

of the troops engaged in their respective lines for the winter defence, comprehending arms and every other article belonging to the public in their possession.

With deep regret the commander in chief announces the death of Major Watkins, of the Maryland line, and Lieut. Jones, of the Virginia line, both of whom in their several stations, ably and honorably discharged their duties—to their memory we will pay the highest tribute of respectful condolence—they must be buried with the honors of war, and attended to the grave conformably to their rank.—This last homage of profound respect, the commander in chief presents to their manes as the highest testimony, he can give of his sense of the merit of fellow soldiers, who fell victims to the toils and sufferings, to which the virtuous army under his command was unavoidably subjected, in the course of a campaign undertaken to stop the progress of anarchy, and to perpetuate to their fellow citizens the inestimable blessings of order and good government.

November 21.

The commander in chief has directed me, in the most public manner, to declare his surprise and mortification, in discovering that some of the magistrates with whom have been deposited books for the purpose of enabling the citizens of this district to manifest their attachment to their government, by taking the oath of allegiance, and subscribing an association, as recommended in his address of the 8th instant, have assumed the privilege of annexing fees to their agency. This conduct is so repugnant to the system he has strenuously endeavoured to establish, as well as so opposite to that spirit of affection and kindness, which he is anxious to inculcate and diffuse among the inhabitants, that he feels himself obligated at once to stop the practice, and hereby requires all magistrates who will not officiate without fee or reward, to return the books in their possession, that they may be otherwise placed.—Should any monies be necessarily expended in printing the certificates to be given by them to the people who may comply with his recommendation, he considers himself answerable for it, and will, on production of the accounts, discharge the same.

PHILADELPHIA,
DECEMBER 6.

From a Correspondent.

If the state of things in Great Britain is to be judged of from the representations of some of the London papers, they are a most miserably distracted and divided people—not the success of their own fleets and armies are subjects of congratulation, but those of their enemies.

In the United States also, there are newspapers which perpetually exhibit the Government of this country in the most deplorable colours—if foreign Countries had only such mediums of information respecting us, they would shrink from a view of the first fair experiment to promote the happiness of man by a representative government.

By the sloop New-York packet, Capt. Bell, arrived here yesterday, in 17 days from Guadaloupe, we have the following intelligence.—That the French have conquered every part of the island except Fort Charles, near the town of Basseterre, which the British commander offered to surrender on condition that the French aristocrats in the garrison should be spared their lives, which the republicans refused, and were about storming the fort when captain Bell failed; that upon the taking of Basseterre the British frigates and merchantmen split their cables and were towed out to sea;—and that a sloop of war arrived in 30 days from France, informing that six sail of the line, with several thousand troops were coming out to reinforce the French general whose force already amounted to upwards of 10,000 and bro't orders for all the French privateers to be taken into the service of the Republic.

POLITICAL METHODISM

Walking Stewart, who is famous for writing books that few read, and none can understand, has been, to no effect, some time giving his advice to government.

In his "Tocfin of Great Britain," he recommends the confederate powers to issue a manifesto, of which the following paragraph is a specimen; but which we apprehend, even the French with all their extravagance and occasional obscenity, would be apt to suppose proceeded from the man in the moon. "In the sacred name of universal good enlightened by the intelligence of progressive truth, sensible that all modes of being are co-existent and co-essential parts of our great integer, whose energies operate in their respective spheres, communicable in motional direction rendering thereby every sphere the final and independent director of its own collective energies produce the greatest quantity of good to self and nature in time and eternity, measured by and related to the circumferences of its own orbit we the potentates of Europe, looking upon ourselves as the central and promoting energy of the sensitive sphere of existence, by this manifesto make known the purity of our intentions, and the expansions of our consciences, enlightened by the knowledge of itself, &c. &c.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR December 5th, 1794.

The citizens of America fixing in their mind as an indelible truth that obedience to the laws, and the defence of their country, are sacred and indispensable duties, will render its freedom and happiness perpetual.

The President embraces cordially the present occasion to tender your Excellency thanks for your zealous & powerful co-operation in the suppression of the late insurrection, as well for your exertions in calling out the militia, as for your services in the field.

BALTIMORE, December 4.

A band of patriots arrived yesterday in town, from their glorious and bloodless campaign. They were welcomed from the rugged mountains of the west, to the arms of peace, by their fellow-citizens, with the most lively emotions of joy and gratitude. Their voluntary service and meritorious sufferings in the cause of their constitution and country, must render the name of a Stodder and his brave company of Fell's Point Artillery, ever grateful to their fellow-citizens of Baltimore. May such an illustrious example of heroic virtue and patriotism, create in the breasts of Americans, a virtuous zeal to face the hardships of a campaign, and, in preserving their rights from violence, "deserve well of their country."

KNOXVILLE, November 1.

We learn from Georgia, that General Irvine, by order of Governor Mathews, has removed General Clark and his lawless party from off the Indian lands south of the Oconee river, and burnt the block-house and other buildings which he had erected.

ALBANY, Nov. 27.

THE GENESEE TREATY,

We are informed, has terminated much to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of the United States, and of the Six nations of Indians, who have relinquished all right and title to the Pre-Qu' Ile-Territory and a tract of land four miles wide, from Johnston's landing to fort Slaafer including the fort of Niagara, and also granted to the United States the right of passing and repassing through their country.

MARTINSBURG, Dec. 1.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Richmond to another in this town, dated Nov. 23.

"In the canvass which took place for the chief magistrate's office, a misunderstanding arose between Lieutenant-Governor Wood and Mr. Madison, of Botetourt; a challenge was given by Mr. Madison and accepted by Mr. Wood, and on Thursday a shot was fired by which no damage was done, except Mr. Wood's hand being hurt by his own pistol. They stood only 8 paces apart; the seconds (Steel and Prellon) interfered and settled the dispute to the satisfaction of both parties, without a second fire."

NEW-YORK, December 4.

Monday morning last, about two o'clock, the door of a dry good shop, the corner of William and Ann-streets, was forced open by some villain, whose intention, no doubt, was robbery. He however, was prevented from effecting his design, by alarming one of the persons in forcing the door, who luckily happened to be awake, and who immediately alarmed the house.—They flew to the window which was over the door, looked out, and saw a man crossing the street from the door, which he had really opened. In order to watch his motions, the persons of the house remained silently concealed. He, after about five minutes, supposing he had occasioned no alarm, returned, entered the door, and opened his dark lantern, which enabled them to see him. They again ran to the window, and alarmed the neighbours with the cry of fire. The robber extinguished his light, and made his escape, without taking anything. The conjecture was, that he must have had accomplices, who, had it not been for a providential circumstance, would, in all probability, have ruined the industrious and deserving. If such consequences could be evaded by the vigilance of our city watch, it is a pity some measures were not put in force, that would tend to prevent the repetition of such villainous attempts.

A Parody on Pope's ode to SOLITUDE.

HAPPY the man, who free as air,
By auptial ties no longer bound,
With dearest wife lays every care
Low under ground.

Who herds with fops, sips tea with toasts;
Airy, and gay, in his attire;
Whole pride, in age, and winter's frost,
Can yield him fire.

Blest, who can unconcern'dly find
Days, hours, and years, glide soft away:
Who jokes, and laughs: with vacant
mind,
Though hairs grow grey.

No sleep by night—dancing and drink
Together mixt, sweet recreation!
And making love, which wittlings think
Gives reputation.

Thus let me live, thus dance through life,
Thus, unconnected, let me die:
Steal from the world, without a wife
TO LAUGH or CRY!

MR. FENNO,

THE Democratic Societies have been of one mind in supporting the principles and measures of the true patriots in Congress who have attempted to overthrow the corrupt money system, and to resist the fatal progress of treasury instrumentality. The resolves of the clubs bear honorable testimony in favor of the wisdom of the famous commercial plan. They have made some of the leaders in that business honorary members of their society.

They have a right therefore to look for the spirited support and protection of the republican members of Congress who have thus been honored by the societies with such peculiar marks of distinction. To have abandoned the interests of the societies in the day of their adversity and disgrace, would have been equally timid and ungrateful.—The thanks of the republican societies will no doubt be given in form to certain gentlemen on their next attendance with their brethren.
