Financial. With money at 2 and 3 per cent. on call in Wall street, domestic goods of all kinds lower than ever known before, much lower than they can be produced even at present starvation wages—Leather, Lumber and Coal, our own great staples, being sold at ruinous sacrifices, who shall say that the bottom has not at last been reached. Once on a firm foundation it requires no prophet to foresee that the elastic energies of our great country will not long lie dormant. Business must revive, and prices must soon be better. But in the meantime, while at the bottom, goods, a few of which are enumerated below, are being sold for cash, at the astonishingly low prices named. For instance: at

Local Notes.

The weather is growing warmer. For flower pots go to 42 Main St. Best marrow beans at Morgester's. For wheelbarrows go to 42 Main street. This has been a busy week for Ridgway. Canvassed Hams a good quality at Morgester's. The walls for the new court house are fast reaching their level. Trout fishing is now indulged in to a great extent by our citizens. A Joint resolution has been passed by the Pennsylvania Legislature to adjourn on June 6th.

The new tramp law published in these columns a few weeks since has been approved by Gov. Hoyt and is now the law of the State. We understand that the Catholic society of this place intend having a picnic on the Fourth of July. Further particulars next week. Many persons have a bad headache every few days. It can be stopped in one hour by Dr. Day's Cure for Headache. Prepared by D. B. Day, Ridgway Pa. Last week's frosts injured the fruit slightly in Horton and Fox townships. At this place no great amount of damage was done, although it was found necessary to put that discarded quilt again on the bed.

D. S. Andrus & Co., Williamsport, Pa., are prepared to sell a good organ now for $75.00 cash. 7 stops and beautiful case, and they are fully warranted by them, which is a sure mark of their merit. Send them your orders and you will not be disappointed. Company H will parade on Decoration Day (to-morrow) at 4 o'clock P. M. Members of the company will assemble at the armory wearing the new regulation uniform and the leather waist belt and old cartridge box. Those not having these equipments can be supplied by calling on Captain Schoening.

The act providing for the completion of the equipment of the National Guard of this State having passed both branches of the Legislature, has been approved by the Governor and is now a law. The law provides for furnishing each man, free of expense, with a complete equipment the same as now required in the regular army of the U. S., including overcoat, knapsack or clothing bag, blanket, haversack, etc. Michael O'Herin has been sentenced to eight years in the Western Penitentiary and pay a fine of $100. O'Herin, it will be remembered, is the man who, in a drunken frenzy, on the night of February 15th, threw a lighted lamp at his wife, who had a babe in her arms, injuring both so badly that they died from the effects of their injuries. He says that he is haunted constantly by his wife, and that his life is a torment.

Gen. H. S. Hudekoper, commanding the Fifth Brigade, N. G. P., is preparing a manual of service for the instruction of his command which, when completed will be of great value to every member of the Guard. The work will make a handy volume of about one hundred pages, in which in plain terms will be given full details of all information needed by the citizen soldier. It is the intention of the General to place a copy of the manual in the hands of every man in his brigade free of charge. Judge Whitmore, and son Jonnie were watering some plants in the new cemetery, during the dry spell of two weeks ago, when it will be remembered a sudden storm came up accompanied by thunder and lightning. A bolt struck a pine tree within two rods of them, setting it on fire. Judge Whitmore says he felt the effects of the shock, and it seemed as though some one was pressing heavily on top of his head. Jonnie was considerably scared. It was, indeed, a narrow escape from a sudden death.

Table and pocket cutlery - at 42 Main street. A contest has been commenced for a B. W. Raymond watch, 3oz. gold cases, stem-winder and patent adjusted, between Messrs. Fred Schoening of this place and J. L. Murphy of Wilcox. Proceeds for the benefit of the Catholic church here. The time when the contest will be decided has not as yet been fixed. As both gentlemen are very popular and have numerous friends the contest no doubt will be an exciting one. The gentleman with the most votes at a dollar each gets the prize. Good tomatoes 10 cents a can at M's. Of the diseases incident to humanity none is more appalling than glanders. A dreadful case occurred in London last month. A physician reported that he saw the young girl in a hospital. A portion of her head was eaten away and the bone exposed in two places. The magistrate who examined the case said that he knew an engineer who died from glanders in three days, in consequence of the horse attached to a cab in which he was conveyed throwing off some matter which fell upon him. Twenty years ago a lady of high rank in Paris was carrying her beautiful carriage horses. She had a tiny wound in her hand and a little glandered matter from the horse's nostril got upon it. She died in dreadful convulsions. It was much better to put a piece of plaster over broken skin, however small.

Personal Chit-chat.

An $80 watch and THE ADVOCATE one year for $1.50. Do you hear? Judge Whitmore lost a cow the other day by a tree falling on it. B. T. Chapin and wife, of Brockwayville, are visiting friends in town. A. W. Irwin of Spring Creek township, has moved to Richardsville, Jefferson county. Captain Schoening's joy is now complete, a son having arrived at his residence very recently. Jas. H. Ross has resigned the lucrative and pleasant position of town clerk. The court will appoint a successor. Postmaster Hagerly requests us to mention to the gentleman who borrowed his fish pole and basket that their return would be rewarded by the thanks of the disconsolate owner, or words to that effect. Now, if you have borrowed those fishing utensils return them without delay.

A little daughter of Michael Russell, one of the workmen employed in the tannery of A. H. Cray & Co., fell head foremost into a tub of boiling water, on Friday afternoon, and was terribly scalded over the head, shoulders and arms. The mother of the child had just emptied the boiler of hot water into the tub, and merely turned to replace the boiler on the stove, when the accident happened. The little girl was an active and bright child, about eighteen months old. She died, from her injuries, on Saturday afternoon.—Westfield Free Press.

State Notes.

The gardeners of West Chester announce the potato bug prompt to time. The Pennsylvania railroad is carrying on an average of 1,500 emigrants a day. A wolf was trapped within a few miles of Crescon, on the Allegheny mountains, last week. The Montgomery Iron Company at Fort Kennedy are making repairs to their furnace preparatory to going into blast. There is talk at Pittsburgh of a private company taking and running the new water works there to lessen taxation. These works cost about $4,000,000. The Delaware County Agricultural Society has purchased the Fairland farm, Middletown township, as a site for exhibitions, and will at once proceed to improve. The authorities of Bradford, McKean county are trying to break up the gambling houses there. Last week a stranger lost thirteen hundred dollars in one of these places. Gernon Dickinson of West Pike-land township, Chester county, has lost within a short time four cows with pleuro-pneumonia, and others are suffering with the same disease. Mrs. Wren and Mrs. Howell were drowned by the upsetting of a small boat on the West branch of the Susquehanna, near Kopp's Siding, above Sunbury, on Monday afternoon. While the body of Mrs. Sylvester Bronley, of East Troy, Crawford Co., who was supposed to be dead, was being prepared for the grave she came to and lived two days afterward. Great excitement exists among the oil men in McKean county over the discovery of a well at Gobbler City that, after having been bored three bits in the sand, showed 700 feet of oil in the hole. Michael O'Hara of New Philadelphia, Schuylkill county, has had a gold watch that was stolen from him fourteen years ago returned by the thief, who acknowledges that he is conscience stricken. Gen. W. W. H. Davis and H. C. Michener of Doylestown, will start at an early day upon a footpad trip through the coal regions. They expect to escape the penalties of the new tramp law by wearing good clothes. Peter Robinson of Scranton was at the bottom of a coal shaft when a drill fell and struck him on the head. He got into the carriage to ascend, but when about sixty feet up he fainted, fell out of the carriage and was dashed to pieces. The citizens of Pittsburgh propose to erect a monument to Abraham Lincoln, in Allegheny Park, at a cost of $90,000. The design which will probably be used is the one with Mr. Lincoln seated and holding the Emancipation Proclamation in his hand. In the case of Francis M. Kane, of Norristown, indicted and convicted of selling liquor on election day the Supreme Court, in reviewing the decision of the lower court, affirms that "election day" means twenty-four hours, and not during the time that the polls are open; also "that the jurors are the judges of the law and the facts."

Three boys, hungry and travel-stained, arrived in Pittsburgh late on Friday night from Kansas, having tramped a good deal of the way. They went out with a party of thirty-three boys that Mr. Whitelaw Reid was instrumental in sending from New York. They were apprenticed to farmers, but said they could not stand the diet, consisting of corn bread and sour belly, with a cup of sour milk thrown in once and a while. It is said that all the thirty-three boys are either back in New York or on their way. Among the many articles sent to the Allegheny County Commissioners, after the riot, as property stolen from the burning freight cars, was a family bible, which at the time of the sale it was thought best to keep until claimed. It is still at the Commissioners' Office awaiting the coming of its owner. As it contains a family record of births and deaths, it may be of peculiar value to those who have lost it. The record consists of the parents' names, which are Jas. S. Sabridge and Susan E. Mount; five children, Joseph, John, Henry, William and Carrie; and three obituaries. The last local date was in Johnstown, Cambria county, 1871. Stowell's Petroleum Reporter gives the following statistics of the oil trade for April: Producing wells at the close of April, 10,782, an increase in April of 90; wells completed, 270, against 338 in March; wells drilling, 468, being 62 more than in March; rigs up, 412, a decrease in April of 41; dry holes developed, 16, a decrease of 6. Total production in April, 1,507,650 barrels; daily average for the month, 50,265 barrels; daily average increase in April, 2,650 barrels; daily average production of the new wells in April, 24 3/5 barrels; average daily production of all wells for the month, 43-5 barrels. Shipments in April, 1,130,188 barrels, an increase of 162,209 over March. Stock in the producing regions, 666,611 barrels, an increase of 371,762; stock in Pittsburgh April 1, 349,371 barrels.

A man bought some of the $10 Government certificates at the Cincinnati office, and missed one after retiring from the window. He could find it nowhere. "Give me a dollar and I'll get it for you," said a boy. The offer was accepted. The boy yanked another urehin out of the line, and choked him until he opened his mouth, from which the hidden certificate dropped out.

Exposing Corruption.

Harrisburg, May 21.—The investigation is on its last legs, so far as an examination of witnesses is concerned. There is no telling, however, what may turn up unexpectedly, even at the last moment. There were some important disclosures to-day which surprised even Wolfe, so well had the members approached kept their own counsel. Maclay, who brought out something fresh about Petroff and Salter, and Miller, who gave Kinble about the worst blow he received, have positively resisted all opportunities to indicate the tenor of their testimony in advance. Both are sensitive as well as honorable men, and do not care to be mixed up in the matter, even in the best of characters, if it were possible to keep out of it. Four members have now made more or less direct charges of corrupt solicitation against Kemble, but the committee has so far declined to give Kemble's own testimony to the public, or rather the House has declined to allow a member of the committee to move that the whole testimony shall be printed and the official report of Kemble's is not to be allowed to go out by itself. Rumberger is fastened down by the testimony of Silvertorn, whose honesty is vouched for by Wolf, Short, Underwood and others. Petroff, of Philadelphia, is implicated by Watson, of Mercer, and Maclay of Millin, while detective Franks makes a minor charge against him of rowdiness in connection with the matter under investigation. George F. Smith, Philadelphia, is confronted by charges of solicitation made by Knitte, of Columbia and Luzerne. E. H. Clark, of Philadelphia, rests under a like charge, made by Foster, of Lehigh, and Sherwood, of York, is arraigned by his colleague, Bowman. Ex-Representative Salter is accused by many witnesses of being Kemble's "go-between," and several smaller fish have not been able to pass through the net. Altogether, twenty-four Representatives say they were corruptly approached in one way or another to secure their support of the riot bill, and nineteen have stated under oath they were offered money, directly or indirectly. Two thousand dollars was the highest and three hundred the lowest price of votes, according to the reports of these members. This is an outline in brief of the results of the investigation to date, but there are many details within every reader's memory that will go farther to show that it was very well that it was undertaken, and that Wolfe's labor of love has not gone for nothing.

The death of William Lloyd Garrison, the veteran abolitionist, occurred in New York last Saturday evening about 11 o'clock. He had been ill for some time, and his death was not unexpected. He was 74 years old on the 12th day of December. He was born at Newburyport, and served an apprenticeship to a shoemaker, and then engaged in the newspaper business. In 1829 he became editor of the National Philanthropist, a temperance paper of Boston. Soon after he began the agitation for the emancipation of the slaves in this country. He was bold and aggressive, and soon earned a national reputation. For his utterances on this subject he was imprisoned on a nominal charge of libel, but Arthur Tappan, the New York merchant paid his fine and he was released. In 1831 he began the publication of the Liberator, which he continued for thirty-four years. The story of the persecutions which he endured for the rights is too well known to require repetition.

Pennsylvania has long furnished all the contiguous States with building timber, and has exported a vast amount to foreign countries. Whenever some colossal structure is to be erected in any part of the country, the forests of the northwestern section of the State are under contribution for the beams and girders. There is hardly an important public building or bridge in the East, or possibly in the West, that does not contain Pennsylvania timber. Recently the forests of Northern Michigan have been drawn upon for long beams, but until within the last ten years the only tree available for this purpose had to be floated down the west branch of the Susquehanna. The tremendous drain on the forests, near to the rafting streams, of Pennsylvania has robbed them of all their tall trees, and the lumbermen must now go further up the creeks and into the more inaccessible nooks in order to find the stately pines which used to cover the whole region of their sturdy growth. The Philadelphia Press, accordingly, calls for measures to prevent the wanton destruction of the forests of the State.

A writer in the British Medical Journal, in a communication to the editor in regard to the possible cause of the recent outbreak of an epidemic of sore throat at Darmstadt, says: It is well known that women and children are in the habit of kissing pet cats and dogs, especially when these favorites are ill with discharge from the nose, cough, and sore throat, and even use their pocket handkerchiefs to wipe away the secretion. I have seen this done frequently. As such mistaken sympathy is exceedingly dangerous, I think a notice in the Journal to this effect would tend to its discouragement. It is a common saying that, "There! the cat has got a cold; now it will go through the house; and, as this remark has been repeatedly verified, it shows how careful people should be to avoid contact with such a mode of contagion. I do not affirm that this was the way in which the disease was contracted, either within or without the palace walls, but I feel sure the habit of kissing pets is a source of danger that should be widely known and prevented."
