GOV. M'KINLEY AT CHICAGO

He Speaks at the University and Union League Celebrations.

IT WAS AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS

The Ohio Statesman Is Greeted with an Ovation, and His Remarks Frequently Interrupted by Applause--He Laid Emphasis on the Fact that the Future of the Country Rested with Students and Scholars of Today.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. GOVERNOR WILLIAM M'KINLEY was the guest of the University of Chicago for a brief half hour this morning, and he was accorded a characteristic welcome by the students of that institution. It was the first official celebration of Washington's birthday since the university was formally opened, and the great laboratory in which the exercises were held was packed to overflowing. When the Ohio governor appeared, arm-in-arm with President W. R. Harper, it seemed as if Bellum had broken loose. Cheers and counter-cheers, college yells and class yells, and the piping voice of the girl students, who they waved their emerald handkerchiefs in union, all combined to make a splendid but withal noisy ovation. After the singing of patriotic selections Governor McKinley was presented and spoke for five minutes on the relations of the future of the country rested upon the students and scholars of the present generation, and urged that nothing was more calculated to promote the peace and prosperity of the Republic than the observance of patriotic duties by the rising generation. The governor received an ovation when he left the hall.

THE DEMAND FOR ADMISSION TICKETS. Between 6,000 and 7,000 people of both sexes crowded the auditorium and its approaches this afternoon to participate in the recognition of the day under the auspices of the Union League of Chicago. Admission was solely by ticket and fully 4,000 applications were received after the last of the covered piazzards had been given out.

Upon the platform were ministers representing nearly every denomination, the presidents of the various universities and colleges and of the city clubs, General Miles and his staff and other special guests of the club. The exercises opened with a rendition of patriotic airs. The invocation was pronounced by Charles H. Fowler, of Minneapolis, and President John P. Wilson felicitously introduced the orator of the day, Governor William McKinley, and the applause that followed continued for several minutes.

The governor spoke for one hour, enlivening Washington and drawing lessons from his life, but avoiding all political references. The exercises closed with singing of "America" by the audience. It had originally been arranged that the governor should be escorted from the Union League club to the Auditorium by the members of the Cook County Republican marching club, in evening dress, silk hats, white umbrellas, a band of sixty pieces, and a carriage with six white horses.

Objections to this programme, however, were made by several members of the Union League on the ground that the governor was the guest of that institution, and that partisan politics should not enter into the celebration of the day. The members of the Republican club were inclined to insist upon carrying out their programme, but the governor himself cut the knot by cordially but firmly declining the proposed escort.

At the Union League banquet that followed the exercises of the auditorium, Associate Justice Brewer, of the supreme court of the United States; Bishop Fowler, Congressman W. J. Bryan, of Nebraska; Hon. John S. Wise, and Governor McKinley delivered addresses.

THE DARBY MYSTERY.

Coroner's Jury Unable to Decide Between Murder and Suicide. MEDIA, Pa., Feb. 22.—The Upper Darby mystery is not any nearer a solution than upon the morning when the dead body of the man supposed to be C. A. Hanne, of St. Louis was found in the swamp. Coroner Quibben has completed the inquest and the jury found a verdict that death was caused by pistol shot wounds inflicted by some person unknown.

This conclusion was reached after Detective Frank Geyer had made a report in which he expressed the belief that it was a case of suicide. The remains of the dead man have been buried, but the coroner is receiving numerous inquiries about missing people. None of them correspond, however, to the photograph of the man in question.
