PERSONAL.

T. H. Jones, of South Main avenue, was at Scranton yesterday.

James W. Davenport, of Shamokin, was a Scranton visitor yesterday.

Miss Katie Melloy, of Mahanoy City, is visiting friends in Providence.

Joseph P. Phillips, city engineer, is at Beaver Falls inspecting the iron work of the proposed Parker street bridge.

C. G. Garrison, connected with the Edison Electric works, at Schenectady, N. Y., visited Scranton friends yesterday.

Miss Bicknell, formerly clerk under tax collector Worthington, has gone to Chicago to prepare for missionary work, at the Moody institute.

The Philadelphia Inquirer of yesterday says: "W. H. Peck, cashier of the Third National bank of Scranton, and one of that city's most progressive business men, is at the Girard house."

The Shenandoah Herald says: "Miss Carrie W. Faust has resigned her position as teacher in the White street school building and will leave for Scranton on Monday next, to accept a position in the Colliery Engineer office. Miss Faust's mother will move to Scranton on April 1st."

A sleighing party comprising Mr. and Mrs. Harrie Lillie, Mrs. Justine Lazarus, and Miss Lazarus, the Misses Schooley, Miss Pierce, and Messrs. Miller, Schooley, Lewis and Bechtold, drove from Pittston Thursday evening and were entertained by Mrs. L. S. Richard, on Quincey avenue.

Attorney S. M. Reynolds, of Terra Haute, Ind., called on old friends in this city yesterday. Mr. Reynolds formerly resided in this city, but several years ago went to Findlay, O., where he was interested in the oil business. After a time he went to Terra Haute, where he now practices law. He is a brother of Attorney H. C. Reynolds, of this city.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Eugene O'Rourke, who is well and favorable known, not only as a clever delineator of Irish character, but as an excellent singer and agile dancer, will make his second appearance here this evening at the Academy of Music. He will present the Irish comedy-drama specially written for him by the actor-author, Mark Price, entitled "The Wicklow Postman."

SALVINI

A feature of the appearance of the world famous Salvini at the Academy on Monday evening in "The Three Guardsmen" will be the fact that nothing belonging to the local theater will be seen in the production, even the stage furniture is carried in the company's baggage cars. The supporting company includes such artists as William Redmond, John A. Lane, William Harris, Eleanor Moratti, Augusta de Forrest and Miss Maude Dixon.

THE DAZZLER

If the word music can be applied to any comedian on the stage today, and fit him better than it does Joseph A. Ott, of "The Dazzler," we don't know who he is. He is original in every movement and expression, and audiences are convulsed with laughter at his mere appearance on the stage. At the Academy on Tuesday next.

NEWS FROM CHURCHES

The Leading Events of the Week in Scranton's Religious Circles.

WHAT THE CITY PASTORS ARE DOING

Rev. J. G. Evans, of the Welsh Baptist Church of Oliphant to Be Installed Next Tuesday—Rev. D. P. Jones Asked to Reconsider His Resignation—Cedar Avenue Church King's Daughters to Celebrate First Anniversary.

The German church of Priceburg is making rapid progress. The trustees has secured a lot, and is not passing the charter through court. The work of erecting a home will begin as soon as spring opens.

The Calvinistic Methodist church of Bellevue will meet next Tuesday to elect three trustees.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Bellevue church gave its annual report last Sunday evening. During the year they paid $300 for necessary repairs in the church and now have $20 on hand.

The Biblical and Literary society of Bellevue, hold weekly meetings in the Calvinistic Methodist church. Last Sunday they proved their love for the church by presenting $50 to the fund. Last year they did the same. This society has on its roll some of the leading citizens of Bellevue.

Next Tuesday afternoon the West Side pastors will meet at the home of Rev. R. G. Jones, when a paper will be read by Rev. A. W. Cooper, on "A Brief Glance at Rationalism, or The Relation of Reason and Faith to Religion."

Many new members have been added to the Christian church, of Providence, and next Thursday the ladies will hold a free social, to give the church an opportunity to get better acquainted with these.

Baptists

A Macedonian call took Rev. T. J. Collins from the city to labor for a few days at Sayre, Pa. A sweeping revival has come upon the church of Rev. A. B. Browe and the special services held here completely exhausted the pastor. On Thursday morning a telegram was received by Mr. Collins urging him to come that day to aid the Sayre church. The reverend gentleman left, and will not return to his pulpit for the morrow. Rev. A. Reynolds, of Waverly, will occupy the pulpit of the Providence street church. Next Tuesday afternoon and evening Rev. J. G. Evans, pastor of the Welsh Baptist church of Oliphant, will be installed in the afternoon. Rev. D. J. Williams and Rev. W. Thomas, of Taylor, will preach. In the evening Rev. W. F. Davies will deliver the charge to the pastor and Rev. W. S. Jones will preach the charge to the church.

Very successful meetings have been held in the Welsh church of Providence during the past week, and the interest manifested has decided the pastor to continue them for next week again.

The coming of Rev. R. S. McArthur, D. D., New York, is anxiously looked for by many in our city. He is one of the best orators of the day, and has thoroughly mastered the art of public speaking. He will lecture on Thursday evening in the Elm Park church, and on Friday evening in the Jackson Street church. The doctor should be greeted with full honors.

Congregational

Last Sunday evening the Tabernacle church, by all but a unanimous standing vote, asked their pastor, Rev. D. P. Jones, to reconsider his resignation. The reverend gentleman did not give them a definite promise to do so, but cordially thanked them for such a gratifying manifestation of god work.

A Christian Endeavor rally will be held at the Plymouth church next Friday evening, when several interesting addresses will be given by those active and interested in the movement.

Rev. J. Tryon Jones, of Pittsburg, called on friends in the city this week. The reverend gentleman is very successful in his present field and added to the church twenty-one members by the confession of faith during the month of January.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Welsh church, of Providence, will hold a festival on Washington's birthday.

The Sunday School of the Welsh church, of Providence, have taken up the campaign of "The Three Guardians" which they set forth two years ago, and will soon present it again to the public.

A committee has been appointed for a farewell meeting to Rev. D. P. Jones, providing he will not reconsider his resignation.

The Sunday School of the Parian church expect to enjoy the Brownsies next Friday evening. They will perform in the armory.

The new officers recently elected in the Parian Sunday school are doing good work. The school flourished under their management, and the scholars soon hope to go to their new quarters.

Episcopalians

The young people of the St. David's church will hold a social and entertainment next Tuesday evening at the rectory on South Main avenue. Among the performers will be Miss Margaret Gibbs and Mrs. O. E. Burkhard, of Green Ridge. After the entertainment refreshments will be served.

A number of St. David's people attended a social given by one of the guilds of the Trinity church, of Carbondale, last Wednesday evening.

Rev. S. S. Marquis, assistant of Rev. Rogers Israel, has declined to leave his present field and expects to enter work in Massachusetts.

The New York Churchman published a very interesting article from Rev. M. H. Mills, rector of St. David's, giving a brief history of the church from its erection to the present day. During Mr. Mills' ministry the debt has been paid, many improvements effected and the membership increased from 63 to 100. Among the improvements effected are the remodeling of the basement and the insertion of a steam heating apparatus. The prospects are bright and the St. David's people believe that there is a future for their church.

Next Wednesday will be Ash Wednesday, when services will be conducted at 10 a. m. at St. David's church. During Lent the rector will conduct daily services at 4 p. m., save on Friday evening, when service will be at 7:30 p. m.

Special Lenten service will be held at the Grace Reformed church next Friday evening to be conducted by Rev. Richard Horne.

Lutherans

The Ladies' Aid society, of Christ church, Cedar avenue, is making preparations to celebrate its seventh anniversary on Feb. 13.

Lenten season begins next Wednesday and Rev. E. L. Miller, of the Holy Trinity church, will conduct four services each week, besides the Sunday service. Next program has been printed and will be distributed tomorrow. A special service will be held each Saturday afternoon for children, at 4 o'clock.

The Holy Trinity church is resolved to make a final effort to clear the remaining debt. Pyramids will be dismantled among young and old, and into which special offerings can be placed during Lent.

The Women's union of the Holy Trinity church, passed at their regular meeting last Thursday to purchase a chandelier for the main audience room.

Methodists

At the close of the prayer meeting last week the congregation of Rev. J. Suter, of the Second German church, surprised their pastor by celebrating his birthday with song and good cheer. A very pleasant evening was spent.

The committee of the German Methodist Episcopal Sunday schools will meet next Wednesday at the parsonage of Rev. G. Hauser, pastor of the First German church, when a programme will be drafted out for the next conference.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First German church elected the following officers at their annual meeting: President, Mrs. G. Hauser; assistant, Mrs. T. Roth; secretary, Mrs. M. Schroeder; treasurer, Mrs. A. Dietzel. The society is in a flourishing condition and its annual report was very complimentary to the organization.

The last quarterly meeting for this conference year of the Wyoming district, will be held tomorrow morning in the following churches: Park Place, Hampton Street, West Waverly, Presiding, Elder J. G. Eckman will conduct the evening service at the Park Place church.

Love feasts will be conducted tomorrow morning at 9:30 by Rev. A. W. Cooper and Rev. I. P. Jones.

The King's Daughters of the Cedar Avenue church will celebrate their anniversary tomorrow evening. They will have charge of the regular evening exercises, and a full report will be given.

The Cedar Avenue church is about to add sixteen feet to the rear of its edifice. The contract has been awarded to Sprink Bros. The addition will comprise a room that can be used by the Epworth league and Ladies' Aid society. A gallery will be built in the rear of the pulpit where the organ will be placed and the choir will sing. The work will probably be completed in a few weeks.

The Foreign Women's mission of the Providence church met last Wednesday and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Maria Cahoon; secretary, Mrs. Charlotte Marab; treasurer, Mrs. J. T. Nyhart. This is the oldest society in the conference, and Mrs. Charlotte Gardner, retiring president, has held office for nearly twenty-one years.

Rev. M. Colville, D. D., of Birmingham, has been called to Hanson Place church, Brooklyn, which has a membership of over 2,000 persons. His transfer will probably take place early in April.

Next Monday evening the quarterly conference will be held at Park Place church. Pastor Jones will conduct special meetings during the week, beginning Tuesday morning.

Presbyterian

Tomorrow evening the Christian Endeavor society of the Providence church, will celebrate Endeavor Day. The evening service will be conducted by them, and the order of service published by the United Society of Christian Endeavor will be followed.

The published pamphlet comprises appropriate passages bearing on the three lines of activity suggested by the international convention. They are: "Our Denomination," "Good Citizenship," and "Benevolence." A very interesting exercise is anticipated.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Providence church expect to hold a social the latter part of next week. A good program is being prepared by the international convention. They are: "Our Denomination," "Good Citizenship," and "Benevolence." A very interesting exercise is anticipated.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Washburn street church will hold its anniversary meeting next Tuesday evening, when the address will be given by Rev. Mills, of Wilkes-Barre.
