VERDICT FOR MULLEY

Jury Says His Copyright Was Infringed on by J. E. Williams.

THE DEFENDANT'S CONTENTION

Declares That His Agents Entirely Revised and Corrected Mr. Mulley's Directory—Arguing for an Injunction to Restrain an Alleged Infringement of a Patent—New Trial Asked for in the Lackawanna Case.

The jury in the case of B. E. Leonard and Patrick Mulberry against the Equity Improvement company, brought in a verdict yesterday morning to the effect that the United States Circuit court for the western district of Pennsylvania had no jurisdiction in the matter.

Ambrose Mulley against J. E. Williams, proprietor of Williams' Scranton City Directory for infringement of copyright, was the next case called. Attorneys S. B. Price and H. M. Hannah represented Mr. Mulley and Attorney E. H. Risley of Utica, N. Y., and Attorney C. S. Woodruff of this city, Mr. Williams.

In 1885 Mr. Mulley had copyrighted a book called "Mulley's Scranton Street Directory and City Guide," a feature of which was a street directory showing the location and length of the streets of the city. The book was published in 1887.

In 1887 Mr. Mulley entered into an agreement with Mr. Williams to be permitted to use his street directory in the Williams City directory of that year. It is alleged that every year since then the street directory has been a feature of Mr. Williams' city directory and that it has been used without Mr. Mulley's consent. To recover damages for that infringement the suit was brought.

WHAT DEFENDANT CLAIMS

It is contended on the part of Mr. Williams that when he used Mr. Mulley's street directory in 1887 he discovered a number of errors and the following year he had it entirely revised and corrected from information obtained by agents appointed by him. He thereafter considered that it was his property.

When the case was called counsel for the defense asked that the plaintiff's declaration be dismissed. When the plaintiff rested, defendants asked for a non suit, but both motions were refused. An effort to get binding instructions for the jury also failed.

THAT INJUNCTION CASE

After the Miller case went to the jury argument was heard on the application for an injunction by William Kellogg against E. W. Barway, of Hazleton, from infringing on a weather strip, of which Mr. Kellogg is the patentee. The defendant claims that his idea is such an improvement on the Kellogg strip as is allowed by law.

Immediately afterward a new trial was argued for in the case of Thomas Ruddy, executor of Francis J. Ruddy, deceased, against the Michigan Mutual Life Insurance company. Mr. Ruddy sued to recover $5,000 which he said was due on a life insurance policy held by Francis J. Ruddy. The case was tried a year ago before Judge Buffington and a verdict returned in favor of the company, which alleged that the policy was obtained by false representations.

Es-Judge W. H. Stanton argued for a new trial yesterday afternoon and Major Everett Warren and Attorney George M. Watson opposed the motion. The session of the court will close today.

AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS.

An Effort Made to Recover Property Alleged to Have Been Sold. The case of Richard Ehle, administrator of the estate of Richard Ehle, deceased, against W. H. Davenport, was heard before arbitrators Fred W. Fleitz, J. W. Browning and Fred R. Stark yesterday and an award of no cause of action returned.

About eighteen years ago it was alleged that W. H. Davenport gave to his father-in-law, Richard Ehle, a bill of sale for the farm implements and stock on a farm at Taylor worked by Davenport. The property was valued at about $3,000.

It continued to remain in the possession of Davenport during the lifetime of Mr. Ehle. After his death his son, who is also his administrator, demanded that Davenport turn over the property mentioned in the bill of sale or the value thereof. Davenport refused and the action was brought.

Attorneys Hulshander and Voburg appeared yesterday at the hearing for Mr. Ehle and attorneys George S. Horn and John M. Harris for Mr. Davenport.

The arbitrators took the ground that if the older Ehle had a vested claim to the property he would not have allowed eighteen years to elapse without making an effort to enforce his rights.

DEATH OF A. H. COLEMAN.

Deceased Was One of the Best Known Merchants of the City. After an illness of five weeks, A. H. Coleman, the well known merchant of this city, died yesterday afternoon at his home on Jefferson avenue. He leaves a widow and one daughter, and is also survived by his brother, W. A. Coleman, and two sisters, Miss Harriet Coleman, of this city, and Mrs. C. L. Wheeler, of Cohocton, N. Y.

Mr. Coleman was a son of the late Alexander and Catharine Coleman, and was born in 1817 in Clifford, Susquehanna county. He came to Scranton over thirty years ago and has long been identified with the business interests of the city.

JANITOR STONE'S AFFLICTION.

He Suffered a Paralytic Stroke Yesterday Afternoon. James Stone, the janitor of the court house, was afflicted with a stroke of paralysis yesterday afternoon. Mr. Stone was in Alderman O. B. Wright's office at the time. Deputy Sheriff Bortree and Constable George Wilson assisted him outside of the building, thinking the air would revive him.

SCHOONOVER'S ATTEMPT TO DIE

A Special Policeman and Employed at Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Freight Depot—Not a Drinking Man but Came Home Intoxicated—Reported That His Wife's Conduct May Be the Cause—His Recovery Doubtful.

ANOTHER HANDSOME BUILDING.

Buff Pressed Brick Building on Spruce Street a City Ornament. What will be one of the handsomest business structures in the city is the four-story edifice under construction at 410, 412 and 414 Spruce street. Builder M. E. Worley, a young man who has of late been recognized in the front rank of the city's prominent contractors, is doing the work for Schimpff, Christian & Watson, Lackawanna and Western freight depot.

He came home for supper slightly intoxicated and was chided by his wife. Both entered their bedroom where Schoonover whipped a revolver from his pocket and pointed it at his wife, threatening to shoot her. She ran from the room, and after about five minutes had elapsed a shot was heard. The door was opened and Schoonover was found lying upon the bed naked and blood oozing from a bullet wound in the left breast about two inches below the heart. Dr. Lonetree was summoned at once and Dr. O'Malley later. They probed for the bullet, but could not extract it and said he could not live.

Schoonover has not been a drinking man, his inclinations in that direction only extending to an occasional glass of beer, and his friends are at a loss to understand his being intoxicated last night. He was seen at 4:30 o'clock in apparent good spirits and sober.

WAS THIS THE CAUSE?

Up to a week ago Mr. and Mrs. Schoonover lived in Pine Brook, at the corner of Penn avenue and Ash street. They left to reside with Mrs. Schoonover's parents on the West Side, where the shooting occurred. It is reported that the change of residence was due to some domestic unpleasantness, which may have played a part in yesterday's tragedy. Mrs. Schoonover is a girl in years and quite pretty.

Schoonover is a special policeman and in that capacity probably carried the revolver with which he committed last night's deed. Last summer he shot and slightly wounded a man named Scanlon while trying to arrest him for disturbing the peace. Scanlon caused Schoonover's arrest and the case is now pending in court.

HIS CHARACTER GOOD.

At the house of Nay Aug Engine company, of which Schoonover is a member, several were discussing the attempted suicide last night. All said he was looked upon by the members of the company as a sober, reliable, earnest and popular companion. None could assign any cause for the act and scented the idea of his being intoxicated last night. They said he was not a drinking man.

FUNERALS OF MINE VICTIMS.

Many Organizations Interested in the Burial Services. The victims of the cave-in and explosion at the Richmond mine will be interred in Forest Hill Cemetery today. Yesterday Coroner Kelly and jury, accompanied by Mine Inspector Roderick, Superintendent Grier and Charismatic, departed for the Richmond shaft and looked at the scene of the disaster. They afterwards viewed the bodies which lay prepared for interment at Undertaker Jones' establishment on North Main avenue.

The bodies of the last two victims found, Richards and Northey, presented a ghastly spectacle, their bodies being pulverized by the immense fall of rock. Several of their most intimate friends failed to recognize them. After the coroner and jury viewed the remains they adjourned and will meet Friday at the court house to hear testimony in the matter.

Knights of Phythias, have taken charge of the arrangements in connection with the burial of Richards, who was a member of that society. They have perfected arrangements to pay all possible honors to the deceased knight. The Liberty Hose company have taken their quota in mourning, in sorrowful regard for their departed brother Thomas Holwell, who was an esteemed member of the company.

Crowds gathered around Jones' undertaking establishment yesterday to take a look at the bodies of their late friends. The sight proved appalling to the most stout hearted.

Hon. L. S. Coffin, of Iowa, to Address Scranton's Railroad Men. Hon. L. S. Coffin, of Fort Dodge, Ia., will give a temperance address at the Railroad Department Young Men's Christian association tonight at 8 o'clock. He is also the author of the White Button work, the greatest temperance movement ever inaugurated among the railroad men of America.

Railroad employees and their families are cordially invited to attend Mr. Coffin's lecture.

RAZING THE FOREST HOUSE.

Erick Sample Room in Rear of Hotel Attached. The first steps towards razing the Forest House property were taken yesterday when workmen attacked the small two story brick sample room in the rear. A large portion of the upper story had been torn down before night-fall.

As rapidly as possible the furniture and fixtures of the hotel proper are being sold and as soon as they are disposed of that historic structure will be removed. With it almost the last of the notable landmarks of the center of the city will have disappeared.

MINE ACCIDENT INVESTIGATION.

Coroner Kelly and Jury Made a Trip Down Into the Mine. Coroner Kelly and the jury impanelled to investigate the Richmond shaft accident, yesterday morning viewed the remains of Richards and Northey and went down into the mine to study the locality of the catastrophe.

THEY WERE ACCOMPANIED BY MINE INSPECTOR Roderick and Superintendent Grier, but descended no further than the fourteen-foot vein. Gas, foul air and a vast quantity of water prevented a further descent. Members Richards and Sykes of the jury are practical miners, and, if feasible, will today visit the exact locality of the accident.

The inquest will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the arbitration room at the court house.

DUNMORE.

James McAndrew, a miner employed in the Bunker Hill slope of the Pennsylvania Coal company, met with a painful accident yesterday forenoon. He had been endeavoring to bar down a loose piece of bone rock, but was unsuccessful. Thinking the rock solid, he commenced to work under it, when it fell, striking him across the back, breaking three ribs and injuring his spine. The piece of rock was about three inches thick and two feet square. Had it struck him on the head it would undoubtedly have killed him instantly.

WILL OF JOHN W. LYNCH.

It Was Withdrawn and Letters of Administration Granted. Register of Wills Koehler heard testimony yesterday with regard to the legality of the will of John W. Lynch, of Providence who died about two weeks ago. The matter was brought before the register by a caveat obtained by James Lynch, brother of the deceased, who alleged that his brother had no knowledge of the contents of the will he is supposed to have executed.

At the hearing, Attorneys Hulshander & Voburg appeared for James Lynch and Attorney David Reedy for Mrs. Mary Lynch, wife of the deceased, to whom the will left all of Mr. Lynch's property.

Alderman Horan, who drew up the will, said that John W. Lynch was about to expire when the document was finished and he was unable to make known its contents to him. It was thereupon agreed that the will was not a legal document, and it was withdrawn and letters of administration granted to John Haggerty.

Lynch was the owner of a house and lot at Providence and had several hundred dollars in bank.
