worked the startling miracle of electrifying this dead half into life and bringing it to perfect activity, and straightway, satisfied with this remarkable achievement, it proceeded to neglect the ideal half which the classics had made so much of and caused it to perish. It has substituted a new sort of half mar for the old one.—Clarence King in Forum.

Skill in the Wrist.

It is wonderful what a part the wrist plays in exercises in which physical skill and delicacy are required. After a man learns to play billiards well enough to be familiar with the cushions and the English, the important thing to cultivate is his stroke. It is the hardest thing about billiard playing to get a good stroke, and sometimes the greatest players "fall down" because they lose control of it. Now, the stroke wholly depends on the action of the wrist. Jake Schaeffer, or any good player, will make a shot of seven cushions with less apparent force than a beginner will exert in getting three. This is due to the superior wrist movement.

It's the same way with violin playing. The quality and touch all depend on wrist manipulation. So with curving a baseball. Great pitchers always work a strong wrist movement on the ball as it leaves the hand. If they didn't it wouldn't curve at all.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HOTELS MUST COME TO IT.

Mr. Merrifield Tells of Funny Things About Future Hotel Keeping.

"The day will come, and long before we date our letters 1919, when the hotels in this country will have improvements which will make the guests feel that they have nothing to find fault with. Certainly that will be a great period—a surprising one to the much abused hotel keeper."

E. L. Merrifield, president of the Hotel Keepers' association, looked very serious as he uttered these words, "What will those improvements be? Many, very many; but just now I will mention only one or two, lest some hotels begin the new styles before people are used to the change from one system to another. Here's one, for instance: The hotels will be so big in a few years that when a guest gets up, say on the twenty-ninth floor, he'll find as he steps out of the elevator that his room is a quarter of a mile away, counting all the halls and corners he'll have to travel through before he gets there.

"Well, the halls will be broad, and electric cars, light and airy as wicker baskets, will pass along every few minutes. All he will have to do when he gets on his floor is to press a button—the car will do the rest. It will whirl down his way with the conductor at the wheel like any cable car outdoors at present, pick him up and—he's in his room before he's had time to say Jack Robinson.

"You smile. I don't, for I'm serious. More than that, hotels will probably have private elevators for every large parlor room on top floors after the electric car gets 'behind the age.'"

"Take space? Of course. But what of that? The hotel keeper is supposed to be the only man who must spend all he makes to benefit his guests. He does not work for a living, like ordinary men. Not he; his fate from boyhood is mapped out to do everything he can to make others happy at his expense. But to resume. The private elevator of each room will be soon followed if not accompanied by pneumatic tubes for trunks and baby carriages with the babies in them, and smaller ones for letters and bundles.

"More than that. A visitor will, I feel certain, be shot up through the tubes after the guests have seen their cards and piped down. 'All right, send him up.' It will be very stagelike to see an apparent closet door fly open quickly and the friend of your better days in full dress and hat in hand step out as one does in and out of a carriage in the street and greet you with a smile, 'How are you, old man?' or words to that effect.

"Then think of the way overtaxed tailors can be avoided, too, by their customers among the guests who have 'forgotten' to settle up. How? Easily. There will be no hotel registry, for the moment a guest is assigned to a room he will probably walk up to a machine, rattle over a few keys with a pen, write his name, and just as he signs it it will appear on a card on the inside of the proprietor's private office. Names are signed miles away now by wire or dispatches. Well, hotel men are close at hand in this signature business. I hope to live long enough to see all the improvements."

Mr. Merrifield's eyes twinkled as he concluded: "When the Hotel Keepers' association meets one of these great improvements is to be tested. Which one it will be I don't know yet, but that the electric car in the hallways is a near future event in hotel improvements is a dead certainty."—New York Herald.

An Awkward Blunder.

At a certain court of justice an awkward blunder was made by the prisoner in the dock. He was being tried for murder and the evidence was almost wholly circumstantial, a chief portion of it being a hat of the ordinary "billycock" pattern that had been found close to the scene of the crime, and which, moreover, was sworn to as the prisoner's. Counsel for the defense expatiated upon the commonness of hats of the kind.

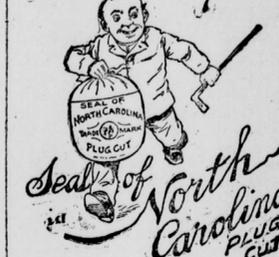

"You, gentlemen," he said, "no doubt each of you has just such a hat as this. Beware, then, how you condemn a fellow creature on such a piece of evidence, and so forth. In the end the man was acquitted, but just as he was leaving the dock he turned in a respectful manner to the judge and said, 'If you please, my lord, may I have my hat?'"—London Public Opinion.
