J. H. Marston vs. Wm. L. Lay. Defendant withdraws his plea of plene compungit and confesses judgment quod compulet.

One Michael Humes has commenced a singular suit in the Circuit Court at St. Louis. It is against his guardian, a man named James Graham. He alleges that he was placed under Graham's care when he was only eight years old, and instead of being sent to school was made to work on the farm. He continued this work for ten years or from 1855 to 1865, when he left. He is now he says, unable to either read or write, and he asks $2,000 for the work he performed during ten years, and $2,000 damages for the alleged neglect in not sending him to school.
